HOOVER PLAN WINS ACCLAIM; MORATORIUM FIGHT LOOMING; BANKS ACT TO ASSIST OTHERS

CABINET FALLS; HINDENBURG IN DICTATOR ROLE

CUT IN DOLE LOOMS; WAGE SLASH NEAR

Bruening Is Forming New Ministry as Police Powers Widen.

Berlin, Oct. 7 (A.P.).—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening got rid of his entire cabinet today and immediately undertook formation of a new government that will rule Germany under a virtual dictatorship.

The resignations of the complete ministry were submitted by the chancellor to Paul Von Hindenburg, the nation's stern old warrior president, and Herr Bruening straightway was commissioned to form a cabinet whose members will be able to withstand nationalist and national socialist attacks when the Reichstag reconvenes next Tuesday.

With the ministerial shift came a long series of new emergency decrees, signed by the president, which give the government far-reaching powers in dealing with the nation's financial and economic burden and in thwarting attempts of the opposition parties to make Germany fascist or communist.

Reach Private Life.

These decrees were interpreted by some observers as sufficiently elastic to enable the government to abrogate such fundamentals as the inviolability of the person, the home and the mails.

They reach far into the province of private business, even to the salaries of certain employes. The government is empowered to declare void any long term contract betwen employer and employe which stipulates a salary of more than $3,500.

The decrees also provided:

Federal aid for communes and states in persuading foreign creditors to convert short term loans into long term loans.

Payment of one-third of unemployment doles in kind.

Cessation of construction of administrative buildings for three years.

Reduction of high pensions.

Stringent savings bank regulations.

Curb on Capitalization.

Special powers for police to be used against subversive movements; any one knowing of the existence of illegal or subversive documents must report them to the authorities, who may confiscate even the equipment on which they are printed.

Clubs and other gathering places for radicals may be closed summarily.

Lowering of the capitalization of business concerns to meet changed economic conditions.

While the nation pored over these new and extraordinary powers assumed by the government in accordance with the constitutional provision designed to meet emergencies, Herr Breuning sought to form a cabinet.

In that task it was known he intended to be guided solely by the personal standing of the available candidates and not by their party connections.

Indications are that some of the old cabinet members will be held over in the new government.

Battled for Economy.

The Bruening cabinet engaged in a constant battle for rigid economy, financial reform and economic rehabilitation from the very moment of its inception.

Formed by Chancellor Bruening March 29, 1930, it went before the Reichstag for its first test April 3, winning a majority of 68 votes. "Work or quit" was the slogan of the steely-voiced, bespectacled chancellor and the Reichstag, despite the complexity of German partisan politics, generally obeyed the crack of the whip.

Twice, however, Bruening adopted semidictatorial measures, authorized by article 48 of the German constitution, to impose his fiscal reforms upon the country. In July, 1930, despairing of Reichstag approval, he sought the aid of President von Hindenburg, who dissolved the Reichstag. For more than three

Iron Staff Touches Wire; Kills Worker

Rosslyn Man Loses His Life Erecting Flagpole at Oil Firm's Plant.

Shocked when a 40-foot iron flagpole he was helping erect in Rosslyn, Va., fell against overhead high tension wires, Joseph Calhoun, 55 years old, Rosslyn, was pronounced dead on removal to Emergency Hospital yesterday.

Calhoun, who has been employed at American Oil Co. plant No. 2 for about ten months, was attempting to insert the base of the pole in a standing pipe in the yard of the plant.

He was picked up and taken to Emergency Hospital by the driver of a passing truck. His wife, in the doorway of their home on the Georgetown-Alexandria pike, saw the truck pass, but was not informed of the tragedy until two hours later. There are two children, 2 and 13 years old, and the couple was expecting an addition to the family soon.

St. Lawrence Seaway Parleys to Be Direct

President Hoover Accepts Proposal of Canada; Envoys Will Handle Work Looking to Treaty Covering Mammoth Project.

(Associated Press).

The United States and Canada joined hands yesterday to transform into a reality the dream of a mammoth St. Lawrence River seaway through which ocean-going ships may pass from the Atlantic to the Great Lakes.

After years of discussion and uncertainty, agreement has been reached between the two governments to go ahead with negotiations looking to the framing of a treaty covering the vast development.

The project in its manifold phases, including disposal of the water power which would be developed, will be thrashed out in direct diplomatic intercourse.

Rather than appoint a commission, as the United States has suggested, the Canadian government expressed the view that, in the initial stages, "progress would be more definitely assured by direct and verbal exchange of views between the two governments."

President Hoover, the State Department's brief announcement added, has agreed to this procedure. The matter will be handled through the respective American and Canadian ministers—Hanford MacNider and William D. Herridge.

The project had been at a standstill since Secretary Kellogg sent a note informing the Canadian government the United States was ready to appoint a committee to negotiate a treaty.

When the Canadian government changed, a similar note was sent about a year ago calling attention to the previous message.

In reply it was stated that other matters prevented consideration by Prime Minister Bennett at that time.

President Hoover is desirous of pushing the project as a means of

U. S. SEEKS REPORT ON MUKDEN DISPUTE

Stimson Sends Two Observers to Investigate Sino-Japanese War Crisis.

Two American diplomatic observers have been ordered to Mukden to report personally to Secretary Stimson the present conditions of Japanese occupation of Manchuria, it was announced yesterday by Acting Secretary of State William R. Castle, jr.; George Hanson, American Consul General at Harbin, who speaks fluent Chinese, and Laurence E. Salisbury, secretary of the American Embassy in Tokio, who is equally proficient in Japanese, will make a joint survey of the present crisis in Sino-Japanese relations.

The action of Secretary Stimson was, however, decided before the Chinese made their appeal to the nations for an investigation of the situation now existing in southern Manchuria. So many contradictory reports have been coming from the affected region that Secretary Stimson decided to form his own opinion of the situation there. The two American observers will first meet American Consul General Myers, who is now in Mukden, and then will proceed along the Chinese Eastern Railway to the five towns that have been reported occupied by Japanese troops.

Japanese Ambassador Debuchi called on Mr. Castle yesterday afternoon, and explained at great length the progress of Japanese evacuation. At the present time the Japanese have in Manchuria, including the towns they have provisionally occupied and their section of the Chinese Eastern Railway, only 14,400 soldiers. This, Ambassador Debuchi claimed, is 600 less than the Japanese government is authorized to maintain by the terms of its treaty with China.

Although the American observers have been in the disputed region for the past three days, no reports have been received by the Secretary of State yet.

Lindberghs Will Sail For United States Today

Shanghai, Oct. 7 (A.P.).—Because of the death of Mrs. Lindbergh's father, Senator Dwight W. Morrow, Col. and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh abandoned their aerial vacation today and arranged to leave at 9 a. m. tomorrow for the United States.

The Lindberghs' decision was made after an exchange of cablegrams with relatives and associates in America. They will catch the liner President Jefferson at Yokohama next Saturday, reaching Seattle October 20.

END OF PARLIAMENT HERALDS CAMPAIGN

Coming Election Battle Is Expected to Make or Break MacDonald.

London, Oct. 7 (A.P.).—The sixth Parliament of the reign of King George V was dissolved today, and Britain swung into an intensive three weeks' campaign for a general election that will be historic.

Ramsay MacDonald's National government will be returned to power or wrecked on the broken ranks of Conservatives and Liberals over which Labor again may march to victory.

On the London Stock Exchange, where election bets take the form of business transactions in "majorities," deals were made today that the National Government will be returned with a majority of 150 in the House of Commons.

The program on which the government will go to the nation was set forth by Mr. MacDonald in a manifesto in which he called for the inauguration of a monetary policy that will establish the pound sterling "in confidence and authority."

The prime minister foreshadowed negotiations for international agreements "which will remove some of the most fruitful causes of the economic misfortunes—such as war debts and reparations—from which the whole world is now suffering."

He pleaded for national unity in the nation's period of "recovery and readjustment."

In these changing times, he said, no one can make specific pledges, and therefore "the government must be free to consider every proposal likely to help, such as tariffs, expansion of exports and contraction of imports, commercial treaties, and mutual economic arrangements with the dominions."

Mr. MacDonald followed up his manifesto with a radio appeal to the nation in which he attempted to make evident to the humblest wage-

Treasury Will Float New Issue October 13

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Mellon announced last night that tenders would be received for $50,000,000 in 90-day Treasury bills which will be sold to the highest bidder on October 13.

The bills will be dated October 15 and will mature on January 13. Proceeds of the sale will be used to retire Treasury certificates which mature on October 13.

Doolittle Will Refuel Here In Canada to Mexico Flight

Speed Pilot Visits Officials in City to Arrange for His Dawn-to-Dusk Dash From Ottawa to Southern Republic's Capital Monday.

Maj. "Jimmy" Doolittle, premier American speed pilot and holder of the transcontinental record, dropped in on Washington yesterday, conferred with Government officials and last night announced plans for a new distance flight, a dawn-to-dusk trip from Ottawa to Mexico City to be made next Monday, Columbus day, with a refueling stop scheduled for Washington.

Doolittle will fly his Laird racer, "Super Solution," in which he crossed the continent on September 4 in 11 hours and 16 minutes, on the new trip that will link for the first time in a day the capitals of Canada, the United States and Mexico over an air route of 2,442 miles.

Stops will be made at Bolling Field, in Washington; Birmingham, Ala., and Corpus Christi, Tex.

Arriving at Hoover Airport early yesterday Maj. Doolittle was met by Leighton Rogers, chief of the Aeronautics Trade Division, Department of Commerce. Later he conferred with State, Treasury and War Department officials regarding the clearance of customs formalities when he crosses the Candian and Mexican international lines, as well as airport and fuel supply facilities at cities on the route.

The fast biplane the famous pilot will use is capable of a cruising speed of a little more than 200 miles an hour.

Commenting on the proposed trip last night, Maj. Doolittle said: "Weather permitting, I will take off from Ottawa Monday at daylight, arriving here at Bolling Field around 7 o'clock."

In comparing the flight with his recent record trip across the country, the distances of which are almost exactly the same, he said: "As the route lies in a southwesterly direction, there will be a greater chance of having to buck head winds than on a transcontinental flight. I hope to reach Mexico City before 5 o'clock in the afternoon. I do not expect to

CARDS SCORE, 5-1; HALLAHAN, MARTIN STAR

SOUTHPAW SHUTS OUT MACKMEN UNTIL 7TH

Hoyt, Walberg and Rommel Yield Runs; Pepper Is Caught Stealing.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH
(Sports Editor of The Post).

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 7.—Pepper Martin was on the loose in Shibe Park again this afternoon and this fifth game of the world series proved to be a delineation of Pepper Martin, by Pepper Martin, for the Cardinals, so executed and so dedicated that the final score showed: Pepper Martin, five runs; Philadelphia, one run.

In Pepper Martin, stocky, suntanned, center field sensation, the Cardinals found victory today; decisive, conclusive, important victory that finds them leading the world series, three games to two and ready to carry the battle back to their native St. Louis heath on Friday for the sixth and possibly the seventh games.

The Martin act, a regular feature of every game of the 1931 series, this afternoon was adorned and embellished with the most remarkable performance in a series of remarkable performances by the Royal Nonesuch of the Cardinals, whose feats delivered unto St. Louis four of the five runs they scored today.

He drove in the first run of the ball game with a long fly off Waite Hoyt in the first inning. But they really paid off on his home run into the left field stands in the sixth that drove in Frisch ahead of him. That was three runs. He cemented the Cards' triumph in the eighth with a single that scored Watkins with the fourth run, his third successive hit of the game. He had no part in the making of the final run, and thus that, too, was remarkable.

Martin Equals Record.

And with only five games of this world series under the bridge, Martin has equaled the record for total hits in an autumn classic, his three hits today boosting his aggregate to twelve and tying the marks of Joe Jackson, Buck Herzog and Sam Rice.

Today again it was Wild Bill Hallahan, "Sweet William," to St. Louis fans, who had the able support of the Cataclysmic Martin. Today, Hallahan, with the complexion of a sheep and the heart of a lion, again held the vaunted Mackmen in the hollow of his capable left hand to score his second victory in this series and justify the faith of Manger Gabby Street.

Hallahan outlasted three Philadelphia pitchers—Waite Hoyt, for six innings, Walberg for two innings and Rommel for one. And it required all of Hallahan's iron nerve to ward off the ever-threatening eruption in the Philadelphia bat pile, but it was not until the seventh inning that he gave them a run and then he called a halt in the face of further ominous developments.

Manager Gabby Street pulled a strategical string at the outset when he sent Adams to bat to open the game and then withdrew his limping third baseman after getting the benefit of his single off Hoyt that set the

Mississippi House Votes Cotton Cut

Action Not Final; Several Amendments to Senate Bill Attached.

Jackson, Miss., Oct. 7 (A.P.).—Joining three other Southern States which have passed legislation in an effort to bolster cotton prices, the Mississippi House of Representatives today passed an amended bill to curtail the crop's acreage in this State.

The action was not final, however, since the House attached several amendments to the Senate-approved bill providing for reduction of cotton acreage for 1932 and 1933 to 30 per cent of all lands now in cultivation. Similar to the plan recently adopted by Texas, the Mississippi bill was passed by the House, 101 to 33.

Gov. Parnell addressed the Arkansas Legislature today and urged enactment of a law similar to the Texas plan for reducing cotton acreage in 1932 and 1933 to 30 per cent of the land now cultivated. He said he regarded that as the measure most likely to be adopted by other States.

Forbes Mum on Charge He Failed to Aid Fliers

Boston, Oct. 7 (A.P.).—Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes, visiting here, today said "I do not feel that I should comment on the statement," when told of the declarations of Clyde Pangborn during a banquet at Wenatchee, Wash., last night.

Pangborn, who with Hugh Herndon, jr., flew from Japan to the United States, charged the ambassador had failed to aid them when they were arrested in Japan for taking pictures while flying over fortified areas.

Institutions in New York Form Committee to Plan for Pool.

BANKERS ASSOCIATION APPROVES PROPOSAL

Houses Throughout Country to Be Asked to Join Move; Bond Market Strong.

New York, Oct. 7 (U.P.).—Leading bankers moved swiftly today in setting up the necessary machinery for carrying out President Hoover's proposal of a $500,000,000 banking pool to restore public confidence and release the "frozen assets" that are lengthening the business depression.

Under the chairmanship of Mortimer N. Buckner, president of the New York Clearing House Association, representatives of several of the city's largest banks and the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, formed a committee to work out plans for a national corporation through which aid will be extended to weak banks.

Progress in the formation of this "national corporation," was already reported before sundown. It will be directed by a board of twelve directors, one from each Federal Reserve district.

All Banks to Be Asked.

All banks throughout the country, according to Gov. George L. Harrison of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, will shortly be asked to participate in the understanding by subscribing to the extent of 2 per cent of their net demand and time deposits. The New York Clearing House banks already have pledged $150,000,000 toward the proposed $500,000,000 pool.

In addition to Harrison and Buckner, the committee will include: Charles S. McCain, president of the Chase National Bank (world's largest); Gordon S. Rentschler, president of the National City Bank of New York; George W. Davison, president, Central Hanover Bank & Trust Co.; Harry E. Ward, president, Irving Trust Co., and Herbert P. Howell, president, Commercial National Bank & Trust Co.

The new corporation will rediscount good commercial paper of banks heretofore not eligible for rediscount at the Federal Reserve Banks. Through this procedure, banks which are hard pressed for ready cash because of panicky withdrawals will be enabled to borrow rather than dump securities and mortgages on an already overburdened and demoralized market.

Approved by Association.

While the New York bankers were forming their committee, the American Bankers Association, in convention at Atlantic City, representing 25,000 financial institutions, voted approval of the Hoover pool plan.

Mrs. McLean Asks Limited Divorce

Publisher's Wife Requests His Removal as Trustee of Estate.

(Associated Press.)

Suit for limited divorce was filed here yesterday against Edward B. McLean, publisher of The Washington Post, by Evalyn Walsh McLean, who alleged marital unfaithfulness, and misconduct of the affairs of the McLean estate. No corespondent was named.

In a separate suit Mrs. McLean asked for her husband's removal as cotrustee of the estate, alleging that he had appropriated trust funds to his personal use, and by refusal to pay personal bills and otherwise had offended business men and damaged the interests of The Post.

The Post is a part of the estate of the late John R. McLean, father of Edward B. McLean. The son is cotrustee with a trust company.

Some months ago McLean filed suit for divorce in Mexico, but was enjoined by the local court from prosecuting it.

Mr. and Mrs. McLean have been living apart for months.

Edison Unchanged, Son's Report Says

Inventor Requires Support to Sit and Gradually Grows Weaker.

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 7 (A.P.).—Thomas A. Edison's condition was "virtually unchanged" at 10 o'clock tonight, said a bulletin issued by Charles Edison, his son.

Mr. Edison was described today by his physician, Dr. Hubert S. Howe, as mostly in a semiconscious state preceding a coma from which he would not emerge.

Dr. Howe said the snowy-haired inventor was much weaker and could not sit without support. He also reported Mr. Edison found it increasingly difficult to take fluids, a condition which, because of his complication of ailments, has given concern all week.

Laval Told of Hoover Plan to Discuss Debts

Good Feeling Over His Forthcoming Visit to U. S. Is Established in Transatlantic Phone Conversation Between Edge and Stimson.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Preliminary good feeling between Premier Laval and President Hoover was established by Secretary Stimson's initiative in outlining the President's intergovernmental debt proposal in a transatlantic telephone call to Ambassador Edge Tuesday afternoon immediately before the now historic White House midnight conference.

President Hoover summoned Secretary Stimson to the White House a few minutes before the Secretary was scheduled to leave for the funeral of the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow. The President explained in detail his proposal for the debt discussions which loom as the outstanding feature of the impending Laval visit.

Secretary Stimson's private discussions with Premier Laval this summer enabled him to foresee an insurmountable obstacle to the Hoover-Laval meeting if reduction of German reparations was in the agenda.

Secretary Stimson, therefore, determined to forestall any erroneous interpretations of the Hoover plan by outlining it in detail to Premier Laval even before the proposition was submitted to the leaders of the Senate and House.

Ambassador Edge was called on the transatlantic telephone at 5 o'clock. The Secretary of State gave him an exact resume of the President's proposals and requested him to deliver it to the French prime minister immediately. Despite the lateness of the hour—it was then almost 11 o'clock at night in Paris—Ambassador Edge called at the premier at his home and gave him the Secretary's message.

The first thing in the morning Premier Laval dispatched to the American Embassy his word of appreciation

EUROPEANS PRAISE HOOVER PROPOSAL

Rome, Paris, Berlin, London Praise Move to Relieve World's Distress.

Rome, Oct. 7 (A.P.).—Political, banking and business leaders here today expressed themselves enthusiastically over President Hoover's financial proposal made at a White House conference last night.

They declared the United States alone was able to furnish the strong leadership required to solve the world's financial problems and expressed the belief that if the President took a strong stand the economic depression might be ended.

The gist of the comment was that the President and the United States stood in a good position to say to Europe, in effect, "We will help you if you get together and if you solve such obvious problems as disarmament."

The reaction on the market here was strong. Government bonds showed a firmer tone, Bank of Italy jumped 15 points, electricals 5 to 7 points and Fiat Motors 4 points.

The government made no comment, but it was unofficially observed that President Hoover's initiative was welcomed and that Italy favors any workable methods and is willing to cooperate to the extent of her capacity.

Paris, Oct. 7 (A.P.).—French newspapers and financial circles devoted much attention today to discussions of the possibilities of President Hoover's financial proposals, much of the discussion turning on whether the plan might include a possible further extension of the moratorium on war debts.

Lord Reading, British foreign minister, conferred here today with Premier Pierre Laval, who is soon to leave for Washington, and while no announcement was made after the conferences, it was understood the possibility of a further moratorium was discussed. Foreign Minister Aristide Briand and Finance Minister

AID TO HOME BUYER URGED BY PRESIDENT

Mr. Hoover Confers With Realty, Insurance and Loan Men.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

President Hoover yesterday moved to bring about agreement between real estate, insurance and building and loan interests on a program to relieve small home buyers of their existing heavy financial burdens.

Ten representatives of the three businesses, comprising the finance committee of the home owning and building conference called by the President, met with the Chief Executive in the Cabinet room in the executive offices to discuss the problem.

Creation of a central mortgage rediscount bank, under Government supervision, was urged by representatives of the real estate men, but other interests found the real estate proposal unpalatable and, to quote Secretary of Commerce Lamont, a wide difference of opinion developed in the course of the three-hour conference.

Legislation would be required to set up the system proposed by the real estate men. It would consist of a central bank with member banks throughout the country, which would do for real estate mortgages what the Federal Reserve system, proscribed

Jobless Farm Hands Rob Spanish Villages

Cordoba, Spain, Oct. 7 (A.P.).—Hundreds of unemployed agrarians were reported plundering farmhouses, destroying crops and killing stock in four villages near here today.

Detachments of civil guards left Cordoba in buses for the villages of Villanueva, Montoro, Adamuz and Torre Compo, where the depredations were said to have occurred. No casualties were reported.

Quiet Alien Roundup Seen As Four Are Lodged in Jail

Both Immigration Authorities and Police Detectives Assigned to Aid Drive Decline to Discuss Arrests or Significance of Move.

Four men were held in the District Jail yesterday, the first victims of an alien roundup which is being conducted quietly by the Bureau of Immigration with cooperation of the Metropolitan Police Department.

Frank Hurtl, Karl Kadic, Ernest Sluga and Frank Sluga are the quartet in custody, the Slugas detained for action of immigration authorities and the others booked on open charges. Hurtl is 39 and lives at 1715 P street northwest; Kadic, 30, 1631 S street northwest; Ernest Sluga, 24, 1003 H street northwest; Frank Sluga, 27, same address.

Inspector P. S. W. Burke, who assigned Detectives Arthur Pihelly, William DuBuskey and A. D. Mansfield to assist the Federal investigators, declined to discuss the roundup. Comment on significance of the arrests could not be obtained from immigration authorities.

Recently, however, it became known that Department of Labor agents have been quietly and energetically delving into alleged workings of a purported world-wide ring of immigration racketeers. Assistant Secretary of Labor Murray W. Garrson, in charge of the inquiry, was said to have been proceeding on the theory that a large percentage of aliens entering and remaining in this country since present immigration restrictions took effect are here illegally.

The alleged immigration ring has been described by Assistant Secretary Garrson as the "most loathsome racket in the United States," adding that the prime object of the investigation was to apprehend the "master minds." Many of the aliens have suffered pitifully from demands made upon them by "racketeers" and discovery and deportation of the aliens illegally here was described as a secondary object of the department.

Immigration authorities pointed out that local police in all parts of the country from time to time arrest aliens without proper citizenship credentials and hold them for the Labor Department's scrutiny.

Move Is Hailed as Likely to Result in Release of Hoarded Money.

ALL EYES ARE TURNED ON EARLY LAVAL VISIT

President Warned of Battle in Congress if He Asks Further Debt Delay.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

President Hoover's plan for rehabilitating American business was widely acclaimed yesterday.

At the same time, however, the President was warned that he would meet with stiff opposition in Congress if he sought to extend the one-year moratorium on Europe's war debts.

At Tuesday night's conference at the White House, President Hoover told the 32 Republican and Democatic leaders of Congress he had called in that he intended to discuss the question of intergovernmental debts with Premier Laval of France, who is scheduled to arrive here two weeks hence.

Moratorium Extension.

At the outset of the White House conference, the statesmen got the impression that President Hoover wanted them to give their approval to a plan for extending the moratorium. They got this impression after the President had read a prepared statement.

So vigorous was the opposition to any such plan, however, that it was decided to have the White House statement say simply that the debt question would be discussed when Premier Laval comes here to visit President Hoover.

Sinister Note Sounded.

A sinister note was sounded in the general discussion of the President's program yesterday when a report spread about the Capitol that certain New Yorkers had advance knowledge of the program, and used this knowledge to make a "killing" in the stock market.

The market took a spectacular bound on Tuesday when it became known that the President had called in Republican and Democratic leaders for a conference on the economic situation. Yesterday, however, it subsided somewhat.

Senator Smith Wildman Brookhart, Republican insurgent, of Iowa, who was not invited to the White House conference, had this to say about the President's program:

"Wall street knew what the baby was before it was born, as was indicated by the stock market rise yesterday."

Boost to Recovery.

The President's domestic program for breaking the jam of frozen credits was hailed on Capitol Hill and throughout the country as one likely to restore confidence and smash the dike of doubt that has been keeping money out of circulation in the last year or so.

Even Alfred E. Smith, of New York, the President's rival in the last election, joined in the chorus of approval. The Democratic nominee of 1928 said the President's plan undoubtedly would be helpful in the present crisis.

Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, who now seems likely to oppose President Hoover in the 1932 election, would make no comment.

Comment Abroad Favorable.

The comment in Europe was for the most part favorable. Statesmen and editors abroad agreed that President Hoover had again demonstrated that he is the leader in the movement to lead the world out of its present economic plight.

There was one dispatch, however, that quoted an unnamed American banker as protesting against liberalising the law so that Federal Reserve Banks may make loans on securities that are now barred in such banks. The supposition here was that the banker in question was J. P. Morgan.

Arguing that if the President's complete plan is a good one there is no reason why he should wait until December to translate it into law, several members of Congress insisted that he call a special session. How-

PRESS COMMENTS ON HOOVER'S IDEA

Step Toward Bringing U. S. Out of Economic Slump Brings Opinions.

(Associated Press.)

New York Sun: The President has led the way to a remedy which may be applied before Congress meets to consider his recommendation that the eligibility provisions of the Federal Reserve act be broadened. The bankers of the country should respond with the support which Mr. Hoover asks.

Kansas City Star: The West will be particularly interested in the proposal to strengthen the Federal land banks to make them more serviceable to agriculture. * * * It may be taken for granted that the President's proposals can be developed in a way to be helpful to American industry, as well as agriculture.

Denver Post: President Hoover is running true to form. He has but one remedy for every governmental or economic ailment—organize a new commission. * * * On the strength of the announcement that political and business leaders had been summoned to Washington to hear the President outline his new relief program, security values increased $5,000,000,000 Tuesday. Wall street is more gullible than the rest of the country. In judging the new Hoover credit corporation scheme, the people of the West are Missourians—they will have to be shown.

Benefit of Unified Command.

The New York Herald Tribune: Practically overnight the country's credit resources have gained the benefit of a unified command. * * * the effect can not fail to be steadying upon distraught financial nerves. * * * with the full support of the country the savings to the wealth of the Nation—to the small home owners, to the depositor, to the investor—can be collosal.

The New York Times: The President's plan for meeting certain serious developments in the economic crisis is of high importance. His statement * * * is convincing and reassuring. The expedient contemplated ought to grapple efficiently with one of the most aggravating elements—the unnecessary run on widely separated banks and the resultant throwing on the market for whatever they will bring of investments held by them.

New York Evening Post: We approve of this (the proposal to extend the debt moratorium) and hope it may be true. With the second part of the program, freeing of frozen assets in our banks, we are in agreement in principle, as we would even welcome some degree of inflation at the present moment. The mere proposal may lessen fear and loosen assets.

Richmond (Va.) News-Leader: Mr. Hoover has broken the jam. There may be more wreckage and there may be mistakes of direction further down stream, but in the essential matter of affording new credits for threatened industry, Mr. Hoover has blasted the logs that caused the jam.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat—It is clear, however, that these (Hoover's proposals) go to some of the roots of our present economic situation, and are designed to strengthen the operating position of the banks in this crisis. * * *. They should by all means be regarded as nonpartisan measures and considered on their merits as devices for the general welfare of the country.

Getting Back to Fundamentals.

The Memphis Commercial Appeal—The plan appears to be a simple getting back to the elementals of all productiveness. * * * It is a necessary first step and it may be that its being taken will turn the steps of a disordered world back to paths that have been abandoned in the disorder.

Atlanta Journal—The revolving credit plan which the Nation's bankers are to undertake at President Hoover's suggestion is primarily an investment in public confidence, and there is every reason to expect the returns will be satisfactory.

The Alabama Journal, Montgomery—The reaction of the market centers to the plan showed the favor with which it was regarded. * * * The lassitude into which business has fallen during the past two years can not of course be overcome at once, but the upturn undoubtedly has begun and will become more rapid as it gains momentum.

Serving Desirable Ends.

The Baltimore Sun: If we were not passing through a period when common sense in many economic matters is taking a vacation, it would be quite impossible to justify this latest White House venture in economic statecraft. * * * However, given times as they are, it may be that President Hoover's program will have the controlling virtue of serving generally desirable ends and thus justify the means.

Ohio State Journal, Columbus: The most important progress against adverse conditions to date as registered by that most sensitive of barometers, the stock market, is President Hoover's plan for an organization which will release frozen credits and put idle money to work again.

Cincinnati Enquirer—President Hoover's program for the release of frozen credits and reestablishment of confidence appears to justify the enthusiastic reception it has received already.

Deserves National Support.

New Orleans Times-Picayune: President Hoover's proposal to form a half-billion dollar corporation to revive business is deserving of national support. The plan of introducing a bill in Congress to liberalize the limitations of the rediscount feature in the Federal reserve act may be sound. It depends on just what form of liberalization is finally proposed.

Philadelphia Public Ledger: The President's action may mark the turning point of the depression. The bankers and the leaders in Congress are pledged to do their part. But, as the President says, the American people must also respond to this call to a national duty by cooperating to the fullest extent with this plan for the welfare of all.

Philadelphia Record: To such leadership expressing itself in constructive action, the American people should and will respond by exhibiting steadiness and cooperation.

Hoover Rehabilitates Game of Put and Take

By JOHN J. DALY

ABOUT time somebody came to the rescue of the banks and bankers of the country, the poor fellows!

Ever since the so-called depression began—a lot of talk, by the way—the banks have been hit and hit hard. For some reason or other, people become panicky every now and then. At such times, the first step they take is to withdraw money from the banks. What they should do, of course, is keep their money in the banks and let the bankers, who know the mysteries of finance, handle it.

The banking business, an old established institution, used to be a lively game of put and take. Then, fast as the receiving teller got hold of a dollar bill, the paying teller took it away from him and put it back into circulation. Now, the money is all coming in, and nothing going out—which wrecks the banking business. Even the devil can not find work for idle coin.

They told so many stories about bankers that public confidence was shaken—until President Hoover called the boys in for a conference. Now, everything will be all right.

* * * *

THAT story about all bankers having two eyes, one of them glass, is wrong. Not all bankers have glass eyes, with humane glints in them.

Also, that yarn about the banker and his old college friend calling upon him for a loan. The tender-hearted banker began to weep as he heard the hard-luck story. So, reaching for his handkerchief, he pressed the buzzer on his desk and called the door-man: "Throw this fellow out," said the banker, "he's breaking my heart."

Calumny—that's what put the banking business where it is today.

With bankers admitted to the White House, the Nation may suppose that everything is now safe for plutocracy. It is the first time since early Colonial days that bankers have been permitted to go, in a body, to the Executive Mansion. A lone banker, not always a loan banker, occasionally has managed to get past White House portals; but seldom has a banker seen the President of the United States in private. The people, who are tolerant in almost everything else, would never stand for this, which is one reason why the Secret Service is on the job.

* * * *

NOW that the President has, in a measure, let down the bars and restored the banking profession—it can hardly be called a business—to its former respectability, it is reasonable to assume that the bankers will be given a new lease on life. Certainly they have every advantage—all the free publicity that a White House visit begets, with their pictures, in some instances, displayed in the local newspapers, so that inhabitants of the small towns, where the banks are in the worst shape, may come to believe again in the fundamental soundness of banks.

The action of the President will probably have a bad effect on the stocking trade, since people have been putting their surplus cash in old socks and the like; but one man's gain is usually another's loss.

Now that the bankers are getting back on their feet something ought to be done for the brokers—also broke.

HOOVER BUSINESS AID PLAN ACCLAIMED THROUGHOUT WORLD

ever, there was no indication that the President had weakened into his opposition against a special session.

The President's plan, agreed to "in principle" at the White House by both Republican and Democratic members of Congress, calls for creation of a $500,000,000 private credit pool to rediscount securities that can not now be handled by Federal Reserve banks; liberalizing of the law so that the Federal Reserve banks will be able to handle certain paper that is now ineligible and the advancing of more Government money to the Federal land banks so that they might give more aid to the farmers.

Calls for Alternative Step.

The President's program also called for an alternative step in the event the creation of a private pool of $500,000,000 does not succeed in thawing out the "frozen" credit situation on aiding imperiled banks.

If necessary, the President said, he would ask Congress to set up an institution modeled after the War Finance Corporaton. This institution, with money supplied by the Treasury, would stand ready to aid banks in danger of collapse.

Most senators and representatives took it for granted yesterday that the President's program would be translated into legislation early in the session which begins in December.

The talk at the Capitol was not so much about this program as it was about war debts.

Bankers Urge Revision.

Influential bankers, including those in New York who already have pledged themselves to subscribe $150,000,000 of the proposed $500,000,000 credit pool, have been urging the President not only to extend the moratorium, but to agree to a general revision of the war debts Europe owes this country.

Such action, they argue, would stimulate busines throughout the world, and would help lift America, along with other nations, out of the economic depression.

Bankers Group Indorsement.

Yesterday the American Bankers Association, meeting in Atlantic City, indorsed the President's general plan for rehabilitating the banking system, and at the same time adopted a resolution urging an extension of the debt moratorium beyond next June, when the one-year agreement expires.

The moratorium question was discussed for more than an hour at the White House Tuesday night, and, according to the version at the Capitol yesterday, President Hoover heard some plain and vigorous talk.

Representative John N. Garner, of Texas, minority leader of the House, and the prospective Speaker of that body if the Democrats organize it, led the fight against any commitment on the debt question.

Begin at Home, He Says.

Representative Garner contends that while in boom times it might be all rights to consider lightening Europe's debt burden, the present is no time to consider such a move. Right now, he argues, conditions being what they are, relief should begin at home.

Cancelaltion or revision of the $10,000,000,000 war debt which the World War allies in Europe owe this country, Mr. Garner holds, is simply being agitated by the American bankers so that they will be in a better position to collect something like $12,000,000,000 in private debts which Europe owes them.

Senator William E. Borah (Republican), of Idaho, who also took a prominent part in the debt discussion at the White House, is not altogether averse to revision or cancellation of the war debt. However, he would make revision or cancellation conditional on Europe's agreeing to real disarmament, a radical scaling down or cancellation of German reparations, and also revision of the Versailles Treaty.

Question Passed Over.

The discuison over the debt question at the White House came to an end when Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader in the Senate, and Undersecretary of State Ogden Mills argued that this question might very well be passed over and action taken on the domestic program.

When President Hoover gathered with the congressional leaders at the White House, according to the version of some of the men who were there, he read his prepared memorandum, and then said:

"This is what I want to recommend to Congress, and I want you gentlemen to underwrite it."

Representative Garner is reported to have made the following reply to this:

"Mr. President, this is the most extraordinary thing I have ever heard of. You virtually ask us to write your message to Congress, and then to underwrite it."

The Texan, it was stated, made this remark with a certain amount of levity, and all of those in the room joined in the laughter.

With few exceptions, those who attended the conference were of the opinion yesterday that the President's program would be helpful.

Senator Arthur Vandenberg (Republican), of Michigan, said the President's program would signalize the "dawn of a new day."

Senator Borah said that he believed that the plan would be "helpful:"

"However," he added, "I think Congress will have to add considerable to it to reach the farmer whose property is being sold for want of interest."

Garner Voices Approval.

Representative Garner said that he was in favor of the President's domestic plan. If the President had not proposed it, he said, there were 25 members ready to introduce legislation to cover the same program.

Representative Isaac Bacharach (Republican), of New Jersey, said the $500,000,000 that it is proposed to place in the credit pool might very well be increased to $1,000,000,000.

Senator Robert M. La Follette (Republican), of Wisconsin, another of the insurgents who was not asked to the White House, said he did not believe the program would be sufficient.

Senator Carter Glass (Democrat), of Virginia, said that he, like everybody else, was in favor of curing the depression. The question is, he said, just exactly how to cure it.

Hopes Move Will Help.

Representative Crisp (Democrat), of Georgia, said he hoped the President's move would "mean the end of the economic slough."

Representative Byrns (Democrat), of Tennessee, said he believed the program would go far in restoring confidence and stimulating business.

"But," he asked, "why not have Congress meet now to press it."

Several other members asked the same question. If, they argued, it was necessary for President Hoover to call 32 members to the White House to discuss ways and means of meeting a crisis, then the time has arrived to have the whole Congress assemble and take up his program for coping with that crisis.

The President has indicated several times that he is opposed to a special session, and there were no indications yesterday that he has changed his mind.

Donations Are Reported 9.8 Per Cent Beyond Sums Sought.

New York, Oct. 7 (A.P.).—Oversubscription of $125,000, or 9.8 per cent, for community chests in six cities was reported today by Owen D. Young, chairman of the committee on mobilization of relief resources of President Hoover's organization of unemployment relief.

The reports were for campaigns held in advance of the Nation-wide drive for October 19 to 25.

The reports covered the cities of Seattle, Wash.; Duluth, Minn.; Richmond, Ind.; Elgin, Ill.; Green Bay, Wis., and Wichita Falls, Tex.

HOOVER PLAN HAILED BY ALFRED E. SMITH

Proposal Helpful in Crisis, Says 1928 Candidate; Others Comment.

(Associated Press.)

Alfred E. Smith, former Governor of New York, who opposed Herbert Hoover in the 1928 presidential election, yesterday said of the President's plan to assist business:

"Undoubtedly President Hoover's plan to aid the banks and the Federal Farm Loan System is helpful in this crisis. Increased credit will aid in the necessary process of reestablishing confidence and checking liquidation. At the same time it may be hoped it will ease the banking situation throughout the country and thus make itself felt in the general economic situation."

Others commented as follows:

Alfred P. Sloan, jr., president of the General Motors Corporation: "I am convinced that the plan of the President is highly constructive. It will mobilize our financial resources and enable them to be used where they will do the most good under guidance of those who can deal with each problem with definite knowledge of its necessities. It should in a considerable measure serve to allay the unreasonable and unjustified hysteria that prevails, which only serves to prolong the present situation and the return of economic recovery."

Will Aid in Revival.

Samuel McRoberts, chairman, Chatham-Phenix National Bank & Trust Co.: "It (the plan) will marshal resources of the country in a central institution which will make available to localities, where necessary, assistance which will do much toward a revival of confidence and stability. It is workable and need not entail losses upon any individual or institution."

Harry C. Knight, president of the New England Council and of the Southern New England Telephone Co.: "President Hoover's plan would go far in increasing public confidence in the financial integrity of America and would undoubtedly have a far-reaching and beneficial effect on world affairs."

Thoroughly Practical.

Charles S. Mott, banker and vice president of General Motors Corporation: "The country is to be congratulated that President Hoover has seen fit to make this proposal. I believe it is thoroughly practical and will furnish much relief in our present situation. I trust it will be worked out in a conservative manner so it will give needed relief, with proper safeguards against its abuse."

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation: "President Hoover's efforts forecast some definite aid to agriculture, especially in his proposal to broaden the eligibility provisions of the Federal Reserve Bank act and the increase in capital stock of Federal Land Banks."

EUROPEANS PRAISE HOOVER'S PROPOSAL

Flandin also took part in the conferences with Lord Reading.

Newspapers printed the full text of President Hoover's proposal.

"The liveliness of European exchanges today," the newspaper L'Information said, "is a sign of the confidence the world of speculation has in the success of the attempt of the United States to find a solution of the crisis in boosting prices." The paper added that the United States had "turned toward inflation as a remedy," stating that the rediscount bank proposed by President Hoover means inflation rather than deflation.

J. P. Morgan arrived in Paris from England at the same time as Lord Reading, and his presence here caused considerable speculation under the circumstances. He dined privately tonight at the home of Nelson Jay, head of the Paris branch of Morgan & Co.

Berlin Papers Comment.

Berlin, Oct. 8 (Thursday) (A.P.).—Those of Berlin's morning newspapers that commented today on President Hoover's economic proposals generally expressed the opinion that the President and Premier Laval of France alone possess the ability to ward off a threat of catastrophe to the world.

For this reason, the papers urge, no time should be lost in bringing the two statesmen together.

Fritz Kern, professor of history at Bonn University, writing in today's Vossiche Zeitung, said the situation now was "so acute that neither President Hoover nor Premier Laval alone can save it." Only if both cooperate together is recovery posisble, he added.

Nobody need be disappointed, he said, that the proposals thus far concern the United States alone, for "their reaction must be favorable for Europe."

London, Oct. 7 (A.P.).—President Hoover's proposals, made at a White House conference last night, for counteracting serious domestic economic conditions, have attracted wide attention in London, but details of his suggestions were not fully available in cable dispatches today.

Ambassador Charles Gates Dawes, however, characterized the President's plan as calculated to provide a basis for improved business activity.

"It has been matured," said he, "with wise consideration and after general consultation. It is practical, so framed that its operation will be conducted under safe business principles, conducive to neither inflation nor unsound practices.

Time Is Opportune.

"It comes at this opportune time when under the natural laws a reaction in the mass attitude, from the extreme pessimism of the past two years, is due.

"The psychological effects on business may be temporary, when their cause proves unfounded, but consummation of the President's plan with its consequent massing of the reserve strength of our enormously strong but scattered banking system will give an enduring basis for a justified revival of confidence."

Bankers Congratulate Hoover on Fiscal Plan

Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 7 (A.P.).—The Iowa Bankers Association today wired President Hoover its congratulations on the plan to establish a huge credit pool as a means of improving financial conditions.

The telegram, signed by Ivan C. Hasbrouck, president, pledged the cooperation of the Iowa association.

Roosevelt Silent On Hoover Move

New York Governor Will Comment if Bearing on State Develops.

Warm Springs, Ga., Oct. 7 (A.P.).—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, considered a leading possibility for the Democratic presidential nomination, today refrained from commenting on President Hoover's extension program, a possible issue in next year's campaign.

Mr. Roosevelt said he thought early newspaper summaries of the Hoover plan sketchy and that he could not form an opinion until details of the proposal had been studied.

"Perhaps you will comment later?" he was asked.

"Not unless there is some occasion, or for its having an official bearing upon New York State," he replied.

Gov. Roosevelt has steadily declined to discuss national questions, contending his opinions are important only as much as they affect New York.

FEDERAL LAND BANK AID PLAN IS LAUDED

Is Viewed by Brenckman as Means to Cut Widespread Farm Foreclosures.

President Hoover's proposal to strengthen the Federal Land Banks was applauded yesterday by spokesmen for farm groups as an important step in assisting depressed agriculture.

Chester H. Gray, of the American Farm Bureau Federation, called it "very meritorious," while Fred Brenckman, of the National Grange, termed it a "splendid and far-reaching move."

The President intends to ask Congress to subscribe $60,000,000 in additional capital stock for these banks to expand rural credit facilities.

Their capital stock on June 30, was $66,204,473, while the total capital stock, reserves and undivided profits, amounted to $101,308,596. Assets totaled $1,202,194,386.

Halt to Foreclosures.

The enlarged capital was viewed by Brenckman as a means of averting widespread farm foreclosures which last year took 130,804 farms from their owners. In the last five years 682,850 farms have been lost through tax delinquencies, mortgage foreclosures and bankruptcies.

Although production costs have been lowered, the continuous decline of farm prices has provided little profit for payment of these charges or credit for ordinary and expanded faming operations.

Tax and interest delinquencies have increased this year. To meet the situation farm groups urged the need of new rural credit. The Chamber of Commerce of the United States appointed a special committee to deal with the problem.

Debt Is $10,000,000,000.

The Nation's farm mortgage debt is approximately $10,000,000,000, of which 85 per cent is held by private and commercial money lenders. The Federal land banks loaned only $1,181,541,085 of this total, about 12 per cent.

Brenckman said increased capital would enable the Federal land banks to exercise greater leniency in individual cases of delinquency. He added it would permit a large number of farmers to refinance their indebtedness through these institutions, thus placing their obligations in stronger hands.

The grange last week recommended changes in the farm loan system, advocating a revolving fund to increase the amount of many available for loans and restore the value of Federal land bank bonds, which have dropped to the 70s.

Hoover Credit Plan Is Lauded by Labor

Green Says Relief Program Step Toward Creation of Confidence.

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 7 (A.P.).—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said today President Hoover's credit relief program is a "constructive step."

"The action reported will have a profound and helpful effect. It will tend to create confidence, particularly in the banks," Green said.

Although suggestions made by the federation to help end the depression were not embodied in President Hoover's plan, Green said the "indirect effect is bound to be helpful in the employment or unemployment situation."

BANKERS IN SESSION BACK CREDIT MOVES

Credit Easing Is Expected to Restore Confidence to Entire Country.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 7 (A.P.).—The American Bankers Association joined hands with President Hoover today to loosen the estimated $4,000,000,000 in frozen assets throughout the Nation.

The association's convention approved the President's proclamation on the subject and voted approval of the words of Vice President Francis H. Sisson, of New York, who read it, saying:

"I believe that the plan called for by the foregoing communication is based, as it manifestly seems to be, upon the considered views and judgment of the Nation's banking and business leaders, and that it calls for our approval and for the support of the whole banking profession."

Then, in a formal resolution, the convention said:

"We heartily approve the plan of the President of the United States under which a $500,000,000 bank pool is being created for the purpose of meeting the discount demands of bankers who find it advisable in supplying the needs of the public to obtain funds from collateral of a character, which, though sound, is not eligible for rediscount directly or indirectly with the Federal Reserve banks.

"The operation of this pool which would be available for use by all sound banks, both State and National, should immediately remove the restriction upon credit throughout the Nation that has been the cause of so much anxiety to bankers and the public and should serve to reestablish confidence throughout the length and breadth of this country."

In other resolutions the association suggested that the Government immediately begin negotiations toward accomplishing an extension of the international debt moratorium, emphasizing that the moratorium should not be cancelled until it is shown "adjusted" payments can be resumed.

The association indorsed disarmament proposals and expressed confidence that the employment problem can best be met "in the characteristic American manner, namely by private and local relief activities."

President Hoover's proclamation served to increase interest in the address tomorrow of Ogden L. Mills, Undersecretary of the United States Treasury.

James C. Stone, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, said the financial record of the farm cooperatives was perhaps better than that of any other financial institution.

Harry J. Haas, vice president of the First National Bank of Philadelphia, was elected president of the association, and Los Angeles was chosen for the 1932 convention.

Francis H. Sisson, vice president of the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, was elected first vice president and Francis Marion Law, president of the First National Bank of Houston, Tex., second vice president. The Association of Bank Women, also in convention here, reelected as president Miss Grace S. Stoerner, assistant vice president of the Bank of America, N. T. and S. A., of Los Angeles.

PLAN TO AIR DEBTS IS TOLD TO LAVAL

for the courtesy of the Secretary and the President.

At the time President Hoover made known his famous moratorium last June, some resentment was tacitly displayed in French official circles. The French government delayed its reply to the Hoover proposal so long that when French approval did arrive, its effect had been nullified by the lapse of time.

No such fate greeted the latest proposal of the White House for solving the pressing problem of intergovernmental debts. Within 24 hours after it was made known, the French approval was prompt and enthusiastic.

Secretary Stimson was still at the Morrow funeral and had not returned to Washington in time to receive personally the Laval message transmitted through Ambassador Edge.

The insistence of prominent senatorial figures like Senator Borah to link the question of intergovernmental debts with "cutting of German reparations to the bone and the definite reduction of armaments," threatens to make French opinion on the forthcoming meeting excessively sensitive.

Undersecretary of the Treasury Mills and the President maintained their phraseology of the debt matter in the face of threatening senatorial opposition. Any concession to this trend in the Senate would have caused a breach in the friendly feelings now existing between Paris and the White House.

months the cabinet governed Germany by decree. A few days after the dissolution Bruening promulgated a series of reforms involving a drastic reduction in the governments' expenses.

Again, at the beginning of December, he resorted to article 48 and decreed another program of reform and economy. On June 6, this year, the president published new "economy decrees" calling for drastic reduction of expenditures and further taxes on certain articles.

Steadily growing unemployment, financial depression and the rapidly increasing strength of the Fascists, led by the fiery Adolf Hitler, complicated the work of the Bruening ministry. In the September elections the "Nazis," as the Hitler partisans are called, gained 95 seats in the Reichstag, while the representation of the Centrist party, or Moderates, to which Bruening owed allegiance, shrunk to 65.

Bruening, nevertheless, decided to remain at the helm, and called upon all parties to help him work out a coalition plan to "save Germany." Despite the Nationalist demands for renunciation of the Young plan and for a radical stiffening of foreign policy, the ministry persisted in a continuation of the Stresemann policy of conciliation abroad and cooperation with the League of Nations.

BANKS IN NEW YORK ACT ON HOOVER PLAN

Similar favorable comment came from New York, Chicago, London and Paris bankers, as well as from several leading industrialists, including Alfred P. Sloan, jr., president of General Motors Corporation.

Bankers cautioned, however, that the new banking pool would not extend indiscriminate aid to all banks and that not all bank failures could be averted. Rather they stressed the idea that the favorable psychological influences of the move together with strengthening of positions of strong banks would be the principal immediate developments.

Today's security markets demonstrated the wisdom of the credit move. Despite a moderate reaction on the stock market after yesterday's excited advance, the bond market continued strong. Bonds were likely to be influenced most by the move because of the withholding of distress selling from the market.

Action of the stock market today was in line with expectations, even though prices lost a part of the recent gain. In view of the nearly 15 per cent appreciation in values yesterday, brokers indicated that it was only natural for a fair volume of profit-taking to develop. Bankers and traders who bought stocks yesterday in anticipation of the Hoover move, were quick to take advantage of the sharp upswing today.

LAVAL TO PROPOSE PACT ON MEDIATION

Treaty Will Be Intended to "Put Teeth Into" Kellogg Antiwar Instrument.

Paris, Oct. 7 (U.P.).—Premier Laval, on his forthcoming visit to President Hoover in Washington, will carry a proposal for a "consultative pact" which may be a long step toward solution of the world disarmament problem.

It was learned tonight that the proposal will be modeled after the four-power Pacific treaty of 1921, to which the United States is a member, and will be intended to "put teeth into the Kellogg antiwar pact" without endangering the United States' policy of avoiding entanglement in European affairs.

The Pacific treaty was signed only by Britain, Japan, France and the United States, but Laval's proposal, if approved in Washington, probably would be submitted to all signatories of the Kellogg treaty. It was understood the pact would provide for a conference of signatories in case of a serious international controversy, which could not be settled through the ordinary diplomatic channels.

France, as at the London naval meeting, has repeatedly demanded some such guarantee of security as a prelude to disarmament agreements, and it was said Laval felt the new proposal would meet that demand, in part at least, without involving a new departure in American policy. French efforts toward a consultative pact at the naval conference were defeated.

It was understood the proposal already had been submitted to Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson through diplomatic channels in connection with efforts to assure success of the 1932 world disarmament conference.

Meanwhile, it was said reliably, the visit of Lord Reading, British foreign secretary, was in connection with British search for a loan which would permit stabilization of the pound sterling rather than in connection with Laval's visit to Washington.

'AID HOME BUYERS, PRESIDENT URGES

from accepting mortgages, now does for other lines of business.

Private business could inaugurate the system without Government supervision, but Government supervision is necessary, Harry S. Kissell, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, said after the conference in order to inspire the confidence of the public who would be asked to buy the bonds and securities offered by the system.

The insurance men and the building and loan representatives do not like the real estate proposal. They do not want the Government brought into their business, preferring to put up with its ills rather than to subject themselves to the restrictions which would be a consequence of supervision.

President Hoover sought to bring these differences to an end through his conference yesterday. He told the committee, in substance, that he believed they should unite on a definite plan which would improve the existing situation and have it ready for submission to the full conference which is to meet here for four days beginning December 2.

There were other proposals advanced at the conference. Building and loan association men proposed that there should be established a central discount bank but not along the lines advocated by the real estate men. It was suggested that a system be set up similar to the farm loan and Federal land banks. These were helped through their toddling days by Government funds. But the primary difference with the real estate men's proposal was the question of Government supervision.

Looking to Future.

The conference had not to do with the emergency program considered at the conference which was held Tuesday night. Nor did it deal with emergency measures. Whatever is necessary to do to meet emergency conditions by "warming up" and making liquid existing frozen assets of banks holding real estate paper, the President is convinced, is embodied in the emergency program. The conference yesterday was a long range affair, looking to improvement of conditions for the poor man seeking to buy his home years and years from now. That is the way the President thinks about it.

President Hoover's interest in lightening the burden of the poor man seeking to buy a home for his family is not a new-born thought. Perhaps Mr. Hoover remembers reading in his grammar school history about the old king of France whose ambition was that every subject should have a chicken for his pot, but his efforts to eliminate existing burdens on the home purchaser have dated back to his early days as Secretary of Commerce.

President Assails Burdens.

It was while Mr. Hoover held that office that he moved to improve conditions in the National Capital. Not very much came of that proposal, but he renewed and enlarged on his ideas a few years later, taking in the whole country. Many, many times he mentioned the matter. Now, as President of the Nation, he still is hacking away at the same idea, condemning the burdens imposed on the person who buys his home on what is tantamount to the installment plan.

Calling the home-owning conference, Mr. Hoover told why he wanted something done, saying:

"In the period of expansion preceding the current depression, rates for second mortgages, including commissions, discounts and other charges, rose in many cities to the equivalent of 20 to 25 per cent per annum. This not only stifled home ownership, but led to the loss of many homes through foreclosure. The present depression has been marked by unemployment in the trades involved."

When Washington Was Younger—No. 68

Do you remember when the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal through Georgetown teemed with commerce borne down abreast the river in such strange craft as here pictured?

The old canal, abandoned now, has become a wilderness in its upper reaches, and only here and there a marooned or water-logged canal boat bears evidence of the activity that was here.

But the scene above is familiar to many old residents, whose idea of an outing used to be a trip up or down the canal in one of these boats, before the railroads ruined their trade.

The long-eared animal standing beside the little girl on the left, and others of his kind tied to hitching posts in the background, furnished locomotion for this not exactly rapid form of transportation.

In history perhaps that nearly forgotten era should be dedicated to the mule, whose hoof marks left along the towpath have not been obliterated to this day.

SEABURY ACCUSES FARLEY AS GRAFTER

New York Investigator Ridicules "Tin-Box" Story of Sheriff.

New York, Oct. 7 (A.P.).—Sheriff Thomas M. Farley, who has been a Tammany officeholder since youth and who yesterday admitted making bank deposits of $362,500 in five years, was flatly accused of being a "grafter" today by Samuel Seabury, counsel for the Hofstadter legislative committee.

Before the excitement caused in the courtroom by the charge had subsided, City Clerk Michael J. Cruise, for 36 years a Tammany officeholder, admitted on the witness stand making deposits of $217,246 in the same five years, while drawing a salary of $9,000 to $12,000.

He was unable to explain where the bulk of the money had come from.

A short time later James A. McQuade, Kings County register for the past nine years at a salary of $12,000 a year, said his bank deposits for the past five years had been $510,597, of which more than $200,000 was deposited in 1925 and 1926.

He explained he had borrowed the money to enable him to support 30 relatives dependent on him, but he was unable to recall who had lent it to him. He said he often "borrowed from Peter to pay Paul" and never had a bank balance of more than $1,000.

Sheriff Farley testified yesterday that his salary, while he was putting away his third of $1,000,000, ranged from $6,500 to $15,000 and that he had no other gainful pursuit. He said the money which went into the bank accounts "came from a tin box" at his home, where he had been saving the money for years.

providing employment. It is a huge undertaking involving expenditures of untold millions of dollars.

The United States has shown a disposition to make any reasonable concession that the project might get under way.

Interest in the project, under discussion for years, was indicated a few weeks ago when Gov. Roosevelt wrote to President Hoover inquiring about press reports that the matter was being discussed between the two governments and requesting that New York State be included in the negotiations.

In reply, Undersecretary Castle, then Acting Secretary of State, informed the governor that New York State would be brought into the negotiations before anything definite was done.

New Probus Club Officers Installed

Isaac Gans Officiates; Plaque Is Presented to Dr. Baer.

New officers of the Probus Club were formally installed by Isaac Gans at a banquet in the Hay Adams House last night. New members of the executive board were also selected.

Officers installed were: President, E. E. Woolen; first vice president, Joseph D. Dreyfuss; second vice president, H. D. Sherwood; secretary, John D. Sadler, and treasurer, Maurice Starbecker. Members selected for the board were Milton Baer, Lewis Y. Buckingham, Melvin Gusdorf, J. F. McLaughlin, jr., and Philip Friedlander.

Dr. Bernard Baer, retiring president, received a silver plaque for his work during his term of office. In a short address, Dr. Baer said that Washington was the least hit by the depression due to the great amount of Government work going on here.

Step Taken to Aid Idle.

Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 7 (A.P.).—In a proclamation that said thousands of pickers were needed to prevent a large loss in the cotton crop, Gov. Parnell today asked officials of all communities in the State to organize in a move to transfer the unemployed of the cities to the fields.

GRADE-CROSSING ACCIDENT IS FATAL

S. H. Montgomery, of Rockville, Dies; Mrs. Million Seriously Hurt.

A grade crossing accident yesterday was fatal to Samuel N. Montgomery, 45 years old, of Rockville, and resulted in serious injuries to his companion, Mrs. Charlotte S. Million.

Mr. Montgomery tried to stop his car when he sighted a Pennsylvania Railroad train speeding toward the crossing near Littlestown, Pa., 10 miles south of Gettysburg. He is said to have applied the brakes about 150 feet from the crossing and the front end of the coupe stopped directly on the tracks in the path of the onrushing locomotive.

Mr. Montgomery suffered a crushed chest and died almost instantly. Mrs. Million was taken to the Hanover, Pa., General Hospital, where it was said she had suffered several fractured ribs and internal injuries.

Mr. Montgomery was a member of an old Montgomery County family. His father was Moses Montgomery, who was a prosperous farmer of the Travilah neighborhood and prominent in Democratic political circles in the county. The younger Montgomery also was a farmer until about ten years ago when he entered the automobile business in Washington. He was a proprietor of the Auto Mart, 1318 Fourteenth street northwest. He had been an ardent devotee of races and fairs and was on his way to the York fair at the time of the accident.

Surviving Mr. Montgomery are his widow and two daughters, Miss Julia Montgomery and Miss Elizabeth Montgomery, all of Rockville, Md. Funeral arrangements had not been completed last night.

Mrs. Million is a stenographer at the Veterans' Bureau. She formerly resided at 816 E street northeast. She is a widow and has a son at a military school in Virginia.

The train crew was exonerated by the county coroner after an investigation. Harry Tammany, of Frederick, Md., was engineer of the train.

FALL SEEKS PAROLE AFTER NOVEMBER 22

Will Become Eligible Then, Serving Year and Day; Board Meets Soon.

(Associated Press.)

Albert B. Fall yesterday sought to regain the freedom or which he was deprived for accepting a bribe as Secretary of the Interior.

The former Cabinet officer applied to the Justice Department for a parole. He is serving a year and a day in the New Mexico State Prison and will be eligible for parole November 22.

Mr. Fall's prison term and a $100,000 fine were imposed after a jury in the District of Columbia Supreme Court had decided that $100,000 which he received from Edward L. Doheny was a bribe. The former Cabinet member had contended it was a loan.

Doheny Was Acquitted.

Subsequent to the transfer of the money, Mr. Fall, as Secretary of the Interior, executed a lease on the Elk Hills California Naval Petroleum Reserve to Mr. Doheny's Pan-American Petroleum Co. Mr. Doheny, brought to trial separately, was acquitted of the bribery charge.

Mr. Fall's attorneys exhausted every legal resort in an effort to prevent their client's serving the prison sentence, appealing the case finally to the Supreme Court, which declined to review it.

An application for a pardon, signed by members of the New Mexico congressional delegation and of the State Legislature, received unfavorable action from the Justice Department.

Cited Old Age and Health.

Mr. Fall's attorneys argued that his extreme age and ill health made the prison term a threat to his life. Consequently, the court permitted his incarceration in the high, dry climate of New Mexico rather than the sea-level humidity of Washington.

The Federal Parole Board is to hold a meeting here within a few days and the case may come up at that time. The denial of a pardon will have no bearing upon the parole application.

have good weather all the way—there is not much chance of that—but I want the best I can get. The exact route from Corpus Christi into Mexico depends considerably on weather conditions."

Special equipment for "blind flying" has been installed in the fast plane should weather conditions make instrument flying necessary. Maj. Doolittle, who is the aviation manager of the Shell Oil Co., is recognized as the outstanding instrument flyer in the country following his experiments in this work for Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics.

Maj. Doolittle, together with officials of the Shell Co., will leave this morning for St. Louis, whence he will proceed to Chicago to pick up his racing plane. He will fly it to Ottawa Saturday, resting a day in Canada before he hops for Mexico City.

GLASS AGAIN SCORED BY BISHOP CANNON

Cleric Denies Charge on Eve of Grand Jury Probe Into His Affairs.

(Associated Press.)

Bishop James Cannon, jr., again applied a verbal lash to an old foe, Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, yesterday as the grand jury here made ready to inquire into the churchman's 1928 campaign funds activities.

Glass' charge that Bishop Cannon had "run away to Europe" during the senatorial investigation of the bishop's handling of campaign money was termed a "vindictive, vituperative, insulting statement" in a vigorous denial.

"The records of the Board of Temperance and Social Service of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South," the bishop asserted, "show that I was urgently requested by that board to go to Europe if possible to represent the prohibition cause."

The District of Columbia grand jury today will open its investigation to determine if Bishop Cannon, as chairman of the anti-Smith Democrats, and Miss Ada L. Burroughs, treasurer of the organization, violated the Federal corrupt practices act.

Had Charged Run-Away.

Glass, long an opponent of the cleric, said during the Senate inquiry last August into Bishop Cannon's financial transactions that the churchman "had run away to Europe and had sought to seek to hide his culpability behind the skirts of a woman secretary."

Miss Burroughs refused to testify before the Senate committee.

In his reply to Glass, Bishop Cannon quoted a letter written to him since his return from Europe by Dr. W. G. Cram, general secretary of the Board of Missions of the Methodist Episcopal Church, stating "Your visit to Europe was imperative in view of the necessity of giving immediate attention to matters of vital interest concerning the work of the Congo mission of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, located in the Congo-Belge."

The bishop said this statement showed "the absolute falsity of the charge that I 'had run away to Europe.'" He said he considered his church duties to be of greater importance "than attendance upon his meeting of a committee which I not only formally protested was acting without constitutional authority, which committee could have held its sessions in September upon my return, having been previously notified that I could not be present from August 12 to September 20."

With 20 witnesses awaiting a call to appear before the new grand jury and tell what they know about the manner in which Bishop James Cannon, jr., and Miss Ada L. Burroughs handled the campaign monies which went into his hands in the last presidential race, the Government will go before the jury today in an effort to secure an indictment against the two.

Bankers, Senate employes and others have been subpenaed to testify before the grand jury. Included in the list are former Senator Joseph Frelinghuysen, of New Jersey, who contributed $20,000 to the Cannon committee, and E. C. Jameson, New York capitalist, who contributed more than $63,000.

LINCOLN MEMORIAL DESIGNER DIES AT 81

Heart Attack Proves Fatal to Daniel French at Stockbridge.

Stockbridge, Mass., Oct. 7 (U.P.).—Daniel Chester French, 81, dean of American sculptors, who designed the Lincoln Memorial at Washington, died in his sleep today at Chesterwood, his summer estate here.

French died of a heart attack after illness of several weeks. His wife, their son-in-law and daughter, Maj. and Mrs. Penn Cresson, of Washington, D. C., were with him at the end.

Born at Exeter, N. H., April 20, 1850, French grew to manhood at Concord, Mass., at a time when New England culture was expanding under the influence of the transcendentalism of Ralph Waldo Emerson and the rest of the Concord literary group, Thoreau, Lowell, Longfellow and Hawthorne. His first statue, fittingly, was of the minute man at Concord.

The unveiling of the minute man statue took place while French was in Europe. But President Grant and his Cabinet were there. Emerson was chief orator. Lowell and Longfellow were in the procession. The celebration occurred on the day before French's twenty-fifth birthday.

After completing his studies at Florence, French returned to Washington where his father, for a time president of Massachusetts Agricultural College, was Assistant Secretary of the Treasury for three administrations. Later he went to New York where he married his cousin, Mary French. Their wedding was delayed because Saint Gaudens had criticized a statue of Dr. Gallaudet to have been erected outside the college for deaf mutes in Washington. French insisted on lengthening its legs in accordance with the criticism.

Famous men portrayed by French included Gov. Oglethorpe of Georgia, Rufus Choate, Emerson, and Gen. Lewis Cass. He made two statutes of Lincoln, the seated figure at Washington and the standing figure at Lincoln, Nebr., in which he tried to depict him as he must have looked when delivering the Gettysburg address.

His best known inspirational group was "Death Staying the Hand of the Sculptor."

Mrs. Esther Selig Dies Here at 65

Widow of Actor Passes at Home of Daughter After Protracted Illness.

Mrs. Esther Selig, widow of the late Simon W. Selig, former actor, of Chicago, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Maurine Fowler, 1308 Florida avenue northwest, after a long illness, in her sixty-fifth year.

Mrs. Selig was born in New York City and lived there and in Chicago until 1920 when she came to Washington. She had been a resident here ever since. She was active in social and church work and was a member of the Patriotic Order of America.

She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Florence H. Grubb, of Hyattsville, Md., and Mrs. Augusta Pecoraro, of Chicago, and a son, Bert I. Selig, of Los Angeles, Calif. Funeral services will be held this evening at 8 o'clock at W. W. Chambers Funeral Home, 1400 Chapin street northwest. Interment will take place tomorrow in Elmlawn Cemetery, Elmhurst, Ill.

MISS BERRY DIES AT 91.

Daughter of Late Benjamin Harrison Berry Passes in Richmond.

Miss Ophelia Berry, aged 91 years, died yesterday at the home of her niece, Mrs. Harry Gordon Whittet, 406 Libby avenue, Westhampton, Richmond, Va., after a long illness due to the infirmities of age. She is survived by one sister, Mrs. James T. Poindexter, also of Richmond, and a number of nieces and nephews.

Miss Berry was the daughter of the late Benjamin Harrison Berry, who was clerk of the corporation court in Alexandria prior to the war between the States, and a sister of the late Benjamin Harrison Berry, who was commissioner of chancery in Richmond for a number of years, and in her early youth she learned to write a small legible script hand and was employed by both her father and brother in copying court records before the use of typewriters.

Woman Cut and Bruised In Collision of Autos

Mrs. Mabel Byler, 33, received lacerations of the scalp and hip injuries yesterday when the automobile in which she was riding with her husband, James W. Byler, overturned in a collision at Sixth and B streets northwest. The other car in the crash was operated by J. A. Dunning, 25, 1701 Sixteenth street northwest.

According to police, Dunning's machine ran into the other car. Mrs. Byler, a Federal employe, was treated at Emergency Hospital. The Bylers live at 3004 Twenty-fifth street northeast.

TEA KING'S FORTUNE WILLED TO INDIGENT

Bulk of $3,900,000 Estate Is Left to Charities by Sir Thomas Lipton.

Glasgow, Scotland, Oct. 7 (A.P.).—The money of every land which came to Sir Thomas Lipton in exchange for his tea and other commodities was passed on to the sick and needy today by his will, which was read by the executors a few minutes after his body was lowered into the grave.

The bulk of the estate, which is estimated to exceed £1,000,000, goes to hospitals, infirmaries and old men's and old women's homes in Glasgow, although there are some bequests to London and Middlesex charities. By today's London exchange rate: £1,000,000 is about $3,910,000.

The sum of $312,000 is to be applied in Glasgow for the benefit of poor mothers of the working classes and their children. Sir Thomas never married and had no immediate relatives to remember, but there were several bequests to members of his domestic staff.

The gold loving cup presented to Sir Thomas by the people of the United States after his last unsuccessful attempt to win the America's Cup, was left to the New York Yacht Club.

The trustees, who include Lord Inverforth, Henry Ambrose Snelling, Col. Duncan Neil, Col. Hugh B. Spens and James Brooks, are asked to dispose of the entire collection of yachting trophies to some museum or institution.

Willard U. Taylor, Wall street attorney, and Sheldon Clark, vice president of the Sinclair Oil Co., Chicago, are appointed trustees for the various American properties and are to dispose of them according to instructions from the British trustees.

Plane Wreckage Picked Up at Sea

Fliers Believed Perished on New York Catapulted From Liner Bremen.

Parrsboro, Nova Scotia, Oct. 7 (A.P.).—The wreckage of the liner Bremen's mail plane was picked up this afternoon by the tug Alamac in the ocean off Economy Point and was being brought here.

The plane, which apparently carried Fritz Simon and Rudolph Wogenknecht to their deaths when it crashed on Cobequid Bay Tuesday morning, was located by a seaplane from Sydney, Nova Scotia. The mail plane New York was catapulted from the Bremen 650 miles at sea Monday. The fliers sought to break a record for carrying mail to New York.

They alighted at Sydney for fuel, then hopped for New York. Early yesterday the lighthouse keeper at Burncoat heard a crash, an explosion and shouts, but rescuers could not find the plane.

Elderly Persons Organize Society

Progressive Seniors Are to Set Age Minimum at 55 Years.

A new organization, composed of elderly persons and to be known as the Progressive Seniors Club, was founded last night at a meeting of the charter members in the Y. W. C. A., Seventeenth and K streets northwest.

The association formerly was known as the Three Score and Ten Club, but the age limit was lowered to 55 and the name changed. The Three Score and Ten Club will be reorganized to meet one afternoon a month, while the new club will meet at night.

Officers of the new club elected last night were: W. L. Van de Wiele, president; L. E. Collins, first vice president; Mrs. Roberta Corby, second vice president; Mrs. Harriet M. Vernon, treasurer, and Mrs. Caroline E. Bacon, secretary.

Boy, 7, Severs Artery; Saved by Prompt Aid

Glenn Mitchell, 7, narrowly escaped bleeding to death yesterday when he fell through the front door of the apartment house at 5400 Seventh street northwest, where he lives. The child severed an artery in his right arm, above the elbow, but prompt action of his mother, Mrs. Irma Mitchell, in rushing him to Walter Reed Hospital saved his life.

Young Mitchell was allowed to be taken home after receiving treatment.

Recklessness Charged After Car Strikes Child

Struck by an auto as he was crossing Forty-first street at Morrison street northwest late yesterday, 5-year-old William Wittemore, of 3906 McKinley street northwest, received lacerations of the scalp and arms and was admitted to Emergency Hospital in undetermined condition.

Reckless driving was charged to Roland Grabel, of Spencerville, Md., who was operating the car which struck the child. He was released on $500 bond.

Powers Not Linked To Baker Killing

Alleged Murderer Was Not in City When Girl Was Slain.

Harry F. Powers, accused slayer of two women and three children in Clarksburg, W. Va., was not in Washington when Mary Baker was murdered, Detective Sergt. John Flaherty said last night when he returned from the West Virginia city, where he had gone to investigate reports that the prisoner knew something about the Government clerk's death last year.

Police Chief C. A. Duckworth, of Clarksburg, said yesterday that "as far as I know, Detective Flaherty did not find anything of a tangible nature here that would lead him to believe Powers murdered Miss Baker."

Flaherty did not interview Powers, who is held in the State prison at Moundsville. Prior to his trip, numerous "tips" and letters had been received at police headquarters, stating that Powers was at a Washington hotel when Mary Baker was shot to death.

MISSIONARY GROUP FAVORS DISARMING

Methodist Women Elect Former Officers and Urge Dry Support.

Approval of the general disarmament conference to be held in Geneva next February was contained in a resolution adopted by the Baltimore branch of the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church, which closed a three-day session here yesterday at the Foundry Methodist Episcopal Church. Several other resolutions were adopted at yesterday's meeting, at which all officers of the society were reelected.

The officers are: Mrs. Chesteen Smith, Baltimore, president; Mrs. Everett L. Harvey, of this city, corresponding secretary; Miss Lulie P. Hooper, Baltimore, secretary of the home base; Mrs. William E. Moore, Baltimore, recording secretary; Mrs. Daniel L. Ennis, this city, treasurer, and Mrs. S. George Wolf, Baltimore, treasurer of the home administration fund.

Among resolutions adopted at the gathering was one approving temperance work done by missionaries in foreign fields and another urging members of the society to work in support of the eighteenth amendment. Mrs. Ennis, as treasurer, indicated that this branch of the organization had raised $55,000 in the year for use in missionary work abroad. A report from the national treasurer, read by Miss Elizabeth Pierce, chairman of the resolutions committee, stated that the national retirement fund of the society for retired missionaries aggregated $1,162,-881.83. Miss Pierce presented all of the resolutions adopted.

Delegates to the national general executive committee of the organization for 1932 also were designated. These are Mrs. Walter B. Kerr, Miss Anna Bacon, both of Baltimore; Mrs. R. A. Compton, Cumberland, Md., and Mrs. W. J. Harkness, of DeLand, Fla. Most of the delegates from out of town departed for their homes last night.

U. S. FAILS TO TRACE PROFITS TO CAPONE

None of Witnesses Declare Gaming Monies Went to Gang Leader.

Chicago, Oct. 7 (A.P.).—The wide-open gambling houses of Cicero during the days when Al Capone made the village his suburban stronghold were discussed at length today in the scar-faced gang leader's trial in Federal court on charges of income tax evasion.

But when the day's court session was finished not one witness had said definitely, in reply to persistent questions from the prosecution that Capone owned or, received profits from, the gaming houses.

Even the Government's "star witness" for the day, Leslie H. Shumway, an employe of what were known as "Capone joints" in Cicero, could not say definitely, he testified, that any of the profits from the whirring roulette wheels, the rattling dice games and the horse racing bets found their way into Capone's pockets.

Shumway even took the profits from the Subway, a notorious gambling house, to a safe in a nearby building, he testified, but he professed not to know who got the money from the safe.

Whether or not Capone owned the Cicero gambling places, they were profitable for somebody, the Government alleged—and Prosecutor David L. Grossman produced accounts to prove it. The evidence introduced in the form of a summary of several large blue ledger books which Shumway used for his accounts showed that:

1. The Hawthorne Smoke Shop, one of the gambling houses in question, made a net profit of $300,250 during the months from May to December, 1924.

2. It had profits of $117,011 in 1925.

3. The profits from January to April, 1926, were $170,011.

The other Government witnesses introduced today, the second day of the trial, were the Rev. Henry C. Hoover, of Irving, Ill.; Chester Bragg, a life insurance salesman of Berwyn, Ill.; David Morgan, of Warm Springs, Ill.; members of the West Suburban Ministers' and Citizens' Association which raided the subway.

SIXTH PARLIAMENT ADJOURNS SESSION

earner the significance of the nation's financial crisis.

He warned British housewives that unless the country's finances were properly safeguarded they might discover, when they do their marketing, that their shillings are worth nine pence instead of twelve.

This speech was the opening gun of a battle to the finish involving the Labor, Conservative and Liberal parties.

David Lloyd George has padlocked his liberal "war chest" and withholds support from the national government.

The Labor party, in annual conclave at Scarborough, gaily launched its opposition campaign. "We must go forward decisively and courageously to a socialist society," declared Arthur Henderson, who has Mr. MacDonald's old place as the leader of labor.

Although the stress and strain of economic and financial crisis hangs like a cloud over the nation, the prorogation of Parliament today was attended with the picturesque ceremonial of past centuries.

Crippled Philip Snowden, who is retiring from Commons, did not hobble to the House of Lords. He sat for the last time on the front ministerial bench, gazing wistfully around the empty house which has been the scene of his parliamentary triumphs and disappointments during 25 years as a commoner. Mr. Snowden, according to reports, will leave the green leather benches of the House of Commons for the red leather benches of the House of Lords.

AVIATORS UNHURT AS PLANES CRASH

Two Fliers Float to Safety in Parachutes While Third Lands His Ship.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 7 (A.P.).—Parachutes saved the lives of two Navy airmen this afternoon when Lieut. Philip A. Tague and Chief Aviation Pilot E. S. Whitman "bailed out" of their plane, a Vought two-seater, after a collision with a Curtiss-Hawk single-seated fighter, nearly a mile in the air.

Ensign William M. Walsh, piloting the single-seater, gambled with a broken strut and brought his little craft to a safe landing on the Naval Air Station field, while the Vought crashed near the Virginian Railway tracks at East Camp.

The collision occurred at an altitude of between 5,000 and 6,000 feet, and eye-witnesses received almost as much of a hair-raising thrill as the pilots of the ill-fated machines. They saw the Vought careening earthward, but due to a slight haze at the higher altitude, did not see immediately that Lieut. Tague and Whitman had jumped out safely.

The actual crash took place over a spot almost half a mile inland, but a brisk southerly breeze wafted Tague and Whitman into Mason's Creek just off Little Bay, and carried the falling Vought to its final resting place near the railroad tracks, a total loss.

SLAIN RUMRUNNERS ARE FOUND IN AUTO

Two Bodies in Brooklyn Were Trussed Up in Bags; Men Were Stabbed.

New York, Oct. 7 (A.P.). — The bodies of two rumrunning gangsters, slain not in gangland's modern machinegun manner but by brutal torture, were found today trussed up in burlap bags.

They were discovered by a laundryman in a parked automobile in Brooklyn in a section where the notorious Frankie Yale held gang leadership until he was killed in July, 1928.

The bodies were identified as those of William Price, and Edward Flanagan, Brooklyn racketeers, who police said had obtained several boats and were engaged in the liquor running traffic in Long Island Sound.

Price was said to have been a lieutenant of "Vannie" Higgins, hoodlum chieftain and alleged beer runner, and Flannagan also was reported to have been one of Higgins' hangers-on.

Both men had been stabbed more than half a dozen times over the heart and strangled by cloth gags, held fast by wire and adhesive tape. Price's wrists were clamped together with steel handcuffs. Ropes were around their bodies and pulled tightly, so that their knees met their chins.

LATIN NATIONS VOTE TO REVALUE SILVER

Twelve Countries Favor a Study of Plan for Submission to U. S. Congress.

Proposals for the study of silver revalorization in an International conference were overwhelmingly adopted yesterday at a session of the fourth Pan-American commercial conference. Senator William H. King (Democrat), of Utah, was a happy spectator while twelve countries, including the United States, out of the thirteen represented, went on record as favoring the proposal he will present to Congress in the forthcoming session.

Some slight dissatisfaction at the predominance of the State Department and its purely political interests in the conference was nevertheless expressed by several of the American delegates from commercial and business agencies. It was revealed yesterday that no attempt was made by the State Department to sound out the other American delegates to the conference prior to decision on matters before the conference.

Francis White, Assistant Secretary of State in charge of Latin-American affairs, convoked the other members of the American official delegation, and the American vote on all debatable questions was decided by them.

Crosby Voices Opposition.

Opposition to the silver proposal was voiced by Oscar T. Crosby, former Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, who declared:

"I would not mind seeing my Government participate in a silver conference, but when a great government calls a conference of this kind it takes the reponsibility for the objective of the conference. Before the United States calls the conference I should want the proposition for the remonetization of silver to be more clearly defined."

Subsequently it was announced by the American delegation that American approval of the Mexican proposition did not imply a conflict with the Administration policy. President Hoover does not believe the United States should take the initiative in summoning such a conference, but the American participation would follow if the conference were called by some other nation.

The Mexican proposition was a modification of a similar move of the Salvadorean group for the consideration of silver.

Position of Mexico.

The Mexican delegate, Daniel Cosio, in his motion declared:

"The loss of the value of silver more than of any other article has profoundly affected the economy of numerous countries, among them several members of the Pan-American Union."

This apparently unanimous indorsement of the silver proposal was qualified to some extent when another proposition was voted some time later, recommending the "adoption of the gold standard by all the American republics, which have not already done so."

This motion was made by Peru and approved by six other countries, including the United States. Professor Edwin W. Kemmerer, of Princeton University, the apostle of the gold standard, recently returned from a study of Peruvian finances, and naturally vigorously supported the Peruvian proposal yesterday.

The chief incident on the program for the conference will be the address of the President.

THE "HIDDEN QUART"

That Stays up in the Motor and Never Drains Away

OTHER OILS DRAIN AWAY FROM MOTOR PARTS BACK INTO THE CRANKCASE
GERM PROCESSED OIL NEVER DRAINS AWAY FROM VITAL WORKING PARTS
CONOCO GERM PROCESSED MOTOR OIL

PROVES ANY OIL WOULD BE BETTER OIL IF GERM PROCESSED

Other good oils lubricate working parts after the motor starts and oil is pumped from the crankcase through the motor, which takes several minutes. But Germ Processed Oil stays up in your motor at all times and lubricates working parts safely during the starting period . . . when almost half of all motor wear takes place! A "hidden quart" stays up in your motor and never drains away. Only Germ Processed Oil can give you this sure protection at all times, because only Germ Processed Oil can penetrate and combine with metal surfaces . . . an exclusive characteristic called "penetrative lubricity." So you can see . . . any oil would be better oil if Germ Processed!

But only Conoco makes Germ Processed Oil . . . for Conoco owns exclusive patent rights for North America. Don't be contented with oil that lacks the germ process. Stop at any station displaying the Conoco Red Triangle and fill with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil. Save your motor from wear . . . keep it young and powerful!

THE WAY OUT.

The first duty of the Government and people of the United States in a time of depression is to discover a plan that will remedy the situation, and then to unite in executing the plan.

Hundreds of reasons for the depression have been suggested, and thousands of remedies have been proposed. He is a poor citizen indeed who has not written to the President and the newspapers, offering a cure for hard times.

Of all the individuals in this country, President Hoover is in the best position to consider all factors in the situation. He has at his command information which is not available in its entirety to any other individual.

In addition to possessing complete information, President Hoover is peculiarly well equipped by experience and aptitude to work out a plan for remedying the situation. If he were not President, his advice and ability would be sought just the same. But he is President, holding mighty powers in behalf of the people. As President he acts for all the people, without regard to section, class, or political affiliation.

Now President Hoover has sifted out all the facts and considered all the factors, and has formulated a plan which, if executed, can and will start the process of pulling American industry out of the depression. He stands ready to exercise his powers as President to further this plan.

It is now the duty of all American citizens to join President Hoover in executing this plan. Only by united action can this plan succeed. Any proposal to substitute another plan is a move toward disaster. Mr. Hoover's plan is the only plan that can now be considered. The time for gathering information and formulating a plan is already past. The time for united action is here.

With Government agencies, financial and industrial agencies, and all citizens pulling unitedly upon the cable provided by President Hoover, the American machine can be dragged from the bog. It will move as soon as the forces of united America are applied. Once it is in motion the people will be freed from fear, and will employ their energies in a thousand directions to repair all damage and hasten recovery.

Minor adjustments may be necessary in carrying the Hoover plan into operation. But what of that? These adjustments can be made while the plan is operating. The financial corporation to be set up may require more capital. If so, capital is available. The credit of the United States Government is inexhaustible. The banking resources of the United States are superabundant. Capital, energy, intelligence and a plan are all here. All that is necessary is for the American people to cooperate with their President.

Unity of action—that is the only factor now needed to smash the depression. The loyal union of Americans at this juncture will put an end to their misfortune.

FRENCH GUESTS.

Two distinguished French delegations will visit the United States this month. Premier Laval will head one, and the other will be the strictly nonpolitical party of Marshal Petain, who will represent his country at Yorktown next week. With the marshal are the Marquis de Grasse, Marquis de Rochambeau and descendants of other Frenchmen who played a part in the campaign of Yorktown. These distinguished guests are now on their way to attend the 150th anniversary of the surrender of Cornwallis. They are being sent by the French government aboard cruisers from Toulon.

It was Henri Philippe Benoni Omer Joseph Petain who said "They shall not pass" at Verdun. He has since said that every Frenchman in that historic struggle is as much responsible for having originated the cry as himself, for it was the spirit of the French army. At the outbreak of the war Petain was a colonel. Two weeks later he had a brigade; at the Marne it was a division, and a year later he led an army. At the end of the war he was the commander in chief of the French armies.

When Marshal Petain became head of the French forces in 1917 he was confronted with the problem of mutiny. He handled the trouble with few executions and great understanding. He visited each division and summoned one or two soldiers to him. After a short talk he sent them back to repeat his words to their comrades. The mutiny was soon broken up.

This great soldier bore the brunt of Germany's assault. He was the rock of Verdun, against which Germany smashed its own forces. He is a welcome visitor to America.

PROTECTION FOR THE SOUTH.

Economists and politicians are scanning reports on British trade in the United States in an attempt to determine what will be the effect of the depreciation of the English pound. Theoretically the fall of the pound from the gold standard should stimulate British exports. Manufacturers will be able to pay their expenses in the depreciated currency and sell their goods abroad for foreign money that has not depreciated.

It is uncertain, however, as to how this supposed advantage will work out. Britain must purchase most of her raw materials abroad at foreign money values. Most of Britain's food supply is obtained from other countries. Hence, the cost of living can not be expected to decline to any great extent and manufacturers may not save as much through the payment of wages in the depreciated currency as they anticipate. Nevertheless, it is expected that some advantages will accrue to British export trade as a result of the lower value of the pound.

Senator Watson recently pointed out that it may be necessary to revise some items in the American tariff to meet new competition from this source. Democratic oracles immediately denounced him for entertaining such a thought. But it seems quite probable that some of the rabid antiprotectionists may have to reconsider and plead before the Tariff Commission for higher duties to save industries of their home States from unfair competition.

Great Britain's largest item of export is textiles. The United States buys about $60,000,000 worth of textiles and textile manufactures from the United Kingdom annually. Iron and steel manufactures, clay and pottery are also important items of export, but they lag far behind the textile industry in foreign business. If the depreciation of the pound gives British manufacturers an advantage in the American market, producers of cotton and woolen goods in this country will be first to suffer.

Would Southern senators and representatives stand by and see the new textile industries of the South put out of business by increased competition from Great Britain? The thought is absurd. It is only necessary to recall how Senator Pat Harrison rants when any heretic suggests that the duty on long-staple cotton be reduced. Even though they denounce the tariff in general several Democratic members of Congress have appeared before the Tariff Commission in recent months to ask for higher duties on products of their home States. It may be assumed that Democrats from the textile-producing States will rise to the occasion if competition becomes keen.

So far as is known Senator McKellar is the only Democrat who has repented down deep in his heart because in a moment of weakness he voted for duties to save an industry that was threatened with ruin. Most Democratic members of Congress are human enough to lay their sophistry aside when it means unemployment and suffering for their own constituents.

GERMANY'S POLITICAL CRISIS.

With the reconstruction of Chancellor Bruening's cabinet and the promulgation of new emergency decrees, Germany moves further in the direction of an industrial dictatorship. Chancellor Bruening is attempting to do what Premier Ramsay MacDonald did in Great Britain. Believing that Germany's stability is at stake, he will not resign the reins of government to the opposition. Instead, he presented the resignation of his cabinet so that he could form a stronger ministry and retain support from some of the blocs that threaten to desert him.

Public opinion made a victim of Foreign Minister Curtius, who was blamed for failure of the proposed Austro-German customs union. Dr. Curtius, as well as other members of the cabinet, stepped aside so that Chancellor Bruening would have a free hand in strengthening his position. An attempt to subordinate politics to the economic emergency will be made in the selection of a new cabinet. But it remains to be seen whether Chancellor Bruening can select a group of ministers that will command the confidence of the Reichstag when it meets next week.

Germany is still in the grip of acute economic distress, but the immediate danger facing the Reich seems to be political rather than financial. The Fascists, Agrarians and Nationalists, who are war veterans, are rallying several other groups in a drive to overturn the Bruening government. Indications are that the chancellor will be able to repulse the attack with his rehabilitated cabinet, but the vote probably will be close and if unrest increases he may be forced out.

The emergency decrees signed by President Von Hindenburg indicate that the conservative bloc intends to carry on, even though dictatorship becomes necessary. Pensions, doles and salaries are being reduced, and an effort is to be made to employ idle workmen on truck farms adjacent to large cities. Numerous constitutional rights of citizens are suspended to enable the government to carry out its plan with dispatch. If the Reichstag does not fall into line with this program it may again find itself dissolved under the emergency clause in the constitution.

This seems to be the only practical course for the government to follow. If the Fascists should gain control international economic cooperation would become impossible and Germany would be plunged into chaos. The Reich can not expect help from abroad unless it maintains political as well as financial equilibrium. Measures taken by the Bruening government may seem harsh to the people. But when the only alternative is economic collapse Germans may be expected to set their teeth and face the music.

AMERICAN VOTERS.

Presidential elections usually call forth a greater proportion of the voters of this country than do local elections. The enthusiasm and interest shown in choosing the Chief Executive is seldom equaled in other contests at the polls. Yet even in this Nation-wide poll only 53 per cent of the eligible voters take advantage of the privilege, according to the United States Census Bureau. Foreigners must be deducted from the total of 72,943,624 persons over 21 years of age to ascertain the number eligible to vote. This leaves a total of 66,800,000 persons, of whom only 36,852,057 went to the polls in the 1928 election.

The adult population consists of 21,747,237 men and 22,149,477 women who are classified as urban residents, while 8,179,893 men and 7,129,621 women live on farms, and 7,129,627 men and 6,607,769 women are classed as rural, nonfarm dwellers. The native white population is made up of 29,962,589 urban residents; 11,921,554 are on farms and 10,878,248 are rural, nonfarm residents. Negroes living in urban districts total 3,335,060, on farms 2,074,111 and rural nonfarmers 1,122,768. Foreign-born whites in the three classes are, respectively, 10,107,371, 1,045,546 and 1,484,726. Other races total 491,694 urban, 268,303 farm and 251,654 nonfarming rural.

THE FEAR OF CONGRESS

From the Chicago Tribune.

Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, says that whether conservatives like it or not, the Federal Government must carry the needy people of the country through the winter and until they can stand on their own feet again. With this idea the senator probably will have a lot of company in Congress. It is popular because it promises the quickest escape from individual and local responsibility and the actual political wickedness of the scheme is covered by the cloth of benevolence. A bad proposal is called one of justice.

It would be in reality one of the most dangerous things the United States Government ever undertook. People in various parts of the country already are convinced that the Federal Government should contribute everything they lack and it displays a willingness to accept the responsibility. Enlargement of government is not displeasing to bureaucracy. It extends officialdom and makes jobs. The easiest thing in the world is to create a Government job. The hardest thing in the world is to eliminate one. A job becomes a vested interest.

Already in a time of fading revenue the Federal Government has overreached itself. It is running into a great deficit. It is sacrificing its primary services, such as national defense, to meet the demands upon it as it takes over local and State responsibilities. The money, for instance, that it puts in wheat, cotton and such indefensible enterprises as Boulder Dam it is taking out of the Navy. There is before it as an admonition the spectacle of what unchecked government expenditure has done in Europe to drag people down to new low levels of helplessness and despair, but this visible evidence has very little effect upon American proposals.

The approaching session of Congress, for this reason, is viewed with great apprehension by citizens fearful of the consequences. They do not know what imprudence will be undertaken when cure-alls come from all parts of the country, when political hysteria is concentrated in Washington and legislation is released upon the Nation. Few considerate people have any hope that the result will be good and many fear that it will add greatly to the discouraging and disabling factors of the situation. This fear of Congress and the probabilities of its session is now a drag upon the country. It adds to uncertainty. It undoubtedly holds the country back from recovery of its stride.

In many States Americans have been taught to rely upon the Washington Government for their needs. The popularity of congressmen and their vote getting now more than ever depend upon the benefits they can send their constituents out of the Federal treasury. It is a pauperizing doctrine of government and it affects the morale of whole sections of the country which are losing all pretense of self-reliance and local responsibility.

This determination to get Federal money is coupled with a radical determination to make Federal taxation punitive. In a growing theory of government taxes are not primarily for the support of prudent administration, but for the distribution of wealth, taking it from private control and giving it to public works; taking it from production and putting it in political projects. This theory of retributive and vengeful levies regards taxation as an economic good in itself and aims to create public works to absorb it regardless of the needs of government. This frightens every taxpayer and makes him anxious to protect his own welfare from government turned destructive. The flight of money from such taxation abroad has been seen, but it is not, evidently, admonitory.

Very little reassurance is had from the preliminary talk of the men who will assemble in Congress in December. Occasionally a sane word comes from such a man as Senator Bingham or former Senator Reed scoring the custodial and paternalistic tendencies which will impoverish the spirit of the citizens and wrench the whole structure of government, but the bad ideas have a great lure. It requires a sturdy and capable citizenship to resist the attraction of easy money and resistance is weakened by the continual argument that it is virtuous to tax even to the destruction of private enterprise.

There is no guaranty that the American politicians can not bring the American structure down. The British have about toppled their own over. Backward American States already regard the Federal Government as an almoner first and a government second. If the consequential States do not resist such ideas it will go hard with the country.

POST HASTE.

President Hoover has hit the bull's eye again.

America's united resources are now getting into action.

It is all that was needed to start the business ball rolling.

When the Government, finance and industry put their shoulders to the wheel the stalled truck moves.

Team play breaks the first line of depression.

Party lines disappeared at the White House huddle and success is assured with an all-American line-up.

"Cooperation" is an overworked word, but it is pleasant to see it used in reports of action instead of discussion.

All this country has needed for some time is confidence in cooperation, so every man can feel that when he begins his neighbor will, too.

President Hoover has fired the gun for the general start. With the big fellows under way the rest will follow.

The stock market couldn't wait. It was so sure of good news it discounted its hopes 10 per cent for cash in advance.

The bears will find it a very seasonable time to retire into over-delayed hibernation.

If you didn't take our suggestion about buying on Monday you'll have to pay more today.

The margin between prosperity and depression in this country is, after all, relatively small.

With the word that banks will get proper support so that commerce and private initiative can count on assistance, business will be resumed at the old stand.

New York bankers chipped in 30 per cent of the capital for the proposed national relief bank right off the bat.

Here's predicting that the total will be oversubscribed like a Federal 3-per-cent bond issue.

The United States is big enough and rich enough to lead the world back to comfortable prosperity.

Confidence and cooperation form the slogan for the fall of 1931.

Be a confidence man and don't hold up the cooperative procession.

JUST FOLKS

LOVE AND STYLES.

As I remember, once she wore
A skirt that trailed upon the floor;
Went corseted about the place;
Thought bulging hips the mark of grace;
Scorned paint and powder for her face
And though such fashions bothered men,
In spite of them I loved her then.

Time was I vividly recall
The waistline grew, the hips went small.
Great plumes were flung around her hat,
And to support a thing like that
She pomped her hair upon a rat!
Although I thought it frightful dress
I'm sure I loved her none the less.

Then skirts went out of style, and she
In silken hose displayed her knee;
Bought curious gowns of fabrics fair,
Which only children used to wear,
And finally she bobbed her hair!
But spite of all the styles ordained
Her faithful lover I remained.

Now like a derby battered flat
Comes the Empress Eugenie hat,
And since her hair she's letting grow,
Without the slightest doubt I know
She'll have one in a week or so.
And I shall think my life worth while
If love can weather such a style!

Washington Won Because He Wasn't "Broad" Enough to Think Any Other Way Right

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE modern American vain of his broad mind overlooks the fact that truth itself is narrow.

Error is as broad as human fancy. It will compromise, make terms, adjust itself to ignorance and prejudice. But truth has nothing to offer except one narrow version of fact.

"All religions," says the modern, "are good."

It would be as truthful to say that all political theories are good.

If he is asked to add two and two, will he say that any answer is good? Broad untruth can provide answers without number, but truth affords only one—narrow, hide-bound, unalterable and everlasting.

Too much of the modern world's broadmindedness is mere indifference. It attains breadth at the expense of depth and the result is shallowness. A man isn't broad because he lacks the intellectual energy or the moral courage to form a conviction.

There was a time when the average American had convictions rooted in his marrow and was eager to proclaim and defend them. They were his chief possessions.

The growth of prosperity developed new standards and new ideals. The proverbial timidity of capital taught men discretion. If convictions interfered with profits, prudence suggested keeping them hidden. Why offend a good customer by displaying opinions unlike his?

"Profits before principle," said business. A land of salesmen learned to avoid discussion of politics or religion or any other subject pregnant with strife, and the theory that the customer is always right was applied to opinions as well as complaints.

The inevitable result was loss of moral backbone. Nature rids the premises of equipment that isn't used. When convictions went out of fashion, because they interfered with business, no more of them were developed except by the simple people who aren't affected by fashion.

Nice people became broadminded. Minds became so broad and so thin that a conviction couldn't take root. And now one way is as good as another, one man as good as another, one standard as good as another. It is rude to declare a spade a spade.

The minimum of intelligence required to disprove an assumption of idiocy is the ability to tell right from wrong.

How strange that a scientific age should confuse the two to prove itself broadminded!

PRO AND CON

Against Farm Interests.

Sioux Falls (S. Dak.) Argus-Leader.

If the Democrats should be successful in launching their tariff reduction program their first blows would be turned in the direction of lowering rates on eggs, meats and other food products imported from foreign countries. Such action would not swell the contents of the pocketbooks of the farmers. The antitariff attitude of the Democrats has been responsible for many Republican victories in the agricultural regions in the past, a fact that is not surprising. Farmers have every right to vote for their economic welfare, and that's what they have been doing in subscribing to the general policies of the Republican party. If the Democrats now believe that they can enter South Dakota and other farm States with a plan to lower the tariff on foodstuffs and gather much strength, their appraisal of the farmer's intelligence is not very flattering.

Too Many Policies.

New York Times.

It will come as news to no one that the Federal Farm Board has a new policy. During the two years of its existence it has been on both sides of all the more important questions it has faced: for and against Government efforts to stabilize prices, for and against purchases of wheat and cotton, for and against disposal of the stocks which it now holds. The latest statement concerns the latter point. Several months ago the board announced that it planned to sell no cotton at present prices and that it would limit sales of its wheat to the comparatively small amount of 5,000,000 bushels monthly. It now offers to sell both wheat and cotton freely, "at market prices, to appropriate relief agencies, either for cash or on such deferred payments as may be agreed upon."

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

We are delighted to hear that Bishop Cannon has, as the saying goes, finally got a break, and we feel sure everybody feels the same way about it. It is divulging no secret to say that the bishop has always resented the Senate's curiosity as to what he did with the campaign funds. And people who have followed the gripping story are aware that the bishop's dearest wish has been for a grand jury investigation. That wish is to be fulfilled. District Attorney Rover has graciously consented to tender the bishop a subpena and to summon a lot of other witnesses, including Miss Burroughs, who, it will be recalled, refused to testify before the Senate committee.

Keeping Up With Borah.

Los Angeles Times.

The senator from Idaho continues to astonish the world with panaceas, each different from the last. The circus rider who can ride two or three horses going in the same direction excites our admiration, but Borah is always astride a dozen hobbies going in different directions. He is an isolationist, yet he demands concerted world action for disarmament and peace; and so on. His latest is a demand that the whole world go on a single silver standard.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

President's Financial Plan Comes at Right Time and Commands Universal Support.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The President's plan for financial relief comes like a ray of sunshine bursting through the clouds and deserves unanimous public support.

The failure of the gold supply to keep pace with the production of other commodities has brought about a continuous fall in prices. In an era of falling prices no one can make money except by selling stocks short. Prospective profit is the motive power of business, and the elimination of the prospect of profit causes stagnation, which in turn produces unemployment. The inherent difficulties of such a situation have been multiplied as the result of bad banking. It is a fundamental principle of sound banking that demand deposits should be invested only in liquid securities. The primary form of liquid security is commercial paper; a loan against goods which is paid when the goods are sold. There are also three secondary forms of securities which for practical purposes may be called liquid. These are bankers' acceptances, Government bonds and call or short-time loans on the New York Stock Exchange with ample margin. It would be hard to find a case of bank failure where demand deposits have been invested in such liquid securities. Greater profit is obtainable, however, by investment of demand deposits in other securities, and the temptation of such profit is the ordinary cause of bank failures.

At the present time the enormous amount of money tied up in nonliquid assets in banks is the cause not only of embarrassment and suffering to the depositors in banks which have failed, but also of distrust and hoarding by depositors in other banks. The President's plan for liquidating these assets will afford immense relief to these conditions. The Federal Reserve Board is amply able to take care of any temporary embarrassment of a sound bank. It is not able, however, to meet the conditions caused by unsound banking, nor is it, apparently, able to exercise that control over currency and credit which was originally expected, and which must be exercised by some competent authority to restrain speculative orgies like that of 1929, and to relieve distress like that of 1931. The President's plan affords immediate practical relief for the present situation, which is of the highest importance. Legislation in regard to a new credit body and the Federal Reserve Board will undoubtedly tend in the direction, much desired by many economists, of a managed currency. Great care will be necessary, however, in such legislation to give adequate assurance that a managed currency will not be used as an excuse or as an encouragement for bad banking. For such assurance the economic intelligence and experience of the President afford an ample guaranty.

E. A. HARRIMAN.

Writer Cites Scripture to Show That Depression Results From Disobedience to Divine Laws.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A recent pastoral letter says: "The one word which describes best the present condition of society is confusion." Although the bishops say the primary duty in the present crisis is the relief of the suffering that unemployment has created, they offer no remedy because, seemingly, they fail to diagnose the cause.

The Bible has this to say: "He that believeth on Him shall not be confounded." (I Peter, ii:6.) Naturally, there is unemployment. This is always true in times of adversity, but why adversity? The Scripture says: "In the day of prosperity be joyful, but in the day of adversity consider; God hath also set the one over against the other to the end that man should find nothing after Him." (Ecc., vii:14.) "Who hath hardened himself against the Lord and prospered?" (Job, ix:4.) "Blessed is the man that feareth the Lord: wealth and riches shall be in his house; he shall not be afraid of evil tidings." (Ps., xii:1.)

Perhaps more can be found in the Bible on confusion that accompanies depression. It seems that prosperity is not altogether a matter of right, for we read further: "Why trespass ye the commandments of the Lord that ye can not prosper?" (II Chron., xxiv:20.) God is not without sarcasm when he says: "When thou criest let thy companies deliver thee." (Isa., lvii:13.) Certainly we seem unable to extricate ourselves. Adversity seems purposed to offset prosperity because of disobedience, greed and corruption.

H. D. KISSENGER.

Pedestrian Cry for Help—Cars Beat Down From All Directions.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Why don't you help the poor pedestrians? Make a plea for them. The traffic director has no kindness toward them.

Between the left hand and right hand turns there is no chance for the pedestrian.

Seven cars turned in at Ninth and K streets northwest, some, three abreast, which nearly filled the street. The poor pedestrians not only had to jump, but by the time the last car passed the lights changed for east and west, leaving pedestrians floundering in the middle of the street and no safety spot.

The new turn is quite liable to turn in the middle, or almost any place in the street, and at such speed the driver could not stop instantly. There are so many cars turning in at any place, the pedestrian can't keep track of all of them. They should go singly, not abreast. In fact they ought not to go at all.

ORDNANCE MEN HEAR INDUSTRIALIST TALK

Army Group Opens Session; Lamont Is Given Medal for Leadership.

Costly errors revealed in the World War demonstrate importance of close cooperation between industry and military forces of the Nation, Magnus W. Alexander, president of the National Industrial Conference Board, last night told members of the Army Ordnance Association.

Mr. Alexander was principal speaker on the program of the thirteenth annual meeting of the group, which opened its sessions last night at the United States Chamber of Commerce. Actual demonstrations of the improvement in ordnance will be held today at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds.

Other speakers on last night's program were Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol, chairman of the general board of the United States Navy, and Maj. Gen. Van Horn Moseley, acting chief of staff of the United States Army. One of the highlights of last night's session was presentation of the association's gold medal for "leadership and administrative ability" to Col. Robert P. Lamont, Secretary of Commerce.

Two posthumous awards of medals were made to Brig. Gen. Guy Eastman Tripp, who died June 14, 1927, who was assistant chief of ordnance in 1918, and Maj. William P. Wilson, late chief of the fire-control section, Frankford Arsenal. The award to Gen. Tripp was received by his grandson, Guy Tripp Hemphill, and the award to Maj. Wilson was received by Mrs. Wilson.

Additional medals will be awarded later to Maj. Gen. William Crozier, U. S. A., retired, chief of ordnance from 1901 to 1918, and Col. William Corbit Spruance, vice president of the Army Ordnance Association, who were unable to be in Washington for the session last night.

Mr. Alexander told the association that the recent World War clearly demonstrated that the United States can not afford to rely solely on its vast economic resources and potential man-power for national protection.

"Industrial preparedness must be closely coordinated with military objectives, if the latter are not to be unduly hampered or even altogether defeated," he declared.

Central Citizens Select Officers

F. de S. Ryan Reelected as President; Meeting Is Held at Bank.

New officers and committee chairmen of the Central Citizens Association were elected last night at a meeting at the North Capitol Savings Bank, North Capitol and H streets.

Francis de S. Ryan was renamed president. Other officers are: John G. McMahon, vice president and secretary; H. C. Reinhardt, treasurer; Dr. William P. Kenealy and Mr. Ryan, delegates to the Federation of Citizens Associations.

Chairmen of various committees elected are: Dr. Kenealy, public utilities; Mr. McMahon, laws and legislation; Mr. Ryan, education and schools; William H. Holohan, streets and sidewalks; Dr. P. J. Duncan, street lighting; John Allen, zoning; Roy M. Perry, membership; Charles F. Durand, police fire protection; Dr. Kenealy, public health; William Perruso, alleys and sewers.

New Process Takes Photographs in Dark

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 7 (A.P.). Fifty-three of the country's leading research engineers and industrials today witnessed the latest thing in modern magic—a snapshot taken in stygian darkness in auditorium of the Eastman Kodak Co.'s research laboratories.

An ordinary camera, with plates Ultra-sensitized by a process recently developed in the laboratory, was used to photograph the group, which is on a tour organized by the National Research Council.

Waiting in darkness, the group heard the click of the shutter as it opened and closed.

Fifteen minutes later the finished photograph, comparable to a flashlight picture taken under ordinary conditions, was ready for inspection.

Body From River Still Unidentified

Tattoo Marks Thought to Indicate Man of 25 Had Served in Navy.

Police last night were still attempting to establish identity of the body of a white man, about 25 years old, found floating in the Eastern Branch of the Potomac River yesterday morning by members of the Harbor Police.

Numerous tattoo marks, including a picture of "Davy Jones' Locker," on his left arm, along with the words "A sailor's grave," and the initial A. J. W. and U. S. N., are the only clews.

No record of a missing man answering the description could be found either in Police Headquarters or in the files of the navy yard.

SIMPLICITY MARKS MORROW SERVICES

Crowd of 15,000 Presses at Church Doors as Great Mourn Senator.

Englewood, N. J., Oct. 7 (A.P.).—Senator Dwight W. Morrow was buried today after a funeral service as free from pomp as his rank in the Nation would permit.

His family, notables of the Government and friends and neighbors filled the First Presbyterian Church to honor the memory of the man who four years ago turned from a position high in the financial world to become a leader in American diplomatic circles.

A large crowd pressed at the church doors, filling the streets and lawns. Except for the confusion in the streets, with which more than 40 policemen labored, the rites were as the family had planned them, simple, dignified.

There was only a prayer at the cemetery. Mrs. Morrow dropped earth on the casket as it was lowered into the ground. The other members of the family stood by.

Vice President Curtis and Secretary Adams were in the cemetery, but they did not go to the grave.

Former President Coolidge, Vice President Curtis, the Cabinet members and a few other Washington officials were bidden good-bye by Mrs. Morrow in the anteroom of the church before the trip to the cemetery.

Englewood's stores, offices, schools and theaters were closed.

Mrs. Morrow, her two daughters and her son, the sisters of Senator Morrow, his brother, Mrs. Evangeline Lindbergh, mother of the senator's illustrious son-in-law, who with his wife was absent in China, occupied the first four pews with some cousins, nieces and nephews.

STEVENS SLAYING CALLED ACCIDENT

Fairfax Coroner's Jury Precludes Murder in Fatal Shooting.

The shooting Monday night of Melvin Stevens was termed an "accidental death, due to gunshot wounds in the right eye and forehead," in a verdict announced last night by Coroner C. A. Ransom of Fairfax County.

It was at first believed that the 28-year-old well-digger was slain by the same person or persons who for the last three weeks had fired shots at his house on the Dunn Loring road, 2 miles from Vienna. Stevens was in company with his two brothers, a county policeman and several neighbors, looking for the marauders, when he fell suddenly with a shotgun charge in his head.

The coroner's verdict stated that the victim was shot at close quarters, a point which supports the accident theory. Funeral services for Stevens will be held today.

Commonwealth's Attorney Wilson M. Farr issued a statement after hearing Dr. Ransom's verdict, declaring that he would continue the investigation, as he had begun to get to the bottom of the shooting.

Sheriff Eppa Kirby, who throughout has looked askance at the reports that Stevens' home had on numerous occasions in the last three weeks been the target of mysterious bullets, stated that the coroner's findings bore out his theory that the young Virginian was not murdered.

Envoy Claudel Plans Dinner To Gen. Petain

President and Pershing Also to Entertain French Visitor.

As a prelude to a round of festivities honoring the World War hero, Marshal Henri Petain, of France, who will arrive in Washington on October 20, the Ambassador of France and Mme Claudel will give a dinner at the Embassy on the evening of the distinguished visitor's arrival. Marshal Petain is coming to this country as the guest and as one of the dominant figures in the ceremonies attending the sesquicentennial celebration at Yorktown. With this staff and a group of French officers, the marshal will arrive at Yorktown on the S. S. Duquesne on October 15.

Crowning the visit of the French officer will be a dinner at the White House which probably will take place on the evening of October 22. Gen. John J. Pershing will entertain at luncheon that day. Marshal Petain will be officially received by the President the preceding day, when he also will be received by the Secretary of State and by officials of the Army and Navy.

The visiting marshal's schedule on Wednesday, October 21, includes a reception by the Sons of the American Revolution and a reception by the French Institute of Washington.

During his stay Marshal Petain will make visits to Arlington and to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and to Mount Vernon. All plans for his entertainment are tentative.

The Ambassador of France and Mme. Claudel will give a reception at the Mayflower on the evening of October 23, marking the final fete in honor of the famous officer. He will leave Washington that night or the following morning and, with his staff, will go to New York for a few days. His stay on American shores will be concluded with a visit in Newport, from which port he will sail for France.

Another French figure of renown, M. Andre Citroen, automobile manufacturer and the "Henry Ford of France," is expected in Washington during a visit in this country. He hopes to meet President Hoover, but at this date no plans for his visit have been made at the French Embassy.

M. Citroen will arrive in New York on Tuesday on the Europa. He will be "taken in tow" by eminent New Yorkers, including Mr. Walter P. Chrysler, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, and will be received by Mayor Walker. After a visit in Washington and Philadelphia M. Citroen will return to New York. He will visit Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford in Detroit and Mr. Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors. He will sail for the return trip to France on October 31.

Col. and Mrs. Roosevelt Visitors to Capital.

The governor of Porto Rico, Col. Theodore Roosevelt and Mrs. Roosevelt are in Washington, staying at the Hamilton. They arrived yesterday and will leave this evening.

Rear Admiral Charles E. Riggs, surgeon general of the Navy, was the honor guest last night at a dinner given by Capt. Harold W. Smith, and Mrs. Smith in Newport, R. I.

Rear Admiral Louis R. de Steiguer, and Mrs. de Steiguer will be at the Vanderbilt in New York for the winter.

Representative and Mrs. Richard S. Aldrich have opened their apartment in the Anchorage for the winter. Mrs. Aldrich and her daughters, Miss Dora White and Miss Janet White, have gone to New York to spend about 10 days, when they will return to Washington. Representative Aldrich is spending a few days in Washington, having been called here by the President for the conference Tuesday night.

The Lord Mayor of Manchester, Alderman George F. Titt, and Mrs. Titt, who will reach Washington at 2 o'clock this afternoon, from New York, will be the guests in whose honor the English Speaking Union will entertain at tea tomorrow in their headquarters, 1107 Sixteenth street. Mrs. George P. McClennan and Mrs. Robert Giles will present the guests to the distinguished visitors. At the tea tables will be Mrs. Frederick Hicks, Miss Nannie Macomb and Miss Sarah Lee.

Marking the first fete planned for the English guests the tea also represents the opening festivity of the year in the comparatively new drawing rooms of the union. Leased only last spring, the new center of the association in Washington, has been transformed into an attractive setting with its hangings of bright English chintz and gayly decorated furnishings.

Miss Dorothy Iffert Bride of H. W. Lakin.

Miss Dorothy E. Iffert, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. C. Iffert, of Wathena, Kans., and Mr. Haubert W. Lakin were married at 8 o'clock last night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Jarrell in Ingraham street. Ferns, palms and autumn flowers decked the drawing room, where the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. J. D. Buhrer of the First Reformed Church.

The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. Calvin Iffert. Her attendants were Miss Theresa M. Jarrell, who was maid of honor, and a little flower girl, Mary Edythe Jarrell. The bride's gown was of white velvet and she carried bride's roses. Miss Jarrell wore white lace over pink and carried roses and the flower maid wore a frock of shell pink. Mr. C. D. Jackson was the best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Lakin will make their home at the Grafton Hotel.

Lucy Medbury Is Married in Aunt's Garden

Made W. C. Keator, Jr.'s Bride Before White Satin Altar.

The marriage of Miss Lucy Rhoda Medbury, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Nelson Medbury, to Mr. William Chauncey Keator, jr., of Wayne, Pa., son of Mr. and Mrs. William Chauncey Keator, took place yesterday at noon in the garden of the residence of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Bradshaw H. Swales. The Rev. Horace Walton, of Paoli, Pa., officiated. A white satin altar was arranged in the garden before a screen of white dahlias and foliage, and a stringed orchestra played the nuptial music.

The bride entered the garden with her father, who gave her in marriage. She wore a gown of white satin designed on simple lines, with long fitted sleeves and a full court train. Falling from the shoulders of the gown in the back was a piece of old handmade lace and her tulle veil was arranged softly about her face and held by a cluster of orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Miss Jane Clausen, of Racine, Wis., was the maid of honor and only attendant. She wore a gown of green velvet with hat to match and carried an arm bouquet of dahlias in autumn shades. Mr. Moreau L. Stoddard, of Fairfield, Conn., a classmate of the bridegroom at Yale, was best man.

A reception followed the ceremony, when receiving with the couple were their parents and Mrs. Swales. Mrs. Medbury wore a gown of brown velvet with a hat to match, Mrs. Keator was in a gown of Spanish tile satin with accessories to correspond, and Mrs. Swales wore a costume of blue velvet with a black hat. They each wore corsage bouquets.

After the reception the couple left by motor for a wedding trip, the bride wearing a brown costume with accessories to match. They will make their home in Narberth, Pa.

The Charge d'Affaires of the Polish Embassy and Mme. Sokolowska served tea yesterday to a group of men and women newspaper correspondents and other guests in their Twenty-fourth street home. Among those present were Gen. Orlicz Draszer, of the Polish military forces, and Prince Sapiela.

Mme. Sokolowska wore a gown of chiffon in rose and beige.

Mrs. Asa G. Candler, of Atlanta, is a guest at the Mayflower with her daughter, Miss Julia Ragin, who will enter National Park Seminary. Miss Cornelia Brown accompanied them to Washington and will return South tomorrow with Mrs. Candler.

Mrs. Jesse Nalle and Mrs. Albert Nalle motored to Washington from White Marsh, Pa., and are guests at the Shoreham. Mme. Lante Della Rovere and her daughter, Miss Sylvia Rovere, of Rome, Italy, accompanied them.

Mrs. Walter L. Finley and her mother, Mrs. Thomas B. Dewees, have returned to Washington and opened their residence at 2704 Ontario road after spending two years at West Point with Mrs. Finley's son, Maj. Thomas W. Finley.

Mary H. Pike Is Married to Mr. Goodman

Wedding Solemnized in St. James' Church in Leesburg.

Mrs. Yvon Pike, of Elvon, Leesburg, Va., announces the marriage of her daughter, Mary Hamilton, to Mr. William Augustus Goodman, of New York. The wedding took place yesterday in St. James Church in Leesburg.

Mrs. Goodman is the daughter of the late Yvon Pike and granddaughter of the late Gen. Albert Pike. Her mother was Miss Paxton, of Rivervale, near Lexington, Va., and she is related to many of the old families of that vicinity.

Mr. Goodman is a native of Ohio, and his family has long been associated with the history of that State. Mr. and Mrs. Goodman will be at the Shoreham November 1 for a stay of several weeks before going to California for the winter.

Miss Elizabeth Waters Engaged to Marry.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Waters, of New York City, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Thedford Waters, of 35 East Seventy-sixth street, to Mr. Richard Jerome Goodwin, son of Mrs. John Goodwin and the late Mr. Goodwin.

Miss Waters attended the Sacred Heart Convent and made her debut in 1928. Mr. Goodwin attended Loyola School and was graduated from the Catholic University in Washington in 1929. The marriage will take place next month.

Judge and Mrs. Stanton C. Peelle, jr., will introduce their daughter, Miss Betty Peelle, to society at a tea at home Saturday, December 21.

Miss Rose Page, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Page, entertained informally at the dinner dance at the Shoreham last night in honor of her guest, Miss Celeste Whelan, of Atlantic City, N. J.

Mrs. Lewis Edwin Ryan has returned to her home in Tilden Gardens after a visit to Kennebunkport, Me., and other resorts in New England and Canada.

Dr. and Mrs. Leroy Lee Sawyer, jr., have returned to their apartment in the Westchester after a motor trip through North Carolina and Virginia. Before her marriage, Mrs. Sawyer was Miss Blanche Wingo, daughter of Mrs. Otis Wingo and the late Representative Wingo, of Arkansas.

Take no chances
the only pad "like" Kotex is genuine Kotex

THE instant you hear the expression "just like Kotex," be on your guard!
Unique, patented machinery makes Kotex from start to finish, in surroundings of hospital-like cleanliness. Materials used are superior, made especially for Kotex.
You don't have to take chances. Why should you? Kotex is available everywhere—the world's standard—the pad that is used by so many of the very finest hospitals.
So important do we consider genuine Kotex to your health that we urge you, when you buy sanitary napkins already wrapped, to be sure to ask: "Is this Kotex?" And be sure you are getting nothing but the real Kotex.
Kotex is splendidly comfortable. And it may be worn with perfect safety on either side. It is easily and completely disposable.

Senators Delay Coming to Live In Washington

While Some Are Already Here, Most Will Arrive in December.

Judging from the way members of the Senate are coming and going, the entire group will not become established in Washington for the season much before the last of next month. Senator Carter Glass will join Mrs. Glass at their home in Lynchburg, Va., today or tomorrow. The latter, who is recovering from an illness, is not expected to come here until after Congress convenes in December. Senator James E. Watson will leave today for his home in Indiana by train, although Mrs. Watson has decided to go by motor, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Thomas, of Rushville, Ind., and Mrs. Margaret Doyle, niece of the senator.

Senator Hiram Bingham, of Connecticut, who came here for the conference at the White House Tuesday evening, left by plane yesterday morning to attend the services for the late Senator Dwight Morrow in Englewood, N. J. Senator Bingham will return here in a day or two and Mrs. Bingham will join him this week-end at their apartment in Sixteenth street.

Others of the senatorial group have already become established here for the season. Senator Pat Harrison has joined Mrs. Harrison at their residence in Cathedral avenue, the latter having spent the summer on the Mississippi Gulf Coast. Senator and Mrs. William H. King have opened their apartment at the Westchester, having returned to Washington about ten days ago from Salt Lake City, where they spent part of the summer.

Senator and Mrs. Otis F. Glenn are established in their residence at 2435 California street and Senator and Mrs. Charles McNary will arrive in the Capital the first of next week to open their apartment at the Mayflower for the winter. They have spent the summer on their ranch in the Willamette Valley, Oreg.

Mrs. Wilson Inspects Manse at Staunton.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson recently visited the Manse, birthplace of the war-time President, in Staunton, Va. She spent last week-end there to inspect the work in connection with the restoration of the house and grounds. The formal opening of Manse will take place late this fall. During her visit to Staunton, Mrs. Wilson was the guest of Mrs. Frederic Scott.

Capt. Ira C. Eaker, U. S. A., stationed at Bolling Field, entertained at the dinner dance at the Shoreham last night.

Maj. and Mrs. Ennalls Waggaman, who will spend the winter in Europe, will return to Washington from their camp at Saranac Lake, N. Y., for several days before sailing. Miss Frances Virginia Waggaman, who will accompany them, is planning a visit to Miss Marian Jardine, daughter of the United States Minister to Egypt, and Mrs. William N. Jardine, when she returns to Cairo. Miss Jardine is now making a visit to friends in Washington and New York.

Maj. and Mrs. Waggaman are entertaining a house party at their camp in celebration of their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary.

Mrs. Robert Wynter Locke and her debutante daughter, Miss Hannah H. Locke, formerly of Washington, who have been spending the early autumn in Philadelphia, since their return from a trip to Europe, have taken an apartment for the winter at 135 South Eighteenth street, Philadelphia. Miss Locke will be a member of the receiving party at the tea which Mrs. Arthur Robertson Fergusson, of Bryn Mawr, Pa., will give at the Warwick on Friday afternoon, November 13, to present to society her debutante daughter, Miss Henrietta Louise Fergusson.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Holroyd, of Everett, Mass., have motored to Washington and are at the Powhatan.

The alumni of Maryland University in Washington and vicinity, the Old Line Club, will give a dance at the Shoreham in the new ballroom Saturday night.

The chairman is Mr. Chauncey Brown, and on his committee are Miss Sarah Morris, Miss Alberta Woodward, Miss Elizabeth Duvall, Miss Elizabeth Swenk, Miss Edith Burnside, Miss Minnie Hall and Mr. Charles V. Koons, Mr. Charles Pugh, Mr. Wade Elgin, jr., Mr. John C. Morris, Mr. J. W. Chambers and Mr. Edward Lohse. Mr. Donald Adams is chairman of arrangements.

Senator Millard Tydings, of Maryland, will head the receiving line. The ball will follow the Navy-Maryland game, which takes place that afternoon.

Miss Roberta Braddock has returned to Washington and will be with Mrs. Archibald Hopkins in 1826 Massachusetts avenue.

Maj. Neill E. Bailey, chairman of the Federal Traffic Board, and Mrs. Bailey have rented their home at 3015 Dumbarton avenue, and have taken an apartment at 1911 R street, where they will be at home after Monday.

All Souls' Women Alliance Tea Tomorrow.

The Women's Alliance of All Soul's Unitarian Church will open the season with a tea tomorrow from 3 to 5 o'clock. A musical program will be given by Miss Dorothy Coggeshall and Miss Marjorie Brockett. Hostess, Mrs. J. A. Robertson, assisted by Mrs. John L. Hyde, Mrs. J. M. Aldrich, Mrs. Truman Abbe, Mrs. Howard Dellinger, Mrs. Roy Headley, Mrs. Edward H. Horton, Mrs. Ernest Kletsch, Mrs. Ernest R. McComas, Mrs. Clift R. Richards, Mrs. Charles B. Rugg, and Mrs. A. Sturgis. The new tea service, made possible by the generosity of Mrs. Marcia MacLennan, will be dedicated. Mrs. Samuel E. Stonebraker will preside at the tea table.

The Memorial Chapel Guild of the Army Medical Center will give a silver tea at Delano Hall, the new nurses' quarters at Walter Reed Hospital, tomorrow afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock.

The guild was recently organized by the branch of the Army Medical Center for the purpose of assisting the chaplains of the hospital in the various religious activities of the post. Officers of the guild elected for the year include Mrs. Albert E. Truby, president; Mrs. Norman T. Kirk, vice president; Mrs. Julia O. Flikke, recording secretary, and Mrs. John Wallace, corresponding secretary and treasurer.

What Today Means to You

"LIBRA."

IF OCTOBER 8 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:15 a. m. to 1:10 p. m., and from 5:15 p. m. to 9:30 p. m. The danger hours are from 2:20 p. m. to 4:05 p. m., and from 9:30 p. m. to 11 p. m.

The planetary aspects of October 8 favor business, but are inimical to social interests. Many opportunities for development and advancement along commercial lines will present themselves, and if seized will lead to ultimate success. Minor worries in domestic circles will breed individual pessimism, and create a frame of mind opposed to geniality or romance.

Children born on this October 8 will have retentive memories and good minds for details. Even in their very early years, they will show unmistakable evidences of neatness and tidiness. They will be amiable, magnetic and intuitive and have hosts of friends, and be happy themselves, as well as promote harmony all around them.

Born on October 8, you are farseeing and practical. The signs indicate that a business career is the one in which you will shine and succeed. This applies equally to men and women. The latter will show little desire for domestic cares and, while fond of the comforts of a good home, they are not equipped either to plan or run it. In order to bring out the best that lies in October 8 subjects, they must be in continual touch with the whirl of affairs, and will show great aptitude in out-thinking others. Drudgery and routine, with all its attendant monotony, will only provoke stagnation.

You are independent and original. You chafe under guidance and resent interference. You, of course, are not infallible. You have made, and will continue to make, misses. The bull's eyes, however, outnumber them, and these have all been made when you have been free to choose your own rifle. You are destined to travel a great deal during your lifetime.

You are attracted by, and attractive to, the opposite sex, as there is a magnetism about you which invites confidence, esteem and admiration. You should not marry until your position is assured, as you could not tolerate the atmosphere generally engendered by any degree of privation.

Successful people born October 8:

Simon Benson, capitalist.

John M. Siddall, editor American.

Edward F. Albee, theatrical manager.

John Hay, author and statesman.

George Abernethy, pioneer.

William H. Delancey, Protestant Episcopal bishop.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

BASEBALL fans are apparently far from enthusiastic over the broadcasting of the world series by the two major chains.

"In the world series (and in other sports events) radio has fallen down on the job. If the Cardinals and Athletics were going to stage an enormous dance, radio would immediately put Paul Whiteman, Guy Lombardo or some other nationally known orchestra on the air to furnish the music—the very best people they had in that particular line," a baseball enthusiast declared yesterday.

"But the classic of baseball finds Graham McNamee and Ted Husing at the microphones, giving a highly exciting but decidedly inaccurate account of what is going on. In many programs I like both these men immensely and they undoubtedly deserve the Congressional Medal for being able to spiel along two or three hours with hardly a breath, but they have failed to distinguish themselves as big-league baseball announcers."

Another fan, Don B. Reed, a former sports writer, also took exception to the work of McNamee and Husing.

"It is my belief that the average baseball fan, at his office or at his home listening to the world series, would rather be a little behind the plays and get them accurately than to have the two broadcasting systems trying to beat each other on the air with the account and then having to sprinkle corrections through the afternoon," Mr. Reed said. "Neither McNames nor Husing, apparently, has had any baseball experience, either, from the playing or writing end.

"They have miscalled ordinary plays which 90 per cent of the baseball fans could call correctly. The use of the word 'muff,' to describe the missing of a strike is hardly baseball language; one announcer had a batter strike out when it was later discovered that he grounded to second base; at another time, it was announced that outfield flies scoring runners from third were no longer sacrifices, and so on far, far into the night."

"IN this country of 120,000,000 persons, there certainly must be two who know baseball and can talk," a third fan complained. "It seems to me that if the radio chains looked around a bit they would find this pair. And a fellow then could keep a box score from the radio account. He'd need a dozen score cards now."

A recognized authority on business and economics, Merle Thorpe will reopen his series, "How's 'Business?" tonight, (WRC, 7:45 o'clock).

More radios than ever before made their appearance in office buildings during the world series. In one building in Washington, and, doubtless, there were others, the noise from the loudspeakers became so great that it was almost impossible to do any work.

Several of those who put in sets for the world series have expressed the intention of keeping them in for the big football games, though there will not be so great a necessity for this, due to the fact that the games are mostly on Saturday afternoons, when offices are closed.

A PLAYLET entitled "The Tipster Racket" will be presented by the Northern Dramatic Co., in cooperation with the Better Business Bureau, tomorrow night through Station WOL. The play is based on actual experience of Washingtonians solicited to buy stock by long distance telephone. It is likely that this will be the first of a series of such sketches exposing various financial swindles.

During October President Hoover will be busy before the microphones. He is scheduled to deliver four addresses, the first of which will be broadcast this morning (WRC-WMAL, 11 o'clock). The other dates are October 19, Yorktown, Va. Sesquicentennial; October 25, Methodist Ecumenical Conference; October 26, National Association of Broadcasters.

AN all-Verdi program, featuring excerpts from "Aida," "Rigoletto," and "Il Trovatore," will be broadcast during the Dramatic Musicale tonight (WRC, 9 o'clock).

The Aga Khan, leader of India's princes and said to be the wealthiest man in the world, will talk from London this afternoon (WRC, 4:20 o'clock).

It is doubtful if the "Bird and Vash" sketch has any great following, it being far below the usual network standards, but this fact does not give WMAL the license to break into the broadcast after the first five minutes of action each night. If they must break in, it is suggested that WMAL replace the feature with a piano interlude or a local feature of some kind. As it is, that ten minutes is so much wasted time, as far as this vicinity is concerned.

"I AM so glad the period of daylight-saving time is elapsed," Edward C. Robinson, of the Union Trust Building, said yesterday, "for I now at breakfast enjoy the Landt Trio and White."

"I frequently hear some eminent Britishers, including Premier Ramsay MacDonald and the Prince of Wales," Dean Gleason L. Archer, who speaks weekly over a network, wrote to a Scotch listener. "I can understand Premier MacDonald easily, but the Prince of Wales' words are not so clear. I wonder if you have difficulty understanding me."

"The English are hard to follow," the Scotchman replied.

Jane Clyde INTERPRETS the MODE

ARE the season's copies of Paris models shunned or sought by the elegant women of the day? By copies I mean those which strike buyers as so universally wearable, and are of such great appeal to the majority of women that they are tremendously salable too. The use of the term doesn't denote cheapness or flashiness or any derogatory characteristic—on the contrary, the clothes that come under this classification are often the cream of the Paris collections, plus that so-necessary wearability!

Naturally, a frock or coat of such universal appeal is going to be copied in cheap materials and carelessly thrown together, to be sold at a ridiculously low price. And the point is, does a woman want to wear a frock or coat exactly like one that's going to be worn by some one who has bought a cheap copy in a small shop? Most women, thinking of it this way, would voice an emphatic denial. But they lose sight of the fact that a dress copied exactly from one of theirs, in cheap material, isn't the same thing at all. Good materials and careful workmanship are the chief essentials of an expensive frock—and no matter how many cheap copies are made of it, the expensive frock is totally unaffected.

'N' it's a good thing that we may have copies in expensive materials, for some of the season's most popular garments are among them—Vionnet's cross-strap back evening gown, Lelong's three-quarter velvet wrap bordered with silver fox, Mainbocher's black crepe evening frock with the black satin, left-sided sash, and the Yvonne coat of cloth and Persian lamb. It would be just too bad to give up any of these because we feared they'd be copied, now wouldn't it?

Hats are much in women's minds these days—and knowing what all women think of them, I have decided to just satisfy that longing with two perfectly stunning models for different occasions! For those of you who want a hat that's really, truly tailored and as smart as can be, I have sketched the little hat at the left. This is of black felt, very distinctly tilted over the right eye and trimmed with a band and tailored bow of white doeskin incrusted with black kid! And then at the right I illustrate a hat, Eugenie-inspired, but of modern execution, that's just the thing for your dress-up gowns. This hat is of red-dish-brown velvet, with a tiny rolling brim, and an ostrich plume of the same color placed high on the crown. And this crown itself, you see, my deahs, is higher, and a distinct departure from the earlier shallow ones!

So-o-o-o, when you start out to buy your hat-robe, do see that it has hats distinctly different for different occasions—tailored for worktime and frivolous for playtime.

Waterproof and decorative and practical and chic—'n' what you must have for yourself, and what you will make for special gifts! And you'll think of more nice things to say yourself about the hot water bottle and rubber goods container that I describe in this week's leaflet, for which you'd better hurry and send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post. I wrote about this once before, you know, and now that cooler weather's coming on and lovely ladies are beautifying the home, I have been snowed under with "please repeat" requests!

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

WILL you please tell me how to grow pansies in an outdoor window box? After they bud they wither without blooming. I keep them well watered and so far as I know no insects or worms attack them. MRS. WILLIAM F. T.

Do you go over the plants each day and remove all dead or faded flowers? This is necessary to prevent them from developing seeds.

Will you kindly give me some advice about destroying the roots of a syringa bush in order to induce plants to grow about the base of the plant? MRS. PAUL M.

I scarcely know how to answer your question. If you attempt to destroy the roots of your syringa, the bush will die. On the other hand it is impossible to grow flowers successfully in soil that is impoverished by the roots of strong-growing shrubbery. Therefore, you had better plant your flowers in a new location. Japanese spurge will likely do well quite close to a lilac bush, but even this ground-cover plant requires some nourishment and it would get very little under a syringa bush. Japanese spurge does very well under trees.

I had a large hydrangea which was in bloom at Easter, then after the flowers faded the leaves dropped off. It has now started into growth. What do you suggest as to its future care? I am feeding it manure. Can I coax a lantana to bloom in the house in winter? Also how can I keep my pansies from becoming so leggy and why do the flowers gradually grow small in size?

MRS. C. G. S.

Better plant your hydrangea in a lawn tub and set the tub in winter in your basement. Choose as light a place as possible and water it, while in the house, only twice a week. While in the open it must be watered twice a day in extremely warm weather. Do not prune the plant, as this variety blooms on wood made the previous season. It should be given liquid manure only once a season and the best time to apply this food is in late April. The lantana makes an excellent house plant and, if given a sunny window, will bloom the entire winter. You may start cuttings at any time. To prevent pansies from developing small flowers and become leggy, you must go over the plants each day and remove all dead or dying flowers or foliage. This prevents the plant from developing seeds. Pansies must be constantly cultivated and must have water once a day.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

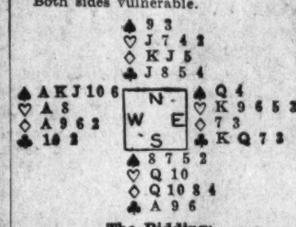
MAKING AN EXTRA TRICK.

AS I have frequently pointed out in these articles, the goal in bidding is the best contract in the combined hands. The goal in play is the making of the final contract. Extra tricks are immaterial things if they endanger the making of the contract, and particularly is this true at rubber play. However, in playing Duplicate Bridge the scoring of an extra trick may mean the difference between a high and an average score on a hand.

Whenever the extra trick can be obtained with safety, even in rubber play, it should not be ignored, not only because the bonus for the trick is worthwhile but also because no player can hope to become an accurate and excellent player if he adopts sloppy methods of play.

The hand below is in no sense spectacular. Play of it is quite routine, and the point illustrated is how to secure an extra trick with no risk of losing the contract.

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.



The Bidding:

South	West	North	East
Pass	1♠	Pass	2♡
Pass	Pass	Pass

In the play, North has a particularly undesirable hand from which to lead. Probably the most effective lead, on the basis of results, would be a trump and with this lead West would be playing to make his contract rather than extra tricks.

On the bidding, however, a trump lead did not appear particulary desirable. Neither did a lead of the heart suit, which had been bid by East. Sentiment is generally against opening from such tenace holdings as K J 5, so this eliminated the diamond from consideration. North, therefore, chose the 4 of clubs, and, at the table where Mr. Theodore A. Lightner was playing West, this gave him an opportunity for a brilliant play. He holds in his hand four diamonds while Dummy has only two trumps. Mr. Lightner, therefore, did not put up either the King or Queen of clubs, as most players would have done, but played a low club which South won with the Ace. By this line of play North and South were confined to only 2 tricks—a diamond and the Ace of clubs. Against a trump return West might have been compelled to rely upon a squeeze play to make the extra trick upon which he placed such value.

As a result, Mr. Lightner made the highest score possible on the hand, with absolutely no risk of the loss of a trick. The lead of the 4 of clubs was quite evidently fourth best and quite probably from the Knave. West could not hope to ruff two of his three losing diamonds, holding only two trumps in the Dummy, so, even though South held, both Ace and Knave of clubs, he would lose nothing by making no attempt to win the trick in the East hand.

To have taken this risk if it endangered game would have been foolish. To play for the extra trick when nothing was endangered was good Bridge. The gain on this hand, if played at rubber Bridge, would not be great, but even there the play should be made in a like situation.

The bidding is a prediction of the number of tricks that can be made with the combined hands. Play should be the fulfillment of that prediction, and, if performance can excel prophecy, so much the more profitable for the prophet.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Suit takeouts of partner's bids are of two kinds:

1—Forcing (Jump) Takeouts which always flash the signal for game at some bid.

2—Non-Forcing (regulation) Takeouts which show but minimum strength and which, to score game, require that partner hold rebid values.

Forcing Takeouts are identified in the following manner:

A higher than necessary bid (a Jump) in a different suit is a Forcing Takeout, provided that such bid is below a game contract and partner (not opponents) opened the bidding.

It follows that Jump Raises, Jump notrump Takeouts, Jump Overcalls after adverse Opening bids and even Jump suit Takeouts when higher than a game contract (Slam invitation) are not Forcing.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

What Makes Us Love Them?

PAUL is young—or comparatively so—which explains much. Especially Paul's naive belief that there is reason or at least some logic back of a woman's love for a man. And so Paul guilelessly asks us to tell him what it is in a man that wins a woman's love. Ah Paul, the crimes that are committed against such innocence as yours. We might, indeed, apropos of your question, ask another—"Why is it that man for all his sagacity in the marts of trade is as a babe in arms when it comes to the business of loving?" Woman from the first glance in the mirror seems to possess the wisdom of all the beauteous sirens that have preceded her, while man, poor suppliant, wonders to his dying day what it is all about. True he marries. Because some woman takes him in hand, lures him along, spurs him on, and finally prods him into a proposal. He thereafter believes somehow that he has "won" the woman of his heart. Poor innocent! He has merely arranged to share the life of the woman who saw him first, and decreed that he should share her life, or what portion of it she might be able to spare. Paul is like that. Paul is 30—and women have not been kind. So Paul wants to know what he lacks and how he can acquire what women are seeking. For Paul, poor innocent, wants to marry—"and know happiness."

Wouldst know the extent to which man is like the babe? Then hearken!

Dear Frances McDonald:

You seem to have such an understanding heart, I am certain you can help me to happiness. Here is my trouble. Women do not like me. Is it because I love them so? Must a man be cruel or indifferent to make them care? What makes a woman love a man? Whatever it is I would spend half my life acquiring it just to have the happiness of a woman's love the other half. Life to me now means absolutely nothing. I have a fine position and excellent prospects; dress well, have a small car, have had two years college (not co-ed, which I regret) and am very much liked by other folks. But girls can not love me. I give them anything I think they would like. Take them always to the nicer places to eat, take them to shows, dances even (if they like dancing). I am decent and respect as well as love women. To me they are so lovely, half the beauty of life, and all the happiness. But they barely tolerate me. I never get a date the first time I ask. It is always grudgingly given, in the hope of getting rid of me. I know this and exert myself to be all an escort should be but it is always the same. She avoids making a second when we say good night. Says "Call me later about it." And escapes. I realize these dates I have had have been flops. Boring to the girls concerned. And I have been miserable all through them. Yet I have forced myself to the effort and final embarrassment of asking for another date and being refused. To no purpose

All this is doing something to me as a man. That is why I read every word you write and why I am now appealing to you in person. It has repeatedly happened that in some article of yours you seem on the very brink of touching upon the subject I crave to fathom—then you laugh it off and I can almost see your enigmatic smile—at the rest of us. Is love only an obsession? And are you secretly amused at us who take it to heart? You have said the most beautiful things about it that I have ever read. So surely you do not consider it all a silly dream of adolescent fancy. I want to be loved by a woman. Can you tell me what it is they want in a man? PAUL.

Paul, you darling, if only we might tell you that there was one iota of reason back of the love we women lavish upon men of all degrees of inferiority and unworthiness, but alas there is absolutely none. We love the weirdest of types—for no reason. Personally, we have wept over bald men going gray and gray men going bald; long lazy men and short hustling men; men who were cool and men who were not one bit cool, men who were indifferent and men who were not as indifferent as they seemed. In our own rather fleeting way we must have at least thought we loved those men. Why did we love them? Doesn't it all narrow down to the fact that each excited our interest first? And not one was ever meek. That is your trouble, Paul. You are a meek lover. Your attitude in effect is: "I am only a worm to you, but you are a goddess to me." That is not the spirit. The brooding lover perhaps, but never the abject or the meek. You possess the protective instinct strongly. Women love that. Why not figure it? Take the attitude of possession rather than subjection. For instance, in asking for a date, instead of asking whether you may, &c., say "I would like you to see this show or that. When could we go?" Such an approach in its very method gives two very valuable impressions—first, that you have formed a definite opinion of her tastes and, second, that you are accustomed to study the tastes of women and able to cater to them. You are bestowing a tribute rather than asking a boon. Although man's attitude must always be the suppliant, however commanding or demanding.

Believe more in man's importance to woman's happiness—for believe me he is important.

YOUTHFUL DAY DRESS.

You'll adore this bolero frock in black canton-faille crepe silk for its smart individuality.

The pin tucked collar and cuffs of the modish lingerie type are eggshell crepe satin. A trimming strap at the front at the neckline is accented by filigree gilt buttons.

The curved line through the hips is exceedingly slenderizing. It creates a panel effect at the front and at the back that lends charming height to the figure.

Style No. 862 is designed in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 36 requires 5¼ yards of 39-inch material with ⅜-yard of 39-inch contrasting.

Crepe satin, crepe marocain and velvet are equally lovely for this model.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

HAVING BOYS STAND STRAIGHT.

GEN. L. R. GIGNILLIAT was dissatisfied with the results from teaching calisthenics, particularly with adolescent boys. He came to the conclusion that the whole matter was long on motive and short on motivation. He remembered the perfect posture of Negro women who carried buckets of water and baskets of clothes on their heads, as he had seen them during his youth spent in the South.

They had a motive for their feat. Success in carrying things on their heads meant hands free for other things. It meant a minimum amount of muscle fatigue in carrying the clothes home. Failure meant another trip to the well for water, or more hours at the tub.

He decided that he would get a motive, and also that he would change his method. His new plan called for grading the boys of his school in posture. The grades ran from "A," perfect, to "D," very poor. The boys graded "A" and "B" were excused from setting up exercises, calisthenics and other noncompetitive exercises, and the excuse was good as long as they maintained good posture. Boys in grades "C" and "D" were given extra posture drills and work, and were kept at the extras until their faults were corrected. So much for the motivation.

Before adopting new methods he consulted with Dr. J. E. Goldthwait. The first step was to inaugurate a silhouetteograph method. This consisted in making a silhouette of the boy standing in profile and grading his posture on that. This silhouette was filed with the boy's papers and grades. Periodically, thereafter, other silhouettes were made to record the progress. All the boys who grade "C" and "D" are turned over to the proper parties for corrective exercises.

One of the most frequently encountered defects was swayback. When most people are told to stand straight they make an effort to throw the shoulders back and, in doing so, the sway in the back is increased. When a swayback person lies flat on a hard surface a man can run his fist under the swayed part of the back. The exercise for swayback is as follows: Lying flat on a hard surface, draw up the knees, feet on the table, until the former sway is flat on the table. Now thrust the hips toward the heels with a rotary motion, keeping the back flat.

To increase the spread of the ribs at the pit of the stomach: Lift the shoulders, draw in the chin, grasp the edge of the ribs on each side, pull them up and out, inhale and exhale several times.

To make oneself posture conscious stand with the back against the wall, heels 4 inches from the wall, toes turned in slightly; lean back until the head and body touch the wall, neck straight, chin in, chest raised, abdomen drawn in; holding this posture, use one hand to push body away from wall and forward until it is exactly perpendicular. Repeat.

PUNISHMENT IS NEEDED.

Miss E. C. writes: My nephew, 3½ years of age, blinks continuously with his eyes and seems to do so unconsciously. What is the cause? What can be done? Is it serious?

REPLY.

The chances are 99 out of a hundred that this is done intentionally. It is not serious. It is cured by punishment. The punishment should fit the crime. Any treatment that holds the boy in the spotlight makes the disorder worse.

Huntington, Ind. (U.P.).—William Peeler, living here, has what he believes to be the first typewriter built in the United States. With the original machine Peeler believes he has the first typewritten letter sent through the United States mails.

The model Peeler took to Washington he found to be too large to come under the patent law. He returned to his home and spent two years making improvements. On his second trip to the Capital he learned that the idea had been duplicated and sold for $4,000. Peeler, however, was paid $1,500 for improvements.

MONTGOMERY TERM JURORS ARE DRAWN

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Drawing of jurors for the November term of the Montgomery County circuit court was held yesterday at the courthouse in Rockville by Judge Robert B. Peter, in the presence of the Montgomery County bar.

In accordance with the custom of the court, the names of 200 persons were placed in a large box divided into thirteen compartments, one for each election district. The prospective jurors were drawn from each of the compartments in accordance with the percentage allotted to each district.

Of the 48 names drawn, 23 will be chosen as members of the county grand jury when court convenes Monday, November 9, at Rockville. The remaining group of 25 will serve as members of petit juries. Judge Peter will select the foreman of the grand jury at the opening of court.

Those selected as members of the jury list were, by election districts: Laytonsville—William H. Jackson, John W. Story, Charles D. King; Clarksburg—William K. Carlin, John D. Linthicum, Charles H. Barber; Poolesville—Harry D. Grubb, Harry M. Williams, Elmer C. Hersperger, Luther R. Cruitt; Rockville—W. Guy Hicks, Frank D. Leizear, Thomas M. Garrett, Harry G. Poss, Simon P. Wagner, Raleigh S. Chinn; Colesville—William F. Harding, Harold L. Bradford, Charles A. Hobbs, Howard C. Bryan; Darnestown — Charles M. Thrift, William K. Rice, Brooke Vincent; Bethesda—E. Winsor Offutt, G. Wady Imirie, Frederick W. Page; Olney—Milton Bancroft, Robert W. Chichester, R. Bentley Thomas, John W. Fraley; Gaithersburg — Worthington Griffith, Nathan C. Stiles, William H. Murray, Elisha S. Warfield; Wheaton—Dorsey L. Thompson, George L. Lusby, Isaac H. Beall, John M. Faulconer, Ralph W. Conrad.

Potomac Mission Group Will Meet

Baptist Women to Have an All-Day Session at Clifton Station.

The Potomac Association of Baptist Women's Mission Union, Group No. 2, will meet this morning at 10:30 in the Baptist Church, Clifton Station, Va. Mrs. Ashton C. Jones, of Clarendon, will preside over the meeting. Devotions will be lead by the Rev. S. Y. Craig, of Fairfax, pastor of the church.

Mrs. J. C. Rogers, of Round Hill, Va., president of the Potomac Association, and Mrs. Joseph L. Crupper, of Clarendon, will address the meeting. Mrs. Ryland T. Dodge, of Alexandria, will speak of the work of the Women's Christian Temperance Union. Mrs. Eugene Sallee, who with her late husband was for many years a missionary in China, will be the principal speaker of the day.

King's Daughters Pick State Delegates Today

Mount Vernon Circle of King's Daughters will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Theresa Thompson, Groveton, Va. Delegates from the circle to the State convention in Orange next week will be selected. Mrs. Marion Ballenger will represent the Fairfax County Association of which she was recently reelected president.

At the county convention last week, memorial services were held for Miss Mary Gibbs and Mrs. Florence Dorsey Wheat. The circle will make plans to raise its portion of the association's $1,000 goal with which to endow a room in the Alexandria hospital and to assist Mrs. Eleanor Aud, superintendent of public welfare in welfare work in the county during the coming winter.

Court Declines Stogie Offer of Grateful Drunk

"Much obliged, Judge. Have a cigar."

Thus did Howard McCorkle, dismissed on a charge of being drunk, attempt to show his gratitude to Judge J. Chew Sheriff in Hyattsville police court yesterday. When the offering was refused, McCorkle tendered it to Walter Acton, town officer of Riverdale, who had arrested him, who likewise declined.

McCorkle told the court he had been working in College Park and was on his way to Washington to collect some bonus money. Judge Sheriff told him he would not keep him, and directed him to the Washington road. McCorkle declined to say what he had been drinking, but a nearly-empty container of canned heat was found on his person.

A number of charges of assault and battery, arising out of a series of dances in Branchville, also were tried yesterday. "Sunny" Hughes, son of Claude Hughes who was stabbed to death by a neighbor last February, was charged with reckless driving and assault and battery on September 19 and 27 by Thomas Rheem, jr., also of Branchville. Hughes was fined $10 on each count.

The pair were said to have disagreed over a girl at a dance on September 19, when Hughes struck Rheem. On September 27, he was said to have blocked Rheem's auto with his own machine and to have struck him again.

Rheem also was defendant in a warrant sworn out by W. T. Lacy, charging assault and battery, trespass, and disorderly conduct. Bernard Bute, Walter Mulligan and Harry Walker were named codefendants with Rheem. Lacy said the four came to his house and struck him after arguing over a girl at a dance. The charges were dismissed when he could not identify the quartet.

ARLINGTON TO HEAR 9 BOARD CANDIDATES

Lyon Park Citizens to Hold Meeting Tonight; League Men Will Speak.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST. Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Voters of Arlington County tonight at the Lyon Park Citizens Association meeting will have the first opportunity to hear four of the candidates recently selected by the Arlington County Better Government League for the county board. There will be nine candidates in all speaking.

Those indorsed by the league are Fred A. Gosnell, Harry A. Fellows, Freeland F. Chew and John O. Gall. The other speakers not indorsed by the league, who will speak, are Lyman M. Kelley, L. L. Lloyd, Robert E. Plymale, Albert H. Cohen and G. Frank Allwine.

There is considerable interest developing in the county as to whether those not receiving the indorsement of the league will attack the motives of that organization, or will ignore it with their silence.

Arthur Orr, president of the citizens association, will preside at the meeting.

A program of interesting features is being arranged for the fall meeting of the Arlington-Fairfax Sunday School Association, which will be held Saturday afternoon and evening at the Columbia Baptist Church of East Falls Church, beginning at 3 o'clock. The meeting will open with the invocation given by the Rev. U. S. Knox, to be followed by an address by Dr. Walter A. Squires, director of weekday and vacation church schools, Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church of America. This will be followed by group conferences to include beginners, Mrs. R. W. Wott, leader; primary, Mrs. R. E. Mitchell, leader; intermediates, Mrs. J. L. McCutcheon, leader; seniors and young people, Miss Bess C. Miles, leader; superintendent and officers, the Rev. J. R. Duffield, leader. A banquet will be served starting at 5:45 o'clock. Reservations for the banquet should be made with Rev. W. F. Wolf, of Arlington, not later than tomorrow evening.

The condition of the Rev. T. J. Healy, assistant rector at St. Charles Catholic Church, in Clarendon, who recently underwent an operation at Providence Hospital, Washington, was reported much improved last night.

The Men's Club of St. George's Episcopal Church will serve its annual fall dinner in the parish hall this evening from 5 to 7 o'clock.

Cherrydale Clements Group Names Officers

The Cherydale "Clements for Sheriff" Club, which is sponsoring candidacy of A. C. Clements for sheriff of Arlington County, last night at Cherrydale elected following officers: Wesley McDonald, president; John A. Spates, vice president; Robert E. Jansen, secretary; Paul Rollings, treasurer. E. C. Johnson and William D. Topley were elected as publicity committee.

COUNTY BUYS FALLS CHURCH ROAD BONDS

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST, P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va. Phone Fairfax 166.

The Fairfax County Board of Supervisors at its regular monthly meeting yesterday at Fairfax, Va., confirmed the action of County Treasurer F. W. Huddleson in purchasing $10,000 worth of Falls Church District road bonds, before maturity. These bonds are recallable next year, but are not due until 1942.

Several months ago, Dr. Huddleson told the board the county had a large amount of bond-issue sinking funds on deposit in banks on interest at 4 per cent, while the county bonds had an interest rate of 5 per cent. The board at that time authorized him to advertise that county bonds would be purchased before maturity. The treasurer said that because of the present financial conditions many persons were unwilling to surrender county bonds drawing such large interest. Yesterday's action saved the county approximately $200 in interest. Par value was paid for the bonds.

A petition was received from citizens in the vicinity of Edgelea Station asking that a private road be taken into the county system. This road will be an extension of the Edgelea-Five Oaks road, connecting with the Lee Highway. This was referred to County Engineer F. N. Larkin for a report at the next meeting.

The county health unit reported that during the past week there had been an outbreak of scarlet fever at the Floris School, and 30 pupils had been sent home for a week to prevent possible spread. The principal of the school was taken sick, and her pupils were sent home during the quarantine period by the health officer, Dr. A. L. Carson.

Arlington-Fairfax Road Elects Julius Parmelee

Julius H. Parmelee, of Falls Church, was elected president of the Arlington-Fairfax Railway at a meeting of the board of directors held in the offices of the treasurer, Charles T. Jesse, opposite the Arlington County courthouse yesterday. Mr. Parmelee fills the vacancy caused by the death of M. E. Church, the first president of the road.

R. Walton Moore, of Fairfax, was elected to membership on the board of directors.

Nazarine Church Plans Meeting.

There will be a special mass meeting under auspices of the Park Lane Nazarine Church of Arlington County, at the church tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. Candidates for county officers are invited to address the meeting.

Club Told of Trip to Vienna.

Experiences during the summer spent in Vienna were recounted yesterday by Dr. Edith S. Cole in a talk before the Zonta Club at its weekly luncheon in the Raleigh Hotel. Mrs. Amelia Gude Thomas presided over the 35 members and guests present.

JOBLESS REGISTER IN ALEXANDRIA POLL

Woman Reports Theft of Ring; Telephone Stolen From Gas Station.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU. 907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va. Phone Alexandria 523.

Several hundred men and women have registered in the unemployment census being conducted by Dr. William L. Schaffer, city health officer, in line with the request of Gov. Pollard. Dr. Schaffer was assisted in the work by Mrs. Marguerite Roland, Mrs. Virginia Cawood and Miss Mae Cavanaugh.

The number of jobless here is not believed to be as large as in other cities of the same size, as many residents of Alexandria in Government service and numerous Government projects now are under way in this section.

Mrs. Emma L. Riley, of 813 Prince street, reported to police yesterday that a ring valued at $75 was stolen from the kitchen of her home Tuesday evening. The Dixie Service Station, on Russell road at Virginia avenue, was entered Tuesday night and robbed of a quantity of cigarettes and cigars. A pay telephone was also taken.

Warren Kandall, manager of the American Railway Association, will address the Kiwanis Club today at 12:30 o'clock in the George Mason Hotel. He will be presented by City Treasurer Roger C. Sullivan, president.

The board of lady managers of the Alexandria Hospital will meet at 10:30 o'clock this morning at the nurses' home, South Washington street. Mrs. S. Cooper Dawson will preside.

The American Legion Auxiliary will meet tonight at 8 o'clock in Gadsby's Tavern. Mrs. Cameron Roberts, first vice president, will preside in the absence of the president, Mrs. Margaret F. Bailey, who is attending the thirty-second annual convention of the Virginia Division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, in Lynchburg, Va. Several amendments to the constitution are to be considered.

The executive committee of the Business and Professional Women's Club will meet tomorrow evening at 907 Prince street, at 8 o'clock, when a program will be outlined for the regular meeting Tuesday night.

Reception to Pastor By Eldbrooke Church

A reception in honor of the Rev. Walter M. Michael and his family, who recently came to the Eldbrooke Methodist Episcopal Church from Brightwood Park, will be held tomorrow night at the Eldbrooke Church.

The Young People's Society will present "Ask Me Another," a one-act play, in connection with the reception. In the cast will be Ray Butt, Audrey Robey, Franklin Derrick, Martin Derrick and Paul Bosch. John B. Harry, president of the board of trustees, and Mrs. Harry, will be in the receiving line with the pastor and his family. R. Aubrey Bogley is chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements.

Presbyterians to Meet.

The Ladies Aid and the Missionary Societies of the Presbyterian Church at Falls Church will meet this afternoon in the church house on Broad street. The regular meeting date was advanced one week in order to prepare for the State convention in Falls Church next week.

PENNSYLVANIA ROAD SIGNS POWER ORDER

Consolidated of Baltimore Gets 20-Year Contract to Supply Current.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Announcement has been made by Consolidated Gas, Electric Light & Power Co., of Baltimore, of the consummation of a 20-year contract for power with the Pennsylvania Railroad covering the entire electrification requirements of the Pennsylvania system from the Susquehanna River at Havre de Grace, Md., to Washington, D. C.

Power supplied to this line, it was said, will commence early in 1933, and as electrification develops on this and adjoining sections of the railroad, this agreement will represent one of the largest sales of power ever covered in a single contract.

Power will be supplied by the Consolidated Gas, Electric Light & Power Co., of Baltimore, and its two affiliated companies of the Aldred group, the Pennsylvania Water & Power Co. and the Safe Harbor Water Power Corporation, according to the statement.

Installation Requirements.

The combined steam and hydro-generating capacities of these companies, including the initial installation of the Safe Harbor project now nearing completion, will be in excess of 750,000 horsepower. Provisions made at the Safe Harbor plant to readily permit installation of initial units totaling more than 250,000 horsepower will increase the power pool to more than 1,000,000 horsepower.

Development of this great hydro-electric plant at Safe Harbor, involving an expenditure of $30,000,000 in spite of depressed business conditions, was decided upon with the extensive Pennsylvania Railroad requirements in view, and has made this remarkable contract possible, it was stated. It will result in large savings to the railroad and greatly increase revenue to the power companies. It marks a great step forward in cooperative progress.

Special features of the U. S. Building & Loan League Annals this year, besides the new classification of member associations, will be several papers by British, German and other foreign building and loan executives who spoke at the third international congress of building societies and building and loan associations held in Philadelphia in conjunction with the league's convention, according to advance information from H. F. Cellarius, secretary-treasurer of the league.

Coal Output Estimate.

The National Coal Association, from incompleted car loading reports from the railroads, estimated bituminous coal production in the United States for the week ended October 3, as about 7,800,000 net tons. The report of the Bureau of Mines shows production of 7,244,000 net tons for the week ended September 19, and 7,435,000 for the week ended September 26.

The Aetna Casualty & Surety Co. has just announced the appointment of Walter J. L. Smith to its agency staff at Washington. Mr. Smith brings with him many years of experience in various executive capacities with several of the large Eastern casualty and surety companies, and is recognized as a well-informed and able producer of casualty and surety lines in sections other than Washington, to which point he has come just recently.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

COINCIDENT with Maurice Browne's arrival in Washington to attend the tuning-up performances of his production of James B. Fagan's comedy, "The Improper Duchess," current at the Belasco, the announcement comes from James B. Pond that Browne will play a single performance on Sunday night, October 25, in the same theater, in the title role of Paul Raynal's celebrated play of the great conflict, "The Unknown Warrior."

Mr. Pond has made known that the American production of the Raynal play, which will begin a transcontinental tour shortly after the local engagement, will be practically the same as Mr. Browne's successful and widely discussed London production. Rosalinde Fuller, who appeared opposite John Barrymore in his production of "Hamlet" as well as opposite Browne in both the original 1928 production of "The Unknown Warrior" and its 1930 revival, is now en route from England to play the role of the betrothed, and Ellen Van Volkenburg, director of production for Maurice Browne, Ltd., London, and of the London Theater Company, will again be at her post as director.

In undertaking the extensive tour of "The Unknown Warrior," Mr. Browne has been guided by a wish to express his gratitude to the American experimental and little theaters, which, he says, taught him all he knows.

With regard to many aspects of the undertaking, a fuller report will be undertaken by this department at a later date. Mr. Browne is hosting at luncheon today at the Carlton with the local dramatic desks as his guests—and may the Lord have mercy on his sole!

It would be a tough order to unearth a more prolific writer of motion picture stories, novels and stage plays than Ben Hecht, whose collaboration with Charles MacArthur on "The Unholy Garden" will occupy the screen at Loew's Palace for the seven-day period beginning tomorrow.

Almost weekly Hecht is taking on new assignments, although his screen writing is now confined to the United Artists lot, where he is under exclusive contract to Samuel Goldwyn. Recently Hecht made a flight to New York for the purpose of placing a new play, "Twentieth Century," in rehearsal. While in New York he received reports on the royalties from his latest novel, "A Jew in Love," and during off moments looked over notes on still another play and two new novels.

Ben Hecht has written for the screen such stories as "Underworld," "The Unholy Night," "The Great Gabbo" and "Road House Nights." His novels include "Gargoyles," "Eric Dorn," "Count Bruga," "Don Juan," "The Florentine Dagger," "The Kingdom of Evil," "Humpty Dumpty" and "Broken Necks."

There is evidently something a little screwy about that old theory that the pot of gold is at the end of the rainbow—for Hecht it was at the end of a newspaper career!

Just as many pleasant memories are being revived this week by the presentation of "The Admirable Crichton," at the National, so next week at the Belasco will veterans of the theater have another opportunity to revel in happy recollections of an older day in the playhouse.

Beginning next Monday evening, Gilbert Miller will present for the first time in Washington, "The Sex Fable," a comedy by Edouard Bourdet, in which Mrs. Patrick Campbell returns to the local boards after a long absence. A notable cast has been assembled to surround this famous actress, one of whose most memorable performances was in Shaw's "Pygmalion" many seasons ago.

The National, by the way, will offer the first Sunday night opening of the season with the coming of Earl Carroll's eighth edition of his "Vanities" to the E street house as next week's attraction.

The cast of this girls-and-fun show is headed by Jack Benny, Herb Williams and Chaz Chase. Mr. Benny you all know; Mr. Williams is half of the old vaudeville team of Williams and Wolfus; a pianist of note and the popularizer of the cry "Spotlight!" as a signal for laughter; Chaz Chase is the diminutive nut who eats everything in sight, including cigars, cigarettes, matches, his shirt front, razor blades, threshing machines and broken bottles.

Well, maybe not—but almost!

The concert season gets under way next week, too. On next Tuesday evening at 8:45 in Constitution Hall, Leopold Stokowski will conduct the first concert of the season by the Philadelphia Orchestra. A "preclassical" program will be offered, made up of the selected works of composers ranging between the years of 1567 and 1750.

And if something really light and full of the old pepper is what the doctor ordered, you probably will have to duck down to the Gayety and catch the "Parisian Beauties," featuring Harry Meyers and Joe De Rita. This is the topnotch Columbia Burlesque offering announced by Jimmy Beau Brummel Lake for the week beginning with Sunday's matinee.

Master Jim Lundy, cymbal-whanger-in-chief of the Loew organization in the National Capital, at time of writing is preening his wings preparatory to a quick flight to New York to extend paternal greetings to the new son born to Mrs. Lundy in the Metropolis yesterday morning.

This is the second male heir to the Lundy fortune and estates, and is papa excited!

Mrs. Lundy and the baby are reported to be doing splendidly and Jim, it is feared, will survive.

And if you were to look them over, next week's attractions in the cathedrals of the chattering celluloids would appear something like this: Rialto, Lew Ayres and a special cast in "The Spirit of Notre Dame;" RKO-Keith's, Ann Harding and Leslie Howard in "Devotion" and Benny Rubin in "Julius Sizzer," second week; Palace, Ronald Colman and Fay Wray in "The Unholy Garden," and Bert Frohman in Loew's "Blue Echoes" stage revue; Earle, William Powell in "The Road to Singapore," and Lee, Lee, Lee & Lee (of Lee and Lee) headlining the vaudeville; Fox, Linda Watkins and James Dunn in "Sob Sister," and Fanchon & Marco's "Once Upon a Time" Idea; Metropolitan, Edward G. Robinson in "Five Star Final," second week; Columbia, Four Marx Brothers in "Monkey Business," second week.

Oh, Mr. Schloss, how about reopening that Crystal Pool?

Homestake Gold Mines Increases Dividend

New York, Oct. 7 (A.P.).—Homestake Mining Co., operator of gold mines in the Black Hills district, South Dak., has declared a monthly dividend of 65 cents a share, increasing the annual dividend rate to $7.80 from $6 previously.

The action reflects the improvement during the past year in gold mining, one of the few industries to move against the trend. World demand for gold has increased as commodity prices have dropped, and increased the purchasing power of the yellow metal.

CARDINALS DEFEAT ATHLETICS, 5-1, TO REGAIN LEAD; MARTIN HELPS HALLAHAN GAIN SECOND SERIES VICTORY

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7.—If this column stands accused of hero worship and you tell me that Pepper Martin can't possibly be that clever, I'll come right back and say that he is even better than that.

With five games of this world series consigned to the record books, Madcap Martin, the Wild Horse of the Osage, the Rampaging Red Bird, the Terrible Texan, and every other dashing soubriquet that he has earned, has by the sheer consistency of his brilliance dwarfed other world series heroes, intluding Babe Ruth and his twice-done feat of three home runs in a single game, into comparative insignificance.

Move over, you heroes of past world series, and make room for Pepper Martin. And you, Pepper, go to the head of the line. For you surely belong there.

Pepper, you don't have to make another move in this series; you've done yours. They can't take those twelve hits away from you, and they can't take those four steals. They can't take the deserved plaudits that you earned in St. Louis and Philadelphia and they can't take that home run.

You were the Moses who led the Cards out of the darkness against Grove, Pepper, in that first game in St. Louis and you proved his feet of clay to your teammates in the second game he pitched, Pepper. You tore down that aura of invincibility that frightened every club in the American League, Pepper, and methinks you have made it easier for 'em next season.

You gave 'em a taste of old-fashioned baseball, Pepper, and they didn't know what to do about it. You brought some old tricks back to the world series and they couldn't stop you, the softies. You unsteadied the pitchers so much when you were on base that you made it easier for your mates at the bat, Pepper. They had to watch you. You made 'em. But they didn't know how to handle this old-fashioned kind of base running.

I like the way you stepped up to the plate, Pepper. The way you brandished that old mace up there, daring 'em to throw one over. I liked the way you caught a-hold of those pitches and slammed 'em down into left field solidly. Not a fluke among 'em, Pepper. Every one of those twelve hits were hit on the nose.

I admit you had it tough, Pepper, out there on the bases. They were watching you after that first game, but I'm glad it didn't make any difference to you. I suppose you knew it was kind of tough on Mickey Cochrane, all those steals, but I guess orders are orders.

I liked the way you scrambled into third base today, Pepper, on Bottomley's single to right in the fourth. I liked the way you dove into the bag and hooked it safely with your left leg just as you were about to sail over the foul line. That's the way Ty Cobb used to do it. And that's the way you did it.

I liked that bunt of yours that started off the inning, Pepper. That's the way to bunt. You placed it just far enough to draw Foxx off the bag and not so far that Hoyt could field the ball. I liked the way you streaked to first and put on a little extra speed when it seemed that Foxx might tag you. That was pretty work.

And in that first inning, Pepper, you didn't do badly. Hoyt did make you look bad when you went down swinging at the first two strikes, but I like the way you made the fickle fans eat their jeers by catching hold of the next one. I know it wasn't a hit, but it was a solid smack on a line to Simmons far enough to let High score. Attaboy.

I won't say anything about that home run of yours in the sixth. That was just a simple matter of pounding the ball out of the lot, like a lot of 'em do these days, but it shows that you haven't overlooked that little phase of the game yourself. I was glad to know that you could do it.

It felt kinda nice when Hoyt threw to Foxx seven times in the fourth inning to keep you tied to first, didn't it Pepper?

Northwestern Star Out; Irish Rules Favorite

Evanston, Ill., Oct. 7 (A.P.).—Northwestern's chances of defeating Notre Dame dropped today with the announcement that Red Russell, star wildcat ground gainer, would be out of the game because of a cracked vertebra and a broken rib.

The injury, suffered in the Nebraska game last Saturday when Russell attempted to retrieve a fumble, was so severe, his physician said, that Russell may not play football again this season.

"There is no danger of permanent injury," said Coach Dick Hanley, "but it would be dangerous to let him play in a hard game for at least a month."

Russell's loss upset the Wildcat plans for the Notre Dame game, as the entire attack was centered about him and "Pug" Rentner. Ollie Olson, who showed well against Nebraska last week, probably will replace him at full back.

Mack Scouts Overlooked Martin

Strategists Failed to Give Tumble to Pepper Boy.

By GAYLE TALBOT.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7 (A.P.).—If the Philadelphia Athletics are divested of their world baseball supremacy—and that seemed tonight to be the prospect—they can charge it up to experience.

Their staff of strategists made only one mistake. Perhaps it was just an oversight, but the fact remains that Connie Mack's intelligence corps slipped up on a very important item when it was drawing up plans for the present world series:

It neglected to scout Pepper Martin.

The fact came out late today in a fanning bee outside the Cardinals' clubhouse. The informant, a member of the Cardinal staff, was having the time of his life telling about it.

"Get this, those fellows had a scout trailing us for a month before the season closed. Who were they watching? Why, Hafey and Bottomley, of course. They could have told you what time Jim and Chick went to bed every night. But did they give this Pepper a tumble? No, sir. He was just a rookie, and what did they care about him? Boy, oh, boy, how they've learned to care!

Gives Pitchers Problem.

"They haven't the least idea what to throw him and he has them in the hole every time he comes up. They don't know whether he's going to hit one a mile or bunt one down the line. What a ball player."

That seemed to be the consensus in Philadelphia tonight. From the bleacherites, who took this dashing blade from the derrick country to their hearts the first day, up to Connie Mack, the man he has injured most, they were talking nothing but Pepper Martin.

"Isn't he the darndest feller you ever saw," exclaimed the mild-mannered pilot of the Athletics. "How are we going to stop him?" The accent was on the "are."

Gabby Street, fighting his way into the dressing room today to make a hurried change and see that his players caught an early train for St. Louis, hesitated only long enough to yell:

"Another great ball game. And how do you like that Hallahan and Martin?"

The shout that went up from the crowding pushing throng that filled the corridors in hopes of getting a glimpse of the Cardinals was adequate answer.

Up the steps from the dugout came the happy, perspiring Martin, a husky teammate on either arm. They rushed him through the crowd, all three yipping as they went. A newspaper man tried to pull the Pepper loose for a few words. He was willing, but his mates shoved him into the direction of the dressing room and slammed the door. There wasn't a minute to lose to catch that train.

Just Pitched Another Game.

Somebody detached Bill Hallahan from the jostling procession and got in a few words with the star southpaw who had just stopped the slugging A's for the second time.

"I just pitched another game like I did the last time," he explained. "They didn't hit me much, did they? They wouldn't have gotton so many hits if I handled those three I got hold of but they were pretty hard chances. Naw, neither of those hard drives I deflected hurt me a bit."

Connie Mack appeared pretty well disappointed at today's defeat. He had wanted to win it badly, and it was evident he realized his Athletics were in a precarious spot. He couldn't summon a smile, but he was eager to give the Cardinals full credit for their victory.

"They outplayed us, and deserved to win," he said. "Hallahan pitched a fine game and they all played good ball. Hallahan used fine judgment when it was necessary and his control is much better than it was last year.

"But what I want to know is, how are we going to stop that Martin!"

DIXIE PIGS PRACTICE.

The Dixie Pig gridders will practice tonight at 8 o'clock on the Seat Pleasant field in preparation for Sunday's game with the Brookland A. C. This game will mark the opening of the Capital City League for both teams.

KENTUCKY COACH HOPEFUL.

Pepper Martin, the fast-thinking and faster-running center fielder of the St. Louis Cardinals, was accosted by a policeman before yesterday's game. The policeman had heard rumors of Martin's stealing and warned him about it. So Mr. Pepper, who is a law-abiding young fellow, did not steal a base but confined his afternoon's work to making two singles and a home run to drive in four runs.

SHIBE PARK, Philadelphia, Oct. 7. "Red Pepper" Martin went berserk again today in the fifth game of the world series, tying the records for hits, smacking out a home run and glorifying the American wallop at all times.

The series now stands three games for "Pepper" and two for the Athletics.

They say an elephant never forgets, and it is certain that Cornelius McGillicuddy's Elephant will never forget this Temple, Okla., boy who made good in the city.

Having tied the world series record for twelve hits made by any one player in a series, "Pepper" is practically sure to break it and set his own world record when the brawl is resumed Friday in St. Louis.

If the series goes seven games, he may stick up a record for world series hitting that will stand for years to come.

Today Gabby Street changed the batting order, putting Mr. Martin up in Bottomley's position and while it didn't make any difference to "Pepper" it seemed to give the boys batting punch all around.

"Pepper's" home run came in the sixth with Frisch on base. In the fourth he amused the fans by changing his act and playing a little mashie niblick shot to the infield and beating the ball to first while the crowds howled in admiration.

Dash of Pepper Saves Long Drawn Out Series From Being Boresome

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

SHIBE PARK, Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 7.—Johnny Martin, the Great Unwashed, with the dirtiest face, the dirtiest hands and the dirtiest uniform in baseball, personally attended to the winning of the fifth game of the world series by the Cardinals this afternoon. The score was five to one and the score in games now stands at three to two.

After the ball game the athletes, all, with the probable exception of dirty-face Martin, who always looks the least bit insanitary, galloped away to the showers to wet down and hop into their clothes for the return trip to St. Louis, where the world series will now continue on time borrowed from the football season. Mr. Martin presumably just powdered himself with coal dust and was ready for the train.

Hoyt Rising Young Man Himself Once.

Dirty-Face Martin hit a home run into the left field bleachers in the sixth inning this afternoon, scoring Frank Frisch, who had hit a double. Old Waite Hoyt, the boy prodigy of 1921, who is stumbling to the end of a long career full of years, honors and one thing and another, he being somewhat fond of one thing and another, was pitching for the Athletics at the time.

As the ball sailed into a group of scrambling customers in the upper deck and the young man on his way up to a career swaggered past Hoyt on his way down, Mr. Hoyt gave him a look which was much as saying, "Have a good time, kid, because you'll come down after a while."

Mr. Hoyt was a rising young man, himself, and just as prodigious in the papers as Martin is today when he pitched in a world series against the Giants at the tender age of 20 in 1921. He has had a lot of cheers and more luck and more fun in his time than most people do. In a dumb way, ball players accept their decline with more grace and philosophy than any other class you might name. They often find themselves all through in their early thirties and bow themselves out smiling.

Altogether, Martin got three hits to bring his total for the series to an even dozen and equal the record of hits by one player in a world series. But when he gets through the only trade he will have to fall back on will be the trucking and odd job trade.

Mack Does Not Approve of Hoyt's Social Habits.

Mr. Hoyt is a respectable mortician with a very fine forty-hack trade, and of neat appearance and socially graceful. He served his time with the Yankees when the boys who didn't pour Martinis on their oatmeal were hazed off the club as sissies and the fact that he strung along to pitch in his seventh world series long after the 9 o'clock lads of his class were dispersed may be some comfort to those who wish to live by the way as they gambol through life. Old Connie Mack does not approve the social habits of such as Hoyt but when he found himself down to his No. 3 pitcher for today's game, he chose the happy embalmer.

At that, Waite pitched a fair journeyman job for the old man. It was sub championship ball, not good enough to win a world series game from a keyed-up club with as wild man hitting fourth in the batting order, but sufficient to have given most teams a wrestle during a league season.

He was taken for one run in the first inning on hits by Adams and Frisch and the other two in the sixth when Martin slugged that one into the crowd. Rube Walberg relieved him in the seventh and gave a run in the eighth when Martin hit again to tie the record. Ed Rommel pitched the final inning.

Hallahan Has No Big Margin To Work Under.

Meanwhile, Wild Bill Hallahan was pitching along for the Cardinals for six good innings in which Al Simmons touched him for two hits, but nobody else broke through his service. However, he never had such command as Grimes had Monday or Earnshaw Tuesday and there were a couple of spells in the last three innings when the Athletics just barely didn't turn the ball game upside down, as they did when they were playing the Cubs two years ago.

The world series caravan dropped a great many stragglers in Philadelphia this evening. The novelty is off the show now, and, with football coming on, the two days delay in starting the show last week seems more and more unnecessary and mer-

MARTIN SOLD HIMSELF TO MANAGER

Player Barefooted in First Pro Game in Mississippi.

CRYSTAL SPRINGS, Miss., Oct. 7 (A.P.).—He was born in Temple, Okla., and raised in Oklahoma, but Pepper Martin, dominating figure of the present world series, served his baseball apprenticeship on the sandlots of Crystal Springs back in the days of the old Tomato League.

Moving to Copiah County with his father and mother while a lad in his early teens, Martin had the one requisite frequently found in the great—he was a poor boy, forced to go to work. Martin severed his connection with the local high school and chose that which he loved best for an occupation—baseball.

Crystal Springs had baseball fever following an unusually profitable vegetable season, and money flowed like water. Players such as Buddy Myers, Joe Edwards, Watson Clark, Jim Lindsey, Lisenbee, Bill Terry, Moore, now with the Athletics; Joe Brennan and a score of other equally famous names composed the rosters at McComb, Brookhaven, Hazlehurst and Crystal Springs, the four towns in the league of the tomato belt.

Martin Sells Himself.

Barefoot, hatless and with a wide grin on his face, Martin sat in the office of Roscoe Miles, manager of the Crystal Springs Club, wiggled his big toe and told Miles he knew he could play outfield because he could "catch 'em like Tris Speaker" and had an "arm as great as Hornsby's" and could "run the sacks equally as well as Cobb."

Miles, slightly bewildered at such front, looked the lanky lad over and said rather caustically, "And I guess you can hit 'em like Ruth." Not in the least abashed, Martin replied: "Ruth hit 'em pretty far," and with a shake of his head added, "but I hit 'em pretty far myself, Mr. Miles." Martin got the job.

In his first appearance in a Crystal Springs uniform, Martin came to bat amid jeers of the stands. The kid socked the first ball pitched far and wide into center field, a clean double. Like a rocket he broke for first, rounded the bag and continued for second. Midway down the base line he stumbled and fell, and before he recovered the ball had been retrieved and he was tagged out. The fans went wild at such awkwardness, yelling to take him out.

Two innings later the local dugout was in an uproar. It was Pepper's time at bat again and he was miss-

Outfielder Ties Record For Hits as Homer and 2 Singles Bring 4 Runs

Mrs. Martin in Tears As Hubby Hits Homer

Philadelphia, Oct. 7 (A.P.).—When Pepper Martin connected for his home run today a woman in the boxes cried while the rest of the multitude rose and cheered. The woman was Mrs. Martin, wife of the series hero. She always cries, she said, every time her now-famous husband gains glory.

"He's always been a hero to me," she said, "when we were in grammar school I stood on a soap box to cheer his baseball work. Now, when the crowd starts cheering him my eyes get misty. I just can't help it."

Two days after Mrs. Martin became of age she and Pepper ran away and got married. Her parents had her finish school when she returned from the honeymoon.

"When this series is over we're going to get somebody to care for our baby and go deer hunting in New Mexico," she said.

Philadelphia Knows How Mudville Felt About Casey.

By HENRY M'LEMORE.

SHIBE PARK, Philadelphia, Oct. 7 (U.P.).—Get out your chisels, you stonecutters, and high on the pillar of baseball's immortals carve the name of John Leonard Martin, known to the trade as "Pepper."

Carve there, too, the initials of "Wild Willie" Hallahan, the dour-faced, sawed-off left-hander, for these two young men working hand in hand, led the St. Louis Cardinals to a smashing 5 to 1 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics in the fifth game of the 1931 world series today.

There was no joy tonight in Philadelphia and the city's baseball enthusiasts knew at the close of this murky autumn day just how all Mudville felt when the mighty Casey missed that third one.

Today's triumph placed the Cardinals within one step of an achievement no National League team has accomplished since 1926. They need but to win Friday's game in St. Louis to take the series and shatter the veteran Connie Mack's dream of becoming the first manager in history to lead a ball club to three successive world championships.

Macks Must Stop Martin.

And the Cardinals will do just that unless the Athletics bind, gag, truss and handcuff Mister Martin, the most sensational first-year man the classic has ever seen. Not since Ty Cobb was in full bloom has a player cut such capers and shinannigans as did Martin today.

As wild and wooly and magnificent as was Martin's play in the first four games, it was nothing when compared to his goings-on today. He was a ball of fire from the first inning to the last and after the game said he had no thought of allowing anyone to extinguish him.

It was Martin's bat and his alone, swung with all the strength in those massive shoulders of his, that battered the Athletics into submission. Pepper's hits, one a booming home run with Frisch on base, accounted for four of the five St. Louis runs. It was his flaming spirit, his almighty aggressiveness, that inspired the Cards to start swinging from their spikes with the first ball, and drive first Waite Hoyt, then Rube Walberg, and then Eddie Rommel to the comparative saftey of the showers.

While Martin and the rest of the boys were laying down a barrage of hits, "Wild Willie," was out there on the firing line pitching a pretty sweet ball game. True, he was touched for nine hits, but when hits meant runs he slapped his speed ball and curves down the alley in a manner that brooked no trifling. Today's victory was Hallahan's second triumph of the series, h[illegible] ree-hit performance last week in St. Louis giving the Cardinals the second game. And thus Willie is just about ready to become the pitching hero of the series.

Simmons, Alone, Has Range.

Hallahan spiked all the Athletics' guns but one, the exception being Al Simmons' 7th. The slugging Pole got three for four, one a double in the first inning. It was too bad for the Athletics that Al couldn't have saved that double for the eighth, when, with the score 4 to 1, the A's put a man on first and second. As Al walked to the plate the stands went wild.

But Hallahan, pitching deliberately, forced Simmons to roll weakly to High on third to end the rally.

Before the game Hallahan told his playmates that if they got a run or two he'd see to it that the A's didn't top the score. Adams opened things with a single, and after Watkins had flied out Frisch hit to center, sending Sparky to third. He scored a few minutes later when Martin lifted a long, high one to Simmons.

St. Louis touched Hoyt for three

Sarazen Adds to Lead In Lannin Memorial

Salisbury Plains, N. Y., Oct. 7 (A.P.).—Gene Sarazen, of Great Neck, N. Y., today shot another sub-par round in the J. J. Lanning memorial golf tournament to take a four-stroke lead over the cream of America's professionals at the half-way mark of the 72-hole medal play tournament with a 68, 70—138.

Closest to the flying little Long Island pro was Mike Turnesa, of Elmsford, N. Y., who shot a 73 today to add to his 69 of yesterday and take second place.

Harry Cooper, of Chicago, and Willie Klein, of East Williston, N. Y., who were tied with Turnesa for second place last night, needed 74s today and dropped a stroke back with 36-hole totals of 143.

The majority of the field of 51 which remained to play the final 36 holes tomorrow were from 10 to 17 strokes behind Sarazen, and with only a fighting chance of catching him. The Salisbury course, where the tournament is being played, always has been easy for Gene, and he holds the course record there of 67.

Among those back in the pack was Tom Creavy, of Albany, young P. G. A. champion, with 75, 73—148.

New Bird, a Martin, Excites St. Louis as Business Is Halted

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 7 (A.P.).—A new bird in the Cardinal flock—not a red bird, but a Martin—has St. Louis really excited over his flights around the Athletics.

"Pepper" Martin, that newcomer in the brood from the Mound City, where world series games after four classics in six years have made fans rather blase, has the city agog. When the team returns here tomorrow for the sixth game Friday, he can have the town, if he wants it.

Cheers reverberated from between skyscrapers downtown today whenever "Pepper" went to bat and radios relayed the news to throngs of listening fans, but they couldn't compare with the mighty shout that swelled up when that wild horse of the Osage banged that homer into the left-field stands in the sixth inning, driving in Frankie Frisch ahead of him.

As the rambling, hitting, base-stealing sensation of the series again rode rough shod over Connie Mack's Elephants in the fifth game at Quaker-

Martin Threatening Wholesale Raid on World Series Records

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 7 (U.P.).—There may have to be a revision of the record books if Pepper Martin continues his dynamic pace in the world series. The sensational St. Louis Cardinal outfielder already has tied two long-standing marks and is threatening three others.

Martin's potent bat gave him a share in two records today. His three hits brought his total safeties to twelve, equalling the record shared by Buck Herzog, Joe Jackson and Sam Rice; accounted for four runs batted in, tying the standard set by five other players.

The runs batted in brought his total in this department to five, only four less than the record made by Lou Gehrig, of the Yankees, in 1928. And the hits gave him a batting average for the series thus far of .667, compared with the record of .625 for a complete classic held by Babe Ruth, of the Yankees.

In addition, Martin's twinkling feet have helped him steal four bases. The series record is six, set by Jim Slagle, of the Cubs, in 1907.

BLACK MAJESTY, CHOICE, JUST LASTS TO WIN LAUREL FEATURE

Steffan Works Hard to Get Mount Under Wire First.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 7.—The fifth race saved the Laurel card from mediocrity here today. This number brought together eight horses priced up at $7,500 in the claiming line-up, and the winner was W. R. Coe's 4-year-old Black Majesty, which carried top weight, but he just escaped defeat by the outsider, Mrs. Herbert Pulitzer's Repentance, which lacked a nose of reaching the leader at the wire, and paid $16.60 to place. The winner paid $5.

St. Priscia, carrying the colors of the Branncastle Farm, was third, with Rip Van Winkle, strong second choice, fourth. The time was fast for the three-quarters, 1:11 2-5, within one-fifth of the record set yesterday by Mr. Sponge.

Black Majesty in Front All the Way.

Black Majesty led all the way, Steffen never letting up on the black son of Black Toney, but Repentance was gaining, and always second to the leader. It appeared in the stretch that Callahan erred when he laid the whip on Repentance. It seemed certain that Repentance was going to pass the Coe horse when he flinched from the whip.

Rip Van Winkle was the disappointment in the race. He was primed for winning at Havre de Grace, but Her Grace beat him easily. The Sagamore colt was never a contender.

The attendance held up well. The weather was hot, but the track very fast.

Mrs. F. J. Vollmer's filly, Dea, set a record for the meeting when she led all the way to win the sixth race, paying $62 for $2. She won easily, and was much the best of the field. She was ridden by the apprentice, H. Lausch, and the horse paid about a dollar for every pound of the jockey.

Jodphur Weakens in Stretch.

Daddy Nelson was second and Jodphur third. Jodphur was the contender entering stretch, but weakened at the sixteenth, giving Daddy Nelson his chance to get place money. The time for the mile and a quarter was 2:05 1-5.

The field was made the favorite in the first race for 2-year-olds, and M. Larjin's Highest Point, a field horse, won by a nose from E. R. Bradley's Busted. Mrs. T. H. Somervill got third money with Princel, early pacemaker. It appeared that Busted had the best of it, but Fator did not make his usual strong finish. They ran 6 furlongs in 1:12 3-5. C. Kurtsinger had the mount on Highest Point. Others coupled in the field group were Fair Lever and Sample Ballot. The field paid $5.90.

Dorwood Stable's Taos, second choice, won the steeplechase, going to the front when the Log Cabin Stud's Tasman, quoted at 100 to 1, broke down. Rigan McKinne's Nat Clyman, which was ridden by Mr. McKinney, was second, beaten a length, and Mrs. T. M. Somerville's Index third. Bayard Warren's Maureen and W. J. Salmon's Huffy fell. W. Collins had the mount on the winner, which paid $9.60.

Tasman Slows Up and Rider Dismounts.

When Tasman finally was willing to start, after holding the field several minutes, he went to the front, followed by Stoney Lonesome and Polinos. The long shot ran fast on the flat and jumped well, but after giving promise of leading all the way he slowed up at the eleventh fence, due to a leg injury, and E. Christian dismounted.

C. Harvey Pierce's Putter, favorite, was best in the third race, a gallop of a mile and a quarter, which she ran in 2:07 2-5. Doctor Rankin, an outsider, closed fast to finish second, but was two lengths behind the winner. Vowed Vengeance was third. Gay Widower, an extreme outsider, led the field to the far turn. Putter had moved up to second, and when Nertney passed the field, he drew away. The Pierce mare was even money.

Robert A. Fairbairn's Merry Fox, with R. Workman up, won the fourth for 2-year-old maiden colts and geldings by two lengths. The favorite, Mrs. C. Crane's Ladfield, was second, and Max Hirsch's Barcelona Pete, for which there was heavy backing, got third. A neck separated the second and third horses. The winner paid $17.10. The Sir Galahad 3d colt was timed in 1:07 3-5. When the field was straightened out Bright Bird was leading with Floor Walker second. Before reaching the far turn Merry Fox was second and soon closed in on the leader.

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Laurel Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 7.—Laurel's card for tomorrow is featured by the Anne Arundel, for fillies and mares, 3 years old and upward, at 6 furlongs. The Dorwood Stable's pair, THE BEASEL and LADANA, in their own class and taking off weight, would appear invincible were it not for the presence in the dash of the speedy CON AMORE. But THE BEASEL dropped from 126 to 119 pounds, which she carried against Mr. Sponge and Balko on Tuesday, which appears fairly certain of scoring.

The Dorwood star made a game effort and was crushed in the Capital Handicap, when a new track record was set by the Widener horse. She is at her best form and will be aided materially by LADANA, with 112. CON AMORE carries top weight of 122 and finished third to Mr. Sponge. Mrs. John Hay Whitney's POLLY PLAY, on her last race at Havre de Grace, should figure in this, is reasonably sure of landing third.

FIRST RACE—Johnny Schorr's ETCETERA, after a good race at Havre de Grace and conditioning gallops since, is in line for brackets. MEA, which has had a rest, should be the contender on New York form. BLUE DAMSEL has run two good races in Maryland, winning one, and should be close. THE CRANE appears not as good as he was early in the year.

SECOND RACE—PLAYBILL looks best. His condition has been shown under the watch in workouts. CHARLIE K's last race was good and he may be hard to beat. ANNAPOLITAN should get the short end of the purse.

THIRD RACE — RUANE, first on eligible list for the third race, is overdue. He should lead all the way. TINITA has worked well, and has been placed second, with PEACH BASKET dangerous. MY SIS continues to run good races.

FOURTH RACE—BETTY FARRELL stands out in the fourth. Chief among the contenders is the Greentree filly DELICACY, injured at Havre de Grace, but which has entirely recovered. She is very fast. TRYANDAGAIN should get part of this purse and has been picked third. BERET is coupled with DELICACY. This race will prove a duel between Fator on the Bradley filly and Kurtsinger on the Greentree choice.

SIXTH RACE—ARRAS has been coming close and should score here. EAGER PLAY is the most dangerous contender and the stable will back him. DUNFERN will like the distance and will not be overlooked.

SEVENTH RACE—SNAPPY SNUB should run back to his Havre winning effort, and will be a hot favorite. ROBRACK is back in form and should furnish the contention.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HIGHEST POINT (field), $5.90, $3.20, $2.70; BUSTED, $4.50, $3.00; PRINCEL, $2.80.

HIGHEST POINT, rated in close attendance of PRINCEL, was placed to severe punishment when approaching the home stretch, assumed command at the final furlong pole and had to be hard ridden to stall off a BUSTED rush. Latter, a keen factor and saving ground all the way, finished gamely and was wearing winner down fast. PRINCEL had good early speed, but faltered through the final quarter mile.

SECOND RACE—Two miles. Purse, $2,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:15. Off at 2:21. Winner, Dorwood Stable's ch. g. (4), by Friar Rock—Wigwam. Trained by J. P. Smith. Value to winner, $1,400; second, $400; third, $200. Time, 3:56.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TAOS, $9.60, $5.40, $4.90; NAT CLYMAN (entry), $3.90, $3.20; INDEX, $6.50.

TAOS, forwardly placed and allowed to race on his own courage for the first mile, challenged after a mile and one-half, stumbled when leading after the eleventh fence, recovered quickly and was taken over the last fence by Christian, outstayed NAT CLYMAN. Latter, reserved and jumping boldly in the early stages, finished with good energy. INDEX closed strong from a slow beginning.

THIRD RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 2:50. Off at 2:53½. Winner, C. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PUTTER, $4.00, $3.00, $2.30; DOCTOR RANKIN, $9.10, $4.10; VOWED VENGEANCE, $2.60.

PUTTER, taken under stiff restraint until midway of the back stretch, reached the front without effort and had enough left to withstand DOCTOR RANKIN. Latter, forced to race on the outside for racing room, saved ground entering the home stretch and finished stoutly. VOWED VENGEANCE, kept under urging from the start, labored gamely in the finish. GAY WIDOWER established a steady early pace and continued gamely when challenged. SKIRT was gaining slowly at the finish. TANGIER quit early.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,300. For maiden 2-year-old colts and geldings. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:20. Off at 3:24½. Winner, R. A. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MERRY FOX, $17.10, $8.90, $4.80; LADFIELD, $4.70, $3.10; BARCELONA PETE, $3.70.

MERRY FOX, rushed hard from the start, wore BRIGHT BIRD down when straightening into the home stretch, continued stoutly under strong pressure and held LADFIELD safe approaching the finish. Latter, hard ridden to assume a forward position, came to the outside and finished gamely. BARCELONA PETE met with interference leaving the back stretch, secured racing room and finished stoutly on the inside. EXCAVATION broke slowly, reached contention with high speed and finished with good energy. REHOBOTH raced well. OPEN HEARTH was outrun. FLOOR WALKER was crowded back leaving the back stretch.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:50. Off at 3:55. Winner, W. J. Coe's br. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BLACK MAJESTY, $5.00, $3.50, $2.80; REPENTANCE, $16.60, 19.70; ST. PRISCA, $13.30.

BLACK MAJESTY, quick to gain his stride and displaying keen speed, responded gamely to move clear when straightened into the home stretch, but weakened fast and just lasted long enough. REPENTANCE, a keen factor from the early stages, finished with good determination and was wearing him down at every stride nearing the finish. ST. PRISCA, ridden hard all the way, closed with good courage. RIP VAN WINKLE could not keep pace when put to a drive and saving ground. AVALON had no mishaps. ESSARE was outrun. CLICK refused to break.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:25. Off at 4:36. Winner, Mrs. J. J. Vollmer's b. f. (3), by Ormondale—Bahesa. Trained by J. R. Harmon. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48 3-5, 1:14, 1:39 3-5, 2:05 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—DEA, $62.00, $18.30, $9.50; DADDY NELSON, $6.20, $4.60; JODHPUR, $6.90.

DEA, going in her best form, went into an easy lead when straightened into the back stretch, raced along under restraint until challenged and came away smartly when shaken up. DADDY NELSON trailed off the early pace and closed stoutly when put to a drive. JODHPUR, prominent the entire trip, held on well for the final test, to a driving finish. MAINSHEET weakened after making a determined effort rounding the far turn. PANTAGRUEL made up a lot of ground. HARRISIT was never dangerous.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:55. Off at 4:57½. Winner, Mrs. H. Two-dollar mutuels paid—STRONGHEART, $5.00, $3.20, $2.50; FAIR BETH, $6.80, $4.60; PRINCESS ISABEL, $3.20.

STRONGHEART, restrained until settled on the back stretch, took command without effort, saved ground while being steadied in front and, holding on stoutly, just lasted long enough. He pulled up lame. FAIR BETH moved up fast when making her run and finished in stout fashion. PRINCESS ISABEL, prominent throughout, held the others safe. WIND SWEPT could not keep pace when shaken up. PRINCESS HENRY weakened. OLD SOL and OREGON FIR were outrun.

MARYLAND PROMISES MIDDIES REAL BATTLE HERE SATURDAY

Best Old Line Team Ready For Navy

Navy Boasts Better Eleven Than That of 1930.

"MARYLAND will have a better team on the field than the one Navy beat at Annapolis last fall," is the way Curley Byrd, coach of the Old Liners, feels about his charges for the big tilt with the fighting midshipmen at Griffith Stadium here Saturday. "We did not go into the battle at Annapolis with our full strength last fall, due to injuries, but we hope to have all our regulars fit this time," he said.

"However, I know full well, too, that we will be facing a stronger Navy team than beat us last November, 6 to 0, so any power we have gained doubtless will be fully offset. The team that gets the breaks ought to win, and if one or the other gets a lot of breaks the score may be a couple of touchdowns, one way or another. At any rate, I know that it will be a hard-fought game, with lots of color."

Kirn Definitely Out Saturday, Is Reported.

And it might be mentioned again that it was just one bit of great ball toting that swung the game to Navy last November, and there is a lot of regret that Bullet Lou Kirn, whose 65-yard dash was the deciding factor, will not be in Saturday's tilt. He is nursing a leg injury and has been definitely declared out. Harry Tschirgi, a clever all-around back who is nearly 15 pounds heavier, doubtless will take Kirn's place.

From every standpoint the struggle this week-end is attracting more attention than any staged in Washington in many years, and it is a certainty that a record crowd for a grid contest will be at Griffith Stadium Saturday. It should be a football duel and that alone is enough for most of the fans, and for color it assuredly will outclass any sporting event held in the Capital.

Navy and Maryland are keen rivals in other sports, particularly in basket ball and lacrosse, and the Old Liners last year occupied the honor position in both of these pastimes on the Navy's schedule. And the football rivalry bids fair to develop into one of the most intense in the country.

Maryland Working Under Arcs For Navy Game.

Navy, incidentally, will send its basket ball team to College Park next January 23 to help the Old Liners dedicate their handsome new field house that is well under way.

Maryland is letting no grass grow under its feet in priming for the Middies Saturday. The floodlights have been brought into full bloom at College Park as the Old Liners toil to perfect their play, and the squad has been displaying a spirit that presages tough going for the foemen.

Curley Byrd may make no changes in his line-up for the start of the game Saturday, but he will not stand for many mistakes before he does that day.

Navy Practices Defense Against Old Line Attack

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 7.—A defensive workout against Maryland's style of attack, and an offensive scrimmage to further perfect their own plays, featured the practice session of the Navy football players as they continued their preparations for the battle with the Old Liners in the Griffith Stadium, Washington, on Saturday. The players continued at their task long after the flood light had been switched on the field.

"Bullet Lou" Kirn, veteran backfield star, worked out with his teammates, notwithstanding reports that the injury to his ankle sustained a week ago, was further aggravated in yesterday's practice to the extent of jeopardizing his chances of playing against the Terrapins.

Though Head Coach Miller said he was not prepared to announce his starting line-up, it would not surprise if the second group trots onto the field for the start of hostilities, just to feel out the enemy. An indication of this was gleaned from the fact that Miller devoted major attention to the offensive workout of this combination in today's practice. The back field of this outfit consists of Moncure at quarter, Chung Hoon and Samuels, half backs, and Erck, full back.

ST. STEPHEN'S DRILLS.

Two St. Stephen's elevens, unlimited and 135 pounders, will drill tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Seventeenth street and Constitution avenue northwest, in preparation for the opening of the Capital City League Sunday. All members of both teams are requested to report promptly.

MOHAWKS SEEK GAME.

The Mohawk 125-pound gridmen are seeking an opponent for Sunday. Teams interested should call North 10.000, apartment 129, between 7 and 8 p. m.

POTOMACS IN FIELD.

The Potomac A. C. is anxious to book games with the leading teams in the 135-pound division. Manager Rosenbaum is arranging the schedule at Cleveland 3014.

MIRACLES OF SPORTS. —By Robert Edgren

35-Yard Advance in Final Period Decisive.

RIDING 35 yards down the dusty Gonzaga field with a forward pass and three line bucks that ripped open the Business frontal wall, Gonzaga High's Grid Team wrought a 6-0 victory over the Stenogs yesterday afternoon after the two teams had battled nip and tuck for three and a third periods.

Carly Mills, fleet Gonzaga quarter back, put the potent ball in motion for his team just after the start of the final period with a 19-yard sprint around end to Business' 16-yard mark. Ernie Viau, Gonzaga's giant full back, gained 5 through the left side of the line, Jack Carr and Joe Mills moved it up to the 1-yard stripe and Carr cracked center wide open for the tally. A wild pass from center checked Gonzaga's attempt to add an extra point.

Business Threatens in Waning Minutes.

Business tried desperately to even up the score in the closing minutes. A good heave, Harris to Sherman amassed 55 yards for the Stenogs and placed the ball on Gonzaga's 17-yard line. Line charges by Flynn and a short pass moved it up 10 more yards, but here Cleary broke up Business' final challenge when he grounded Harris' potent pass.

Gonzaga's two backs, Mulcare and Carr, turned in rousingly good all-around performances during the game, with Viau, although injured about the face, accounting for most of the actual yard gaining. Business showed a good line, three times breaking up Gonzaga rams with the 10-yard line, and produced a back of real drive in Flynn. The game was almost a duplicate of last season's 7-0 victory for Business. It marked Gonzaga's second victory over a public high team this year, Western having been drubbed 24-0 last week.

Army-Navy to Confer In Philly on Monday

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Oct. 7.—Enthusiasm still is rife at the Naval Reservation over announcement of plans for the Army-Navy game to be played in New York December 12 for the benefit of unemployment relief fund. Details will be worked out at a meeting of West Point and Annapolis athletic officials to be held in Philadelphia next Monday, it was announced here tonight. Capt. John W. Wilcox, jr., athletic director, and Lieut. Comdr. John L. Hall, graduate manager and director of football, will be Navy's chief representatives at the parley. Maj. Philip Fleming, graduate manager, and his assistant, Capt. (Biff) Jones, former head coach of the Cadets, will be West Point's representatives, it is understood.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 7 (A.P.).—Use of the Yankee Stadium for the November charity football game between the Army and Navy has been donated by Jacob Ruppert, president of the New York Yankees, Maj. P. B. Fleming, graduate manager of athletics at West Point announced today.

Promising Central Gridmen Give Hardell Food for Tears

AFTER years of crying on the shoulders of his associates, over the chances of Tech to beat Business and such minor incidentals in the life of a remarkable high-school football team, the lachrymosic Happy Hardell, grand mogul of the entire Tech High School, has a real cause for ripping his forehead skin into an apprehensive washboard of wrinkles.

It's this Central Team that Bert Coggins has been handed on a gold platter. Nothing Coggins' has done to the team this year has hurt it. On the other hand, he has made out of the Blue and White entrant a working mass of eleven tough boys, who stand easily abreast Tech, compared man to man.

Coggins has resurrected a set of overhead plays, which even Tech's can not equal, one pass from a lateral being about the neatest trick the high school boys have shown in half a decade of itneresting football.

Like Tech, Central this year is an all-team and a no-star team, somewhat removed from the last two years when Larry Pinckney was the chief ball toter. This year the team has a fine brace of blocking backs in King and Myers, and a pair of downright excellent all-around men in Cumberland and Koscis, the latter a reformed guard. The middle of the line is fair, slow, but big and willing, and the ends are held down by two big fleet boys, Heflin and one of the 3,534 Buschers.

Central has achieved some much-needed morale this year, and an immediate effect has been seen in the student body itself. Three thousand of them attended the John Marshall game, where about 200 saw the 1930 C Club game against Washington-Lee. Central has improved in so many different ways that it would not be surprising if her most important players stayed scholastically eligible this year, but then that is a rather drastic desire.

Davis, Batting "Goat," Leads St. Paul to Win

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 7 (A.P.).—George Davis, who has been the batting "goat" of the little world series, came to life today, pounded out four hits and led the St. Paul Saints, champions of the American Association, to a 9-to-3 victory over the Rochester Redwings of the International League. Although winning, the Saints still trail the Redwings two games to four.

NORTHERNS PRACTICE.

"Buck" Greir's Northerns will go through their paces tonight under the guidance of Coach Joe Sweeney at Seventeenth street and Constitution avenue northwest at 7:30 p. m. The Redbirds are scheduled to open their season Sunday at Richmond with the Richmond Aces as opponents. The following week will find the team inaugurating its Capital City League campaign.

Hitting The Head Pin

THE Capital City Tennis Bowling League (fathom that) opened its season at the King Pin alleys last night with all of the reformed tennis players showing to a good advantage. Well, some of them were pretty good. Rock Creek inaugurated the season in approved style, taking all three from Pan-American with ease. Edgewood was not quite as consistent, dropping its third tilt with Clairemont after winning the first two handily.

The hero of the evening was one Mr. Garnett, who rolled with such vigor that the high-game honors, 128, came into his possession. Garnett's 341 set was also sufficient to assure him of high-set honors.

Georgetown Recreation was obliged to come from behind in its match with Meyer Davis at the King Pin alleys last night to eke out a 2-1 victory in the Ladies District League. Miss Limerick's 109 captured high game honors, while Miss Malcolm's 291 was good for high set. The Meyer Davis pinettes were woefully off form in the final game and were drubbed soundly.

ROUGH WORK FOR G. U. ELEVEN

Mills' Chief Need Is Booter for Coming N. Y. U. Game.

WHILE the telegraph wires were telling the story that New York University's varsity team had no trouble in plowing through a scrub outfit equipped with Georgetown's adoption of the Notre Dame system, Coach Tommy Mills drove his Hoya grid machine over a road of rough tackling and blocking yesterday afternoon at the Hilltop.

Mills had a dozen or so of his boys kicking pigskins down the field, but unearthed no toe of championship caliber during the day. Georgetown, incidently, lost last year's N. Y. U. game through a kicker, Johnny Scalzi, who stepped out of the end zone while getting off a 50-yard punt.

Great Interest Manifested In Game.

Using the sale of tickets as a criterion, there is virtually as much interest in Saturday's Polo Ground classic, 200 miles away, as if the two were playing here. Many will board the excursion trains which will make the trip up and back.

Mills' assistant, John Colrick, and Chick Meehan, N. Y. U. boss, will air their views on the impending battle tomorrow night over the Columbia Broadcasting System, between 6 and 6:15 o'clock. Saturday morning Coach Mills himself will broadcast, from 11 to 11:30 o'clock, from WABC, in New York, augmented by the Georgetown University Band.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Oct. 7.—With the Georgetown game but three days away, Coach Chick Meehan put his Violet squad through a vigorous two-hour workout at Ohio Field here today. Meehan has been driving his boys at a rapid pace all week in preparation for his first major game, scrimmaging with Columbia yesterday, and arranging for a practice tussle against Manhattan College tomorrow.

Today the Violet mentor took his first two teams to a corner of the field to iron out weakness in fundamentals which came to light in last Saturday's contest. The back field was put through a strenuous kicking and passing drill. Joe La Mark, Jack Macdonald, Bob and Bill McNamara, Bill Abee, Nat Grossman, and Jim Tanguay worked on passes, punts and placement kicks, while Tanguay put in a bit of overtime on drop kicks. Bob McNamara and Joie La Mark showed uncanny skill in passing and will probably develop New York's aerial game as a chief attack.

N. Y. U. will be most fortunate in having a full squad for their fourth meeting with the Hoyas Saturday, as the team is without a single injury from last week's 54 to 0 victory over West Virginia Wesleyan.

All-Star Charity Grid Game Listed Here

Two all-star football teams, culled from the ranks of the best college teams of the North and South, will play in a charity game at Griffith Stadium Saturday, December 12, for the benefit of the District's unemployed fund, it was made known yesterday by the local chapter of the Tall Cedars of Lebanon.

Lou Little, former Georgetown coach, and now Columbia's grid tutor, has been appointed to head the committee which will pick the teams. Little is expected to appoint coaches for each team, and present plans call for the huskies themselves to appear here a week before in order that they may practice as a team.

BONES LEADS COLUMBIA GOLFERS

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

WITH 73 contestants turning in cards on the first day of the qualification round in the annual club championship contest at the Columbia Country Club yesterday, the field was led by Thomas P. Bones, jr., with a card of 35—38—73, three strokes over par. His nearest competitor was Karl F. Kellerman, jr., with 40—35—75.

Although another round of eighteen holes will be played today, with a field of fully 150 other contestants, the probability is that the fine score of Bones yesterday will not be beaten. Competition in the tournament is divided into six sixteens, based on handicap, with sixteen to qualify in each division.

Col. Parrott Leads Second Division.

The handicaps are classified as follows: First, 8 and under; second, 9 to 12, inclusive; third, 13 to 16, inclusive; fourth, 17 to 19 inclusive; fifth, 20 to 23, inclusive; sixth, 24. No player is allowed to qualify except in his own flight.

In the first division, Bones' leads with 73; in the second division, Col. R. P. Parrott is at the head with 37—40—77; in the third, the leader is I. E. Shoemaker, with 41—42—83; in the fourth, Col. R. P. Palmer heads the list with 42—43—85; in the fifth the leader is C. W. Gosnell, with 46—45—91, and in the sixth Frank Govern, who was runner-up in the sixth division last year, topped the other players with a card of 45—47—92.

The scores yesterday were as follows:

First division—Thomas P. Bones, jr., 35, 38—73; Karl F. Kellerman, jr., 40, 35—75; W. Carlton Evans, 42, 39—81; Commander C. B. Hatch, 43, 48—81; Clyde B. Asher, 42, 40—82; Miller B. Stevinson, 42, 41—83; H. K. Cornwell, 45, 39—84; E. L. Bono, 45, 39—84; Everett Eynon, 41, 44—85; J. B. Murphy, 43, 43—86; George P. James, 44, 43—87; Hugh H. Saum, 43, 45—88; Albert R. Mackenzie, 47, 46—93.

Second division—Col. R. P. Parrott, 37, 40—77; Charles R. Shelton, 40, 40—80; William E. Shannon 2d, 43, 38—81; George R. Holmes, 43, 41—84; George M. Ferris, 41, 43—84; Hugh Mackenzie, 41, 44—85; Col. D. T. Merrill, 46, 41—87; Paul Y. Anderson, 48, 42—90; M. J. Gormley, 43, 46—91; E. C. Gott, jr., 45, 46—91; Clarence Dodge, jr., 47, 45—92; R. E. Quirk, 45, 48—93.

Third division—I. E. Shoemaker, 41, 42—83; C. C. Van Leer, 45, 39—84; R. W. Crampton, 43, 41—84; C. H. Baker, 42, 43—85; Robert H. Dalsieh, 46, 40—86; Walter P. Stinker, 42, 45—87; Herman Stabler, 43, 46—89; John W. Martyn, 43, 46—89; R. C. Leary, 48, 44—92; H. P. Seidman, 44, 50—94; R. B. Cummings, 50, 44—94; Harris Fleming, 51, 44—95; W. R. Garrett, 48, 47—95; W. B. Asher, 48, 47—95; Col. E. R. West, 52, 44—96.

Fourth division—Col. R. P. Palmer, 42, 43—85; R. W. Heine, 44, 43—87; Joseph B. Trew, jr., 43, 45—88; James W. Baller, 45, 44—89; R. G. Shorter, 44, 47—91; E. T. Dunlop, 45, 46—91; R. A. Shepard, 45, 47—92; O. E. Altemus, 45, 47—92; Dr. K. F. Kellerman, 48, 45—93; A. L. Roe, 46, 47—93; William Brayshaw, 48, 48—94; D. Moses, 47, 48—95; P. D. Bates, 48, 48—96; F. M. Willis, 52, 46—98.

Fifth division—C. W. Gosnell, 46, 45—91; G. T. Bell, 46, 46—92; Joseph B. Trew, sr., 47, 45—92; W. Gableman, 44, 49—93; D. S. Hendricks, 50, 49—99; E. J. Orme, jr., 50, 49—99; Carter B. Keene, 49, 51—100; Dr. A. B. Crane, 50, 50—100; B. L. Harlx, 51, 51—102; H. S. Welsh, 50, 50—100.

Sixth division—Frank Govern, 45, 47—92; E. S. DeGraw, 51, 48—99; C. E. Abell, 51, 50—101; Chris. Heurich, jr., 49, 54—103; J. R. Woozer, 50, 54—104; N. Mountford, 52, 53—105.

At the conclusion of the qualifying round today for the remainder of the field, which did not play yesterday, the qualifiers, sixteen in each division, will be paired for match play and will continue in match-play rounds through tomorrow and Saturday, with the final rounds on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Frost Scores Eagle Two At Congressional.

On the Congressional course yesterday afternoon, in a four-ball match in which Mrs. Wm. S. Corby, Mrs. Norman B. Frost, Mrs. H. R. Quinter and Mrs. Charles Osborne were playing, Mrs. Frost scored an eagle 2 on the fourth hole, her brassy shot landing her ball in the cup. She followed this feat by securing a birdie 3 on the sixth hole.

MARTIN WAS STAR AT CRYSTAL SPRING

ing. From around the grand stand he appeared, running with a bat in one hand and his shoes in the other, yelling at Manager Miles "I couldn't run with them durn spikes on my feet."

Pepper Comes Through With Triple.

He rattled the booers with a screaming double a minute later, and by a great run and a marvelous slide stretched the hit into a triple.

Thus from the beginning Pepper Martin was doing spectacular things on a baseball diamond. No one here remembers him by any other name. Even his relatives refer to him as "Pepper."

At Crystal Springs he just about did everything a smart ball player could do. He bunted two men down, a runner on third and won ball games. He hit them over and under the defense and scaled the walls to make impossible catches.

His confidence—or rather his appreciation of his ability—is expressed in a bit of repartee credited to Dizzy Dean in New Orleans recently, but which had its origin here. Manager Miles told Martin he would probably get an offer from New York for him, to which Pepper replied: "Well, if they offer you money and a player, it better be Babe Ruth."

BROTHER ACT IS LISTED BY C. U.

Two Sets of Brothers to Start Against Blues Friday.

A STRICTLY local flavor will be added to an all-District college football attraction at Brookland tomorrow when Catholic University's eleven engages Gallaudet College. When the teams line up at 2:30 o'clock no fewer than eight Washington products, who formerly gained recognition as schoolboys here, will be sent against the Kendall Greeners.

C. U. will include two sets of brothers in the shuffle. The McVeans, Charley and Bob, are to show at quarter back and right half back, respectively. John Nally is to hold down left end, while brother Tom will start at left tackle.

Six of the seven forwards are of District origin, the lone exception being Edgar White, center. Gonzaga and Eastern each graduated three of these players.

By way of making it an all reserve starting eleven Head Coach "Dutch" Bergman has nominated Francis Donaher to play right half back and Louis Bertoni, full fack.

Worch Pigeon Winner In 200-Mile Race

A Worch entry led a field of 688 birds home from Roanoke, Va., yesterday, averaging 1,244.97 yards per minute for the 200-mile flight, under the auspices of the National Capital Concourse Association. Fifty-nine lofts entered birds and H. C. Hile's entries took a percentage diploma for 100 per cent returns the same day.

Following is the speed flown in yards per minute for the first fifteen finishers:

Worch	1,244.97
Mathews	1,244.17
Hile	1,244.06
Thomas & Chudada	1,243.27
Mathews	1,242.62

season, tried football tactics early in the game by scrambling the varsity team and sending in a flock of second string players.

He sent in so many substitutes that, had the game lasted another inning, the fans would have demanded that he number the players.

BLACK MAJESTY, CHOICE, JUST LASTS TO WIN LAUREL FEATURE

Steffan Works Hard to Get Mount Under Wire First.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.
Special to The Washington Post.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 7.—The fifth race saved the Laurel card from mediocrity here today. This number brought together eight horses priced up at $7,500 in the claiming line-up, and the winner was W. R. Coe's 4-year-old Black Majesty, which carried top weight, but he just escaped defeat by the outsider, Mrs. Herbert Pulitzer's Repentance, which lacked a nose of reaching the leader at the wire, and paid $16.60 to place. The winner paid $5.

St. Priscia, carrying the colors of the Branncastle Farm, was third, with Rip Van Winkle, strong second choice, fourth. The time was fast for the three-quarters, 1:11 2-5, within one-fifth of the record set yesterday by Mr. Sponge.

Black Majesty in Front All the Way.

Black Majesty led all the way, Steffen never letting up on the black son of Black Toney, but Repentance was gaining, and always second to the leader. It appeared in the stretch that Callahan erred when he laid the whip on Repentance. It seemed certain that Repentance was going to pass the Coe horse when he flinched from the whip.

Rip Van Winkle was the disappointment in the race. He was primed for winning at Havre de Grace, but Her Grace beat him easily. The Sagamore colt was never a contender.

The attendance held up well. The weather was hot, but the track very fast.

Mrs. F. J. Vollmer's filly, Dea, set a record for the meeting when she led all the way to win the sixth race, paying $62 for $2. She won easily, and was much the best of the field. She was ridden by the apprentice, H. Lausch, and the horse paid about a dollar for every pound of the jockey.

Jodphur Weakens in Stretch.

Daddy Nelson was second and Jodphur third. Jodphur was the contender entering stretch, but weakened at the sixteenth, giving Daddy Nelson his chance to get place money. The time for the mile and a quarter was 2:05 1-5.

The field was made the favorite in the first race for 2-year-olds, and M. Larjin's Highest Point, a field horse, won by a nose from E. R. Bradley's Busted. Mrs. T. H. Somervill got third money with Princel, early pacemaker. It appeared that Busted had the best of it, but Fator did not make his usual strong finish. They ran 6 furlongs in 1:12 3-5. C. Kurtsinger had the mount on Highest Point. Others coupled in the field group were Fair Lever and Sample Ballot. The field paid $5.90.

Dorwood Stable's Taos, second choice, won the steeplechase, going to the front when the Log Cabin Stud's Tasman, quoted at 100 to 1, broke down. Rigan McKinne's Nat Clyman, which was ridden by Mr. McKinney, was second, beaten a length, and Mrs. T. M. Somerville's Index third. Bayard Warren's Maureen and W. J. Salmon's Huffy fell. W. Collins had the mount on the winner, which paid $9.60.

Tasman Slows Up and Rider Dismounts.

When Tasman finally was willing to start, after holding the field several minutes, he went to the front, followed by Stoney Lonesome and Polinos. The long shot ran fast on the flat and jumped well, but after giving promise of leading all the way he slowed up at the eleventh fence, due to a leg injury, and E. Christian dismounted.

C. Harvey Pierce's Putter, favorite, was best in the third race, a gallop of a mile and a quarter, which she ran in 2:07 2-5. Doctor Rankin, an outsider, closed fast to finish second, but was two lengths behind the winner. Vowed Vengeance was third. Gay Widower, an extreme outsider, led the field to the far turn. Putter had moved up to second, and when Nertney passed the field, he drew away. The Pierce mare was even money.

Robert A. Fairbairn's Merry Fox, with R. Workman up, won the fourth for 2-year-old maiden colts and geldings by two lengths. The favorite, Mrs. C. Crane's Ladfield, was second, and Max Hirsch's Barcelona Pete, for which there was heavy backing, got third. A neck separated the second and third horses. The winner paid $17.10. The Sir Galahad 3d colt was timed in 1:07 3-5. When the field was straightened out Bright Bird was leading with Floor Walker second. Before reaching the far turn Merry Fox was second and soon closed in on the leader.

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 7.—Laurel's card for tomorrow is featured by the Anne Arundel, for fillies and mares, 3 years old and upward, at 6 furlongs. The Dorwood Stable's pair, THE BEASEL and LADANA, in their own class and taking off weight, would appear invincible were it not for the presence in the dash of the speedy CON AMORE. But THE BEASEL dropped from 126 to 119 pounds, which she carried against Mr. Sponge and Balko on Tuesday, which appears fairly certain of scoring.

The Dorwood star made a game effort and was crushed in the Capital Handicap, when a new track record was set by the Widener horse. She is at her best form and will be aided materially by LADANA, with 112. CON AMORE carries top weight of 122 and finished third to Mr. Sponge. Mrs. John Hay Whitney's POLLY PLAY, on her last race at Havre de Grace, should figure in this, is reasonably sure of landing third.

FIRST RACE—Johnny Schorr's ETCETERA, after a good race at Havre de Grace and conditioning gallops since, is in line for brackets. MEA, which has had a rest, should be the contender on New York form. BLUE DAMSEL has run two good races in Maryland, winning one, and should be close. THE CRANE appears not as good as he was early in the year.

SECOND RACE—PLAYBILL looks best. His condition has been shown under the watch in workouts. CHARLIE K's last race was good and he may be hard to beat. ANNAPOLITAN should get the short end of the purse.

THIRD RACE — RUANE, first on eligible list for the third race, is overdue. He should lead all the way. TINITA has worked well, and has been placed second, with PEACH BASKET dangerous. MY SIS continues to run good races.

FOURTH RACE—BETTY FARRELL stands out in the fourth. Chief among the contenders is the Greentree filly DELICACY, injured at Havre de Grace, but which has entirely recovered. She is very fast. TRYANDAGAIN should get part of this purse and has been picked third. BERET is coupled with DELICACY. This race will prove a duel between Fator on the Bradley filly and Kurtsinger on the Greentree choice.

SIXTH RACE—ARRAS has been coming close and should score here. EAGER PLAY is the most dangerous contender and the stable will back him. DUNFERN will like the distance and will not be overlooked.

SEVENTH RACE—SNAPPY SNUB should run back to his Havre winning effort, and will be a hot favorite. ROBRACK is back in form and should furnish the contention.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HIGHEST POINT (field), $5.90, $3.20, $2.70; BUSTED, $4.50, $3.00; PRINCEL, $2.80.

HIGHEST POINT, rated in close attendance of PRINCEL, was placed to severe punishment when approaching the home stretch, assumed command at the final furlong and had to be hard ridden to stall off BUSTED. Latter, a keen factor and saving ground all the way, finished gamely and was wearing winner down fast. PRINCEL had good early speed, but faltered through the final quarter mile.

SECOND RACE—Two miles. Purse, $2,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:15. Off at 2:21. Winner, Dorwood Stable's ch. g. (4), by Friar Rock—Wigwam. Trained by J. P. Smith. Value to winner, $1,400; second, $400; third, $200. Time, 3:56.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TAOS, $9.60, $5.40, $4.90; NAT CLYMAN (entry), $3.90, $3.20; INDEX, $6.50.

TAOS, forwardly placed and allowed to race on his own courage for the first mile, challenged after a mile and one-half, stumbled when leading after the eleventh fence, but recovered quickly to gain the lead. TASMAN was ridden thereafter, outstayed NAT CLYMAN. Latter, reserved and jumping boldly in the early stages, finished with good energy. INDEX closed strong from a slow beginning.

THIRD RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 2:50. Off at 2:53½. Winner, C. H. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PUTTER, $4.00, $3.00, $2.30; DOCTOR RANKIN, $9.10, $4.10; VOWED VENGEANCE, $2.60.

PUTTER, taken under stiff restraint until midway of the back stretch, reached the front without effort and had enough left to withstand DOCTOR RANKIN. Latter, forced to race on the outside for racing room, saved ground entering the home stretch and finished stoutly. VOWED VENGEANCE, kept under urging from the start, finished bearing the brunt of the finish. GAY WIDOWER established a steady early pace and continued gamely when challenged. SKIRT was gaining slowly at the finish. TANGIER quit early.

FOURTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,300. For maiden 2-year-old colts and geldings. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:20. Off at 3:24½. Winner, R. A. Two-dollar mutuels paid—MERRY FOX, $17.10, $8.90, $4.80; LADFIELD, $4.70, $3.10; BARCELONA PETE, $3.70.

MERRY FOX, rushed hard from the start, wore BRIGHT BIRD down when straightening into the home stretch, continued stoutly under strong pressure and held LADFIELD safe approaching the finish. Latter, hard ridden to assume a forward position, came to the outside and finished gamely. BARCELONA PETE met with interference leaving the back stretch, secured racing room and finished stoutly on the inside. EXCAVATION broke slowly, reached contention with high speed and finished with good energy. REHOBOTH raced well. OPEN HEARTH was outrun. FLOOR WALKER was crowded back leaving the back stretch.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:50. Off at 3:55. Winner, W. R. Coe's br. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—BLACK MAJESTY, $5.00, $3.50, $2.80; REPENTANCE, $16.60, $9.70; ST. PRISCA, $13.30.

BLACK MAJESTY, quick to gain his stride and displaying keen speed, responded gamely to move clear when straightened into the home stretch, but weakened fast and just lasted long enough. REPENTANCE, a keen factor from the start, responded to punishment and was wearing the winner down at every stride nearing the finish. ST. PRISCA, ridden hard all the way, closed with good courage. RIP VAN WINKLE could not keep pace when put to a drive and saving ground. AVALON had no mishaps. ESSARE was outrun.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:25. Off at 4:36. Winner, Mrs. F. J. Two-dollar mutuels paid—DEA, $62.00, $18.30, $9.50; DADDY NELSON, $6.20, $4.60; JODHPUR, $6.90.

DEA, going in her best form, went into an easy lead when straightened into the back stretch, raced along under restraint until challenged and came away smartly when shaken up. DADDY NELSON trailed off the early pace and closed stoutly when put to a drive. JODHPUR, prominent the entire trip, held on well for the final test. MAINSHEET weakened after making a determined effort rounding the far turn. PANTAGRUEL made up a lot of ground. HARRISH was never dangerous.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:55. Off at 4:57½. Winner, Mrs. H. Two-dollar mutuels paid—STRONGHEART, $5.00, $3.20, $2.50; FAIR BETH, $6.80, $4.60; PRINCESS ISABEL, $3.20.

STRONGHEART, restrained until settled on the back stretch, took command with out effort, saved ground while being steadied in front and, holding on stoutly, just lasted long enough. He pulled up lame. FAIR BETH moved up fast when making her run and finished in stout fashion. PRINCESS ISABEL, prominent throughout, held the others safe. WIND SWEPT could not keep pace when shaken up. PRINCESS HENRY weakened. OLD SOL and OREGON FIR were outrun.

MARYLAND PROMISES MIDDIES REAL BATTLE HERE SATURDAY

Best Old Line Team Ready For Navy

Navy Boasts Better Eleven Than That of 1930.

"MARYLAND will have a better team on the field than the one Navy beat at Annapolist last fall," is the way Curley Byrd, coach of the Old Liners, feels about his charges for the big tilt with the fighting midshipmen at Griffith Stadium here Saturday. "We did not go into the battle at Annapolis with our full strength last fall, due to injuries, but we hope to have all our regulars fit this time," he said.

"However, I know full well, too, that we will be facing a stronger Navy team than beat us last November, 6 to 0, so any power we have gained doubtless will be fully offset. The team that gets the breaks ought to win, and if one or the other gets a lot of breaks the score may be a couple of touchdowns, one way or another. At any rate, I know that it will be a hard-fought game, with lots of color."

Kirn Definitely Out Saturday, Is Reported.

And it might be mentioned again that it was just one bit of great ball toting that swung the game to Navy last November, and there is a lot of regret that Bullet Lou Kirn, whose 65-yard dash was the deciding factor, will not be in Saturday's tilt. He is nursing a leg injury and has been definitely declared out. Harry Tschirgi, a clever all-around back who is nearly 15 pounds heavier, doubtless will take Kirn's place.

From every standpoint the struggle this week-end is attracting more attention than any staged in Washington in many years, and it is a certainty that a record crowd for a grid contest will be at Griffith Stadium Saturday. It should be a football duel and that alone is enough for most of the fans, and for color it assuredly will outclass any sporting event held in the Capital.

Navy and Maryland are keen rivals in other sports, particularly in basket ball and lacrosse, and the Old Liners last year occupied the honor position in both of these pastimes on the Navy's schedule. And the football rivalry bids fair to develop into one of the most intense in the country.

Maryland Working Under Arcs For Navy Game.

Navy, incidentally, will send its basket ball team to College Park next January 23 to help the Old Liners dedicate their handsome new field house that is well under way.

Maryland is letting no grass grow under its feet in priming for the Middies Saturday. The floodlights have been brought into full bloom at College Park as the Old Liners toil to perfect their play, and the squad has been displaying a spirit that presages tough going for the foemen.

Curley Byrd may make no changes in his line-up for the start of the game Saturday, but he will not stand for many mistakes before he does that day.

Navy Practices Defense Against Old Line Attack

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 7.—A defensive workout against Maryland's style of attack, and an offensive scrimmage to further perfect their own plays, featured the practice session of the Navy football players as they continued their preparations for the battle with the Old Liners in the Griffith Stadium, Washington, on Saturday. The players continued at their task long after the flood light had been switched on the field.

"Bullet Lou" Kirn, veteran backfield star, worked out with his teammates, notwithstanding reports that the injury to his ankle sustained a week ago, was further aggravated in yesterday's practice to the extent of jeopardizing his chances of playing against the Terrapins.

Though Head Coach Miller said he was not prepared to announce his starting line-up, it would not surprise if the second group trots onto the field for the start of hostilities, just to feel out the enemy. An indication of this was gleaned from the fact that Miller devoted major attention to the offensive workout of this combination in today's practice. The back field of this outfit consists of Moncure at quarter, Chung Hoon and Samuels, half backs, and Erck, full back.

ST. STEPHEN'S DRILLS.

Two St. Stephen's elevens, unlimited and 135 pounders, will drill tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Seventeenth street and Constitution avenue northwest, in preparation for the opening of the Capital City League Sunday. All members of both teams are requested to report promptly.

MOHAWKS SEEK GAME.

The Mohawk 125-pound gridmen are seeking an opponent for Sunday. Teams interested should call North 10.000, apartment 129, between 7 and 8 p. m.

POTOMACS IN FIELD.

The Potomac A. C. is anxious to book games with the leading teams in the 135-pound division. Manager Rosenbaum is arranging the schedule at Cleveland 3014.

GONZAGA 6-0 VICTOR OVER BUSINESS

35-Yard Advance in Final Period Decisive.

RIDING 35 yards down the dusty Gonzaga field with a forward pass and three line bucks that ripped open the Business frontal wall, Gonzaga High's Grid Team wrought a 6-0 victory over the Stenogs yesterday afternoon after the two teams had battled nip and tuck for three and a third periods.

Carly Mills, fleet Gonzaga quarter back, put the potent ball in motion for his team just after the start of the final period with a 19-yard sprint around end to Business' 16-yard mark. Ernie Viau, Gonzaga's giant full back, gained 5 through the left side of the line. Jack Carr and Joe Mills moved it up to the 1-yard stripe and Carr cracked center wide open for the tally. A wild pass from center checked Gonzaga's attempt to add an extra point.

Business Threatens in Waning Minutes.

Business tried desperately to even up the score in the closing minutes. A good heave, Harris to Sherman amassed 55 yards for the Stenogs and placed the ball on Gonzaga's 17-yard line. Line charges by Flynn and a short pass moved it up 10 more yards, but here Cleary broke up Business' final challenge when he grounded Harris' potent pass.

Gonzaga's two backs, Mulcare and Carr, turned in rousingly good all-around performances during the game, with Viau, although injured about the face, accounting for most of the actual yard gaining. Business showed a good line, three times breaking up Gonzaga rams with the 10-yard line, and produced a back of real drive in Flynn. The game was almost a duplicate of last season's 7-0 victory for Business. It marked Gonzaga's second victory over a public high team this year, Western having been drubbed 24-0 last week.

Army-Navy to Confer In Philly on Monday

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Oct. 7.—Enthusiasm still is rife at the Naval Reservation over announcement of plans for the Army-Navy game to be played in New York December 12 for the benefit of unemployment relief fund. Details will be worked out at a meeting of West Point and Annapolis athletic officials to be held in Philadelphia next Monday, it was announced here tonight. Capt. John W. Wilcox, jr., athletic director, and Lieut. Comdr. John L. Hall, graduate manager and director of football, will be Navy's chief representatives at the parley. Maj. Philip Fleming, graduate manager, and his assistant, Capt. (Biff) Jones, former head coach of the Cadets, will be West Point's representatives, it is understood.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 7 (A.P.).—Use of the Yankee Stadium for the November charity football game between the Army and Navy has been donated by Jacob Ruppert, president of the New York Yankees, Maj. P. B. Fleming, graduate manager of athletics at West Point announced today.

Promising Central Gridmen Give Hardell Food for Tears

AFTER years of crying on the shoulders of his associates, over the chances of Tech to beat Business and such minor incidentals in the life of a remarkable high-school football team, the lachrymosic Happy Hardell, grand mogul of the entire Tech High School, has a real cause for rippling his forehead skin into an apprehensive washboard of wrinkles.

It's this Central Team that Bert Coggins has been handed on a gold platter. Nothing Coggins' has done to the team this year has hurt it. On the other hand, he has made out of the Blue and White entrant a working mass of eleven tough boys, who stand easily abreast Tech, compared man to man.

Coggins has resurrected a set of overhead plays, which even Tech's can not equal, one pass from a lateral being about the neatest trick the high school boys have shown in half a decade of itneresting football.

Like Tech, Central this year is an all-team and a no-star team, somewhat removed from the last two years when Larry Pinckney was the chief ball toter. This year the team has a fine brace of blocking backs in King and Myers, and a pair of downright excellent all-around men in Cumberland and Koscis, the latter a reformed guard. The middle of the line is fair, slow, but big and willing, and the ends are held down by two big fleet boys, Heflin and one of the 3,534 Buschers.

Central has achieved some much-needed morale this year, and an immediate effect has been seen in the student body itself. Three thousand of them attended the John Marshall game, where about 200 saw the 1930 C Club game against Washington-Lee. Central has improved in so many different ways that it would not be surprising if her most important players stayed scholastically eligible this year, but then that is a rather drastic desire.

Davis, Batting "Goat," Leads St. Paul to Win

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 7 (A.P.).—George Davis, who has been the batting "goat" of the little world series, came to life today, pounded out four hits and led the St. Paul Saints, champions of the American Association, to a 9-to-3 victory over the Rochester Redwings of the International League. Although winning, the Saints still trail the Redwings two games to four.

NORTHERNS PRACTICE.

"Buck" Greir's Northerns will go through their paces tonight under the guidance of Coach Joe Sweeney at Seventeenth street and Constitution avenue northwest at 7:30 p. m. The Redbirds are scheduled to open their season Sunday at Richmond with the Richmond Aces as opponents. The following week will find the team inaugurating its Capital City League campaign.

Hitting —The— Head Pin

THE Capital City Tennis Bowling League (fathom that) opened its season at the King Pin alleys last night with all of the reformed tennis players showing to a good advantage. Well, some of them were pretty good. Rock Creek inaugurated the season in approved style, taking all three from Pan-American with ease. Edgewood was not quite as consistent, dropping its third tilt with Clairemont after winning the first two handily.

The hero of the evening was one Mr. Garnett, who rolled with such vigor that the high-game honors, 128, came into his possession. Garnett's 341 set was also sufficient to assure him of high-set honors.

Georgetown Recreation was obliged to come from behind in its match with Meyer Davis at the King Pin alleys last night to eke out a 2-1 victory in the Ladies District League. Miss Limerick's 109 captured high game honors, while Miss Malcolm's 291 was good for high set. The Meyer Davis pinettes were woefully off form in the final game and were drubbed soundly.

ROUGH WORK FOR G. U. ELEVEN

Mills' Chief Need Is Booter for Coming N. Y. U. Game.

WHILE the telegraph wires were telling the story that New York University's varsity team had no trouble in plowing through a scrub outfit equipped with Georgetown's adoption of the Notre Dame system, Coach Tommy Mills drove his Hoya grid machine over a road of rough tackling and blocking yesterday afternoon at the Hilltop.

Mills had a dozen or so of his boys kicking pigskins down the field, but unearthed no toe of championship caliber during the day. Georgetown, incidentally, lost last year's N. Y. U. game through a kicker, Johnny Scalzi, who stepped out of the end zone while getting off a 50-yard punt.

Great Interest Manifested In Game.

Using the sale of tickets as a criterion, there is virtually as much interest in Saturday's Polo Ground classic, 200 miles away, as if the two were playing here. Many will board the excursion trains which will make the trip up and back.

Mills' assistant, John Colrick, and Chick Meehan, N. Y. U. boss, will air their views on the impending battle tomorrow night over the Columbia Broadcasting System, between 6 and 6:15 o'clock. Saturday morning Coach Mills himself will broadcast, from 11 to 11:30 o'clock, from WABC, in New York, augmented by the Georgetown University Band.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Oct. 7.—With the Georgetown game but three days away, Coach Chick Meehan put his Violet squad through a vigorous two-hour workout at Ohio Field here today. Meehan has been driving his boys at a rapid pace all week in preparation for his first major game, scrimmaging with Columbia yesterday, and arranging for a practice tussle against Manhattan College tomorrow.

Today the Violet mentor took his first two teams to a corner of the field to iron out weakness in fundamentals which came to light in last Saturday's contest. The back field was put through a strenuous kicking and passing drill. Joe La Mark, Jack Macdonald, Bob and Bill McNamara, Bill Abee, Nat Grossman, and Jim Tanguay worked on passes, punts and placement kicks, while Tanguay put in a bit of overtime on drop kicks. Bob McNamara and Joie La Mark showed uncanny skill in passing and will probably develop New York's aerial game as a chief attack.

N. Y. U. will be most fortunate in having a full squad for their fourth meeting with the Hoyas Saturday, as the team is without a single injury from last week's 54 to 0 victory over West Virginia Wesleyan.

All-Star Charity Grid Game Listed Here

Two all-star football teams, culled from the ranks of the best college teams of the North and South, will play in a charity game at Griffith Stadium Saturday, December 12, for the benefit of the District's unemployed fund, it was made known yesterday by the local chapter of the Tall Cedars of Lebanon.

Lou Little, former Georgetown coach, and now Columbia's grid tutor, has been appointed to head the committee which will pick the teams. Little is expected to appoint coaches for each team, and present plans call for the huskies themselves to appear here a week before in order that they may practice as a team.

BONES LEADS COLUMBIA GOLFERS

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

WITH 73 contestants turning in cards on the first day of the qualification round in the annual club championship contest at the Columbia Country Club yesterday, the field was led by Thomas P. Bones, jr., with a card of 35—38—73, three strokes over par. His nearest competitor was Karl F. Kellerman, jr., with 40—35—75.

Although another round of eighteen holes will be played today, with a field of fully 150 other contestants, the probability is that the fine score of Bones yesterday will not be beaten. Competition in the tournament is divided into six sixteens, based on handicap, with sixteen to qualify in each division.

Col. Parrott Leads Second Division.

The handicaps are classified as follows: First, 8 and under; second, 9 to 12, inclusive; third, 13 to 16, inclusive; fourth, 17 to 19 inclusive; fifth, 20 to 23, inclusive; sixth, 24. No player is allowed to qualify except in his own flight.

In the first division, Bones leads with 73; in the second division, Col. R. P. Parrott is at the head with 37—40—77; in the third, the leader is I. E. Shoemaker, with 41—42—83; in the fourth, Col. R. P. Palmer heads the list with 42—43—85; in the fifth the leader is C. W. Gosnell, with 46—45—91, and in the sixth Frank Govern, who was runner-up in the sixth division last year, topped the other players with a card of 45—47—92.

The scores yesterday were as follows:

First division—Thomas P. Bones, jr., 35—38—73; Karl F. Kellerman, jr., 40—35—75; W. Carlton Evans, 42—39—81; Commander C. B. Hatch, 43—38—81; Clyde B. Asher, 42—40—82; Miller B. Stevinson, 42—41—83; H. K. Cornwell, 45—39—84; E. L. Bono, 45—39—84; Everett Eynon, 41—44—85; J. B. Murphy, 43—43—86; George P. James, 44—43—87; Hugh H. Saum, 43—45—88; Albert R. Mackenzie, 47—46—93.

Second division—Col. R. P. Parrott, 37—40—77; Charles R. Shelton, 40—40—80; William E. Shannon 2d, 43—38—81; George R. Holmes, 43—41—84; George M. Ferris, 41—43—84; Hugh Mackenzie, 41—44—85; Col. D. T. Merrill, 46—41—87; Paul Y. Anderson, 48—42—90; M. J. Gormley, 45—46—91; C. Gott, jr., 45—46—91; Clarence Dodge, jr., 47—45—92; R. E. Quirk, 45—48—93.

Third division—I. E. Shoemaker, 41—42—83; C. Van Lear, 45—49—94; R. W. Crampton, 43—41—84; C. H. Baker, 42—43—85; Robert H. Dalsieigh, 46—40—86; Walter P. Mrs. Frost Scores Eagle Two At Congressional.

On the Congressional course yesterday afternoon, in a four-ball match in which Mrs. Wm. S. Corby, Mrs. Norman B. Frost, Mrs. H. R. Quinter and Mrs. Charles Osborne were playing, Mrs. Frost scored an eagle 2 on the fourth hole, her brassy shot landing her ball in the cup. She followed this feat by securing a birdie 3 on the sixth hole.

MARTIN WAS STAR AT CRYSTAL SPRING

ing. From around the grand stand he appeared, running with a bat in one hand and his shoes in the other, yelling at Manager Miles "I couldn't run with them durn spikes on my feet."

Pepper Comes Through With Triple.

He rattled the boxers with a screaming double a minute later, and by a great run and a marvelous slide stretched the hit into a triple.

Thus from the beginning Pepper Martin was doing spectacular things on a baseball diamond. No one here remembers him by any other name. Even his relatives refer to him as "Pepper."

At Crystal Springs he just about did everything a smart ball player could do. He bunted two men down, a runner on third and won ball games. He hit them over and under the defense and scaled the walls to make impossible catches.

His confidence—or rather his appreciation of his ability—is expressed in a bit of repartee credited to Dizzy Dean in New Orleans recently, but which had its origin here. Manager Miles told Martin he would probably get an offer from New York for him, to which Pepper replied: "Well, if they offer you money and a player, it better be Babe Ruth."

BROTHER ACT IS LISTED BY C. U.

Two Sets of Brothers to Start Against Blues Friday.

A STRICTLY local flavor will be added to an all-District college football attraction at Brookland tomorrow when Catholic University's eleven engages Gallaudet College. When the teams line up at 2:30 o'clock no fewer than eight Washington products, who formerly gained recognition as schoolboys here, will be sent against the Kendall Greeners.

C. U. will include two sets of brothers in the shuffle. The McVeans, Charley and Bob, are to show at quarter back and right half back, respectively. John Nally is to hold down left end, while brother Tom will start at left tackle.

Six of the seven forwards are of District origin, the lone exception being Edgar White, center. Gonzaga and Eastern each graduated three of these players.

By way of making it an all reserve starting eleven Head Coach "Dutch" Bergman has nominated Francis Donaher to play right half back and Louis Bertoni, full back.

A special admission scale for school children has been arranged. Upon presentation of an athletic ticket and 25 cents at the box office, admission may be obtained. The game gets under way at 2:30 o'clock.

Worch Pigeon Winner In 200-Mile Race

A Worch entry led a field of 688 birds home from Roanoke, Va., yesterday, averaging 1,244.97 yards per minute for the 200-mile flight, under the auspices of the National Capital Concourse Association. Fifty-nine lofts entered birds and H. C. Hile's entries took a percentage diploma for 100 per cent returns the same day.

Following is the speed flown in yards per minute for the first fifteen finishers:

season, tried football tactics early in the game by scrambling the varsity team and sending in a flock of second string players.

He sent in so many substitutes that, had the game lasted another inning, the fans would have demanded that he number the players.

Connie tried everything and everybody. He began the game with Waite Hoyt, sent in Rube Walberg, and when the shades of night were falling fast he had Eddie Rommel in there trying to stem the tide.

It almost seemed as if the fans

CONFIDENT CARDINALS ON WAY HOME

Street Names Derringer To Hurl

Expects Rookie Star to Beat Macks Tomorrow.

I'm Just Lucky, Says Martin, En Route to St. Louis.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

ABOARD the Cardinals' Special Train bound for St. Louis, Oct. 7 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Cardinals, rolling across country toward Sportsman's Park for the sixth game of the world series Friday, were early to bed tonight.

Gabby Street, the old sergeant, dusting the fire from a battered black pipe when the after-dinner smoke was finished, led the way after announcing that Paul Derringer, his big right-hand rookie, who was beaten by Lefty Grove in the first game in St. Louis, would be his pitching choice for the sixth game.

Gabby was tucked away by 8 p. m., and shortly afterward Burleigh Grimes, the veteran spitballer, who will pitch a seventh game Saturday if the series goes that far, tucked himself away to sleep and dream of his great two-hit victory over the Athletics Monday and plan another.

Depends on Derringer.

"Derringer will beat them, too," Gabby said when he named his mound choice for the next game. "They're on the run now. It will only be one more and the world championship is ours."

Derringer, although he was forced to have an abscess in his nose lanced two days ago, is ready to work. He pitched an inning in relief for Sylvester Johnson and Jim Lindsey against George Earnshaw yesterday.

The Cardinals were elated, but not boisterously so over the 5 to 1 conquest of the A's today that sent them West with a 3 to 2 lead in games for the series.

"It was that Pepper Martin again. Wasn't he great" Gabby demanded. "Watch that kid. A couple of years from now he'll be filling your stadiums the way Babe Ruth does. He's a natural ball playing marvel."

Pepper, Oklahoma drawl and all, was abed by 10 p. m.

"I'm just lucky," he said. "I've been hitting them where they didn't happen to be. It's just my luck. But believe me it isn't going to turn my head. I'll always be ust as common as the mud out of those Oklahoma oil fields."

Told by Scribe of Record.

Martin, lolling about in an open shirt, was quite content and calm about all this fame and glory suddenly thrust upon him. He didn't know that he had equaled the world series record for most hits, 12, until a newspaperman told him.

"Golly," he said, "ain't that great. What am I hitting for an average, anyway?"

Martin signing score cards as Gabby Street walked by, looked up and grinned.

"Look at him," said Gabby. "Steel muscles. Legs like pine logs. Speed. Power. Everything. And the greatest young fellow you ever saw. A fine kid. Aren't you, Pepper?"

And Pepper, red as a school boy suddenly stuck up before a class to speak his piece and take a prize, twisted grinning in his seat. When he finally stumbled off to bed, he was so excited he almost stowed himself away in the wrong berth.

The Cards expect to reach St. Louis by noon tomorrow.

BATTERY F. CHALLENGES.

A challenge to all 150-pound uniformed grid teams in this city and northern Virginia has been issued by Tex Houston, manager of the Battery F, 111th Field Artillery eleven of Fredericksburg, Va. Houston's charges will perform in Fredericksburg every Sunday. He may be addressed in care of the Free Lance-Star, Fredericksburg.

Action as Cardinals Won in Fifth Game

hits, one a perfect bunt by Martin, during the next four innings, but the one-time "boy wonder" managed to come through when hits meant runs.

Then came the sixth and that humming homer by Martin. With one down, Frisch doubled down the third base line. Pepper then marched to the plate, spat on his hands, swung, and lined the ball into the left field stands, scoring behind Frisch. The St. Louis team trooped from the dugout and formed a welcoming committee at home plate. Pepper grinned and switched his end of tobacco to the left side.

Watkins Scores In Eighth.

The Cards picked up another in the eighth when Watkins walked, stole second and hurried home on Martin's third hit of the day, a clean single into left.

St. Louis managed to score a run without Pepper's aid in the ninth. Bottomley was safe on a fielder's choice, took third on Wilson's single and scored on Gelbert's one-timer to center.

Simmons was not the only Athletic player to fail in the pinch. Miller, Dykes, Williams and all the rest could not rise to the emergency, when rising meant the breaking up of the ball game.

In the fifth Simmons opened the Athletics' half of the inning by caroming a terrific drive off Hallahan's thigh for a single. Foxx, next man up, walked. With the Philadelphia fans yelling for a hit, Miller tried for a bunt and popped to Bottomley.

Dykes then fouled a high one to Bottomley. The customers implored Dibrell Williams, youthful shortstop, to do something about the matter, but Dibrell turned a deaf ear to their entreaties and struck out.

The Athletics again squandered a golden opportunity in the seventh, even though they did score one run.

With one away, Simmons, still fighting for the game, slapped a single to center. Foxx followed Al's effort with a drive that struck Hallahan in the chest and glanced into short right field. Simmons streaked to third and scored a second later when Miller forced Foxx.

Dykes kept the ball rolling with a single, but the attack died in its own blood when Williams lifted a puny pop fly to Frisch.

Jim Bottomley took real strides toward making the world forget his miserable showing in 1930 by getting two singles out of four times up and playing a beautiful game at first base. He was all over the right side of the field on fly balls and his catch of Miller's bunt in the fifth was the finest bit of fielding and headwork of the day.

Cards Take Fifth Game As Mackmen Bow, 5 to 1

stage for the Cards' first run. It was a sizzling shot past Dykes.

Watkins could not advance High who ran for Adams and later took his place in the field, but Frankie Frisch dropped a single in center field that sent High to third, while the erstwhile Fordham flashes showed the Cardinals' inaptitude for taking extra bases by racing to second on the throw-in by Haas.

Martin was batting fourth, in another strategical maneuver that had raised him from sixth place, and he brought home the first run of the game with a long fly to Simmons, who later was to trouble Hallahan throughout the contest with his three long hits. The rally subsided when Hafey grounded to Williams.

For the benefit only of the 33,000 admiring fans in the stands, Martin made his first hit of the game, and his tenth of the series, in the fourth inning. It was a bunt that illustrated the fleetness and adeptness of the mercury-hoofed center fieldsr, who swung the ball to the left of Foxx just far enough out of range to permit him to flash by the first baseman as he was returning to the bag after fielding the ball, but he perished on base after Hafey struck out and Bottomley's single was nullified by a double play that resulted from Wilson's liner to Bishop. Previously Hoyt had tossed to first base no less than seven times to keep Martin close to the bag.

But Martin returned to the attack with a vengeance in the sixth. The troublesome Frisch shot a double past Jimmy Dykes with one out and was reposing on base when our hero stepped to the plate again.

Homer Martin's First Of Series.

It was a home run. Martin met Hoyt's pitch on the business end of his bat and it sailed in a majestic arc high into the second tier of fans in left field as Al Simmons, now with his back to the wall, saluted the blow with a despairing toss of his arms as the pellet sailed into the laps of the pavilion citizens. A mighty wallop, not the equal of Foxx's of the day before, but yet a mighty wallop that gave Martin, who has done everything else in this series, his first home run of the autumn engagements.

And then did the fans lavish their cheers on the gallant Cardinals. The stands rose as one as he trotted composedly around the bases to a deafening echo of cheers, the greatest hero of this series or any other series. Truly a Royal Nonesuch is this Martin. Wataman, in fact.

Those were the second and third runs, of Martin, by Martin, for the Cardinals.

But he was not through. Watkins was on base in the eighth inning with one out, and had contributed to the discomforture of the already discomforted Cochrane, by stealing second. The redoubtable Frisch filed out this time, bringing Martin to the plate. It was Martin's third hit of the game that followed, and Watkins came clattering home without the necessity of a slide so solidly had Martin whanged the ball for a single.

Martin Out Stealing, But Play Is Close.

The 33,000 in the stands took their eyes from Hafey at the plate, from Walberg who was now occupying the pitching mound, from every other figure on the diamond. Martin was the cynosure and they begged him to steal. He did. It mattered not that Umpire Dolly Stark called him out at second. Cochrane had made a good throw and Bishop had certainly tagged him. But the play was close enough to leave a doubt in the minds of the throng and his headlong slide had captured their fancy again. He had put on another show for them and they were satisfied, safe or out.

Martin had nothing to do with the fifth and final run of the Cards. Eddie Rommel was in office for the A's when Hafey opened the inning with a single through Dykes. He was forced at second by Bottomley, but Jimmy Wilson lined a single to right center that sent Bottomley to third and Charley Gelbert, hero of the 1930 series, brought Bottomley home with a clean single to left.

Canny Connie Mack sought to draw Street out by ordering both the right-handed Hoyt and the left-handed Walberg to warm up in separate sectors of the park 15 minutes before game time in deference to Street's reversible hitting lineup, but the Cardinal manager sent Hallahan alone to the bull pen, his logical selection.

Hoyt, it was, who was given the nomination by Mack.

Mackmen in Uphill Fight.

The Athletics were always fighting an uphill battle after the Cardinals had scored their run in the first inning, but only twelve batters faced the diminutive Hallahan, he of the drooping curve and the surprising smokeball, in the first four innings.

Al Simmons rapped out the first Philadelphia hit, a screaming double to center that opened the second inning, but the A's were victims of their own zeal as Hallahan escaped unscathed. Andy High held Simmons to second while he threw out Foxx and then Bing Miller slapped a high bounder that High was forced to wait for to descend and barely had time to make the ensuing throw to first. Simmons, off with the hit, had rounded third and was waved home by Coach Eddie Collins when High made the throw to first, but Bottomley relayed the ball quickly and perfectly to Wilson and the out was made at home with ease despite Simmons' desperate slide.

Again in the fourth, Hallahan disposed of the top of the Philadelphia batting order, but to Jim Bottomley does he owe his salvation in the fifth. Bottomley was veritably a defensive full back in this inning, his adeptness and vigilance delivering the little southpaw from a truly trying situation.

Al Simmons again led off with a hit, a shot that bounced off Hallahan's leg and bounded into left field. The stout-hearted Cardinal southpaw waved away his solicitous teammates and proceeded.

Tying, Winning Mack Runs on Bases in Fifth.

He was unsettled to the extent of passing Foxx and the tying and potential winning runs were on base. Here Bottomley came to his rescue.

Taking a daring change, if Miller had chosen to hit instead of bunt, Bottomley crept far in toward the plate. He had guessed right. It was a bunt and Miller sent a short looper into foul territory but Bottomley was on it like a flash and turned quickly after the catch to prevent the runners from advancing. Jimmy Dykes was up next to do or die and he sent a long curling foul into right field. Bottomley gathered that one in, too, to make the second out and then Hallahan terminated the threat on his own by striking out Williams.

The seventh again brought trouble to Hallahan who had permitted only two hits until that juncture. In his third time at bat, Simmons rapped out his third hit, the third hit permitted by Hallahan. It was a single to left. Jimmy Foxx crashed a liner into the box that Hallahan could only deflect and it went for a single, while Simmons romped to third. Bing Miller grounded to High, who tossed to Frisch for a force out on Foxx, but Simmons scored on the play. Dykes sent Miller to second with a single that High was lucky to stop. Hallahan again victimized Williams for the third out, a pop to Frisch.

With two out, the A's threatened in the eighth when Moore, pinch-hitting for Haas, singled. When Cochrane made his first hit of the game, a single to right, a rally seemed incipient but Simmons, with a chance to do a salient turn, grounded weakly to High who stepped on third base for a force play.

The A's went down fighting in the ninth. Jimmy Foxx led off by dumping a bunt in front of the plate that caught Jimmy Wilson asleep and was safe. Bing Miller forced him at second with a grounder to Gelbert and in turn was forced by Dykes in a bounder to Frisch. Williams delivered a single to center that sent Dykes to third, but Hallahan sealed his victory with a flourish by striking out Joe Boley, pinch-hitting for Rommel, for the third out.

PARTY SAVED BY PEP OF PEPPER

Dashing Enthusiasm Prevents Series Boredom.

cenary. It was a good party, though, with some of the best pitching ever seen, and the gay abandon of Dirty-Face Martin, a tough country kid from Oklahoma, who said he could hit the best pitchers in the world, and did, will be something to remember when the impression of Earnshaw's superb throwing has faded.

One of the most interesting incidents of this world series was the spontaneous booing of President Hoover by a few of the 32,000 when he entered and again when he left the park on Monday. This was nothing new, however, for the President was booed to the same extent last year. Neither of these bootings could be said to represent the majority opinion, but quite probably there were some who were restrained from joining in only by their respect for his office and their individual sense of responsibility.

Philadelphia Harried by Morality Racketeers.

It should be remembered, though, that Philadelphia is worse harried by morality racketeers than any other large city in the United States. The booing could honestly be interpreted as an exasperated yelp of "we want beer" and "we want Sunday ball games," addressed to the one man who seemed best able to grant these requests.

The needles rattle out loud in a glass of Philadelphia beer, and yet with baseball, shows and even moving pictures forbidden on Sundays, the people have only two choices—the speakeasies and the needles or the hallelujah meetings conducted by their oppressors, the reverend leaders of the anti-this-and-that leagues, operating under a blue law passed in the eighteenth century.

If Mr. Hoover had stepped to the microphone when they booed him the other day and said, "Yes, and I think you ought to have beer and Sunday ball games," he would have stolen the show from the world series athletes.

Neither did the Shibe boys, proprietors of the Philadelphia ball club, put themselves out on either of these presidential visits to dignify the occasion. With most professional musicians out of work and with the customers tossing in a daily toll of $150,000 at greatly advanced prices, the Shibe boys continued to sound the National anthem in cheap and tinny squawks from a phonograph record, apparently the same record that cost them 75 cents three years ago.

Incidentally, at all these ball games when the Star Spangled banner has been played, Sergt. Gabby Street, the manager of the Cardinals who has soldiered in two wars, is the only man on the field who has known how to stand at attention. His back stiffened, his heels came together and he stood soldierly, while the rest of them, players and umpires, fell into a variety of easy attitudes which must have been very offensive to the sergeant's military sense.

The attendance seemed to be off a few hundred head on the last day but there was rain in the morning and, anyway, it is a strain on the enthusiasm and the emotions to keep on gibbering over a world series when it runs into its second week as this one now is certain to do. Moreover, there is no real difference between a world series game and a routine game of ball and the management over here has contributed nothing to the illusion of special importance.

But for the dashing enthusiasm of Dirty-face Martin, who is young enough and rural enough to regard the world series as the greatest show on earth and himself as a great man, the whole proceedings might have been pretty dull. He saved the party.

Jamaica Race Track, Oct. 7 (A.P.). Condescend, Frank E. Brown's 3-year-old colt, ran right back to his recent winning race to score a galloping victory over some smart sprinters in the Belgrade Claiming Stakes, at 6 furlongs, here today. G. L. Arvins' Sonnelli was second, beaten six lengths for the $2,140 purse. J. J. Robinson's Glidella lost the place by a half length. The time was 1:11 4-5 and the winner was held at the liberal odds of 5 to 1.

Sonnelli's early speed carried him into a lead of nearly two lengths, but around the bend Condescend began to overhaul the pacemaker. At the head of the stretch Condescend had Sonnelli raced into defeat and he went to score in commanding style. Glidella closed fast to take the show.

town, offices were deserted, business stopped and St. Louisians ganged up wherever there was a radio, or telegraph reports brought in the glad tidings that Gabby Street's flock was flying away to a 3-to-2 game lead.

Throngs are planning to jam Union Station when the Birds arrive tomorrow afternoon and the stands will ring for Martin and his mates Friday when the home-towners turn out hoping to see Mack's Elephants routed for a necessary fourth win to give the Cards the 1931 classic.

PROFIT TAKING SAGS STOCK PRICES AGAIN

Decline Is Light as Market Hails Hoover's Proposal to Support Credits.

New York, Oct. 7 (A.P.).—While leading bankers worked quietly but quickly to perfect the organization of President Hoover's suggested $500,000,000 credit corporation for the relief of banks with frozen assets, the security markets today reflected the country's satisfaction over what was obviously regarded as a most practical step in the campaign against unreasoned fear.

A runaway stock market was hardly to have been expected on top of Tuesday's rally and after some good gains in the lively early trading shares settled back, making way for a substantial improvement in bonds.

Stocks closed lower—the decline averaged just a point—but the downward movement was quiet. Since gains of 1 to 5 points this morning had been added to yesterday's performance, profit-taking was inevitable, and to such sales Wall street attributed the reaction. The turnover totaled 2,819,638 shares.

Steel Loses Again.

U. S. Steel, lagging in the early rally, lost 3¾ net. Bethlehem and Allied Chemical were down 2¾ and American Telephone 2½. New York Central was down 4, Union Pacific 1⅞ and Atchison 1½. Woolworth, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Consolidated Gas, Pennsylvania, International Telephone, Union Carbide and General Motors lost in the vicinity of a point. General Electric and American Can were steady. Food shares, led by National Biscuit, firmed; so did the tobaccos. On the whole, the day's results were viewed as highly creditable.

Bankers emphasized that the plan now being worked out was not cure-all for the depression nor a haven for banking troubles brought on by mismanagement. However, it was pointed out that the credit corporation could help solvent banks which had been losing deposits through hysterical withdrawals and which found themselves virtually helpless because of immovable assets.

Also of great importance is the probable effect on the public mind; restoration of confidence is just now most necessary and unless that is achieved bankers believe it is hopeless to talk of stability.

Organizing Is Started.

Newspapers announcing the President's plan were hardly on the streets before leaders of the financial community were organizing for their task, and by late afternoon the work was so well under way that the general scheme, involving establishment of local committees to approve the collateral of banks asking for loans, was made public.

Bankers expressed great satisfaction over the smoothness with which the machinery was set in motion and also with the favorable response throughout the country. They hoped that the first obstacle—the halting of fear—had been surmounted.

How much the recent gloom has set back business is evident from the trade statistics. Steel-making apparently is not to have a seasonal gain worthy of the name, for the downward trend of production, as "Iron Age" noted, is still unchecked. That review placed current operations at "not above 29 per cent" whereas a week ago the rate was 31 per cent.

Buying May Revive.

Nevertheless, there are still hopes that purchases by automobile, rail and pipe line manufacturers will improve in the last quarter.

Gold movements were resumed, with exports of nearly $29,000,000 to France, Switzerland, England and Austria and the withdrawal of $6,196,000 for earmark account. Foreign exchanges were mixed. Sterling dropped 8 cents net to $3.86. The German mark and the Canadian dollar firmed, the latter rising ¾ of a cent to 89.50.

Commodities eased. Wheat's losses, ranging from ⅛ to ⅞, reflecting decreased export buying and forecasts of rain in some districts. Corn lost ⅝ to 1 cent on large country offerings, increased Chicago receipts and a bearish weekly weather report. Cotton rallied with stocks at the opening, but sagged later, losing 40 to 55 cents a bale net.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Oct. 7 (A.P.).—Grain traders who had enthusiastically bought in anticipation of last night's White House conference on the business situation, moved quickly to realize profits today. Fresh advances in all cereals were thus turned into declines. Stock market recessions had much to do with bringing about this result.

Wheat closed unsettled, ⅝@⅞ cents lower. Corn a shade to 1@1⅛ down. Oats a shade to ⅞ off, and provisions varying from 12 cents decline to an equal gain.

At no time were wheat prices more than about a cent a bushel below yesterday's finish, so that the market retained fully half of the advance which had been directly based on President Hoover's action in calling the White House conference. A new upward trend was shown in today's early dealings, although gains were hindered by the fact that the Liverpool wheat market showed itself comparatively unresponsive. It soon became apparent, however, that most traders regarded yesterday's advance of 2½ cents as having largely discounted beforehand the effect of the President's program.

Persistent sluggishness of export demand for wheat from North America operated later as a drag on the market. An additional handicap to wheat bulls was word of a slight increase of Argentina planting as, compared with preliminary forecasts. There were also advices that wheat arrivals in Great Britain were too large to justify much advance. Under such circumstances, a decrease in domestic receipts of wheat today and continued absence of rain in domestic winter wheat territory failed to act as a counterbalance.

Corn and oats sold off with wheat after a strong opening. Corn receipts were liberal, much larger than either a week or a year ago.

Late weakness of grains eased the provision market, despite upturns of hog values.

BONDS GAIN ON NEWS OF BANK AID PLANS

All Departments Share Rise With Rails and Utilities Leading Advance.

New York, Oct. 7 (A.P.).—Bonds rallied confidently today in response to President Hoover's plan for releasing frozen assets of banks. All departments shared in the rise which amounted to 1.5 points in the Standard Statistics-Associated Press average of 60 issues, one of the sharpest advances in some time. The turnover was $16,707,000.

Rails and utilities were particularly strong, and in many instances the demand was active. Substantial gains, running to several points, were numerous, although these reflected chiefly the thinness of the market.

Carrier bonds legal for savings bank investment in this State strengthened encouragingly, and rallies of one to three points or more were well sustained, embracing Baltimore & Ohio general 4s, Rock Island 4s, Chesapeke & Ohio 4½s, Great Northern 7s, Illinois Central 4s, Pennsylvania general 5s, Wabash 5s and many others. Canadian railroad loans were especially buoyant. There was some heaviness in the Missouri Pacific 5s.

American Telephone 5s of 1965 had a large turnover and closed fractionally higher. Columbia Gas 5s, Consolidated Gas of New York 4½s, International Telephone 4½s, Utah Light 5s and Western Union 5s appreciated considerably.

Features in the industrial list were Goodrich issues, Remington 6s, Chile Copper 5s, American I. G. Chemical 5½s. International Match 5s and Standard Oil of New York 4½s.

Foreigns were mostly higher, exceptions being the German 5½s and 7s. The latter lost 3½. United States obligations were somewhat mixed. Liberty Fourth 4¼s lost ¼ in a substantial turnover, but volume in other issues was moderate.

Also part of original lot 12 in said square 222, described as follows: Beginning for the same at the southeast corner of said lot, and running thence west on H street, 31 feet to the west line of the west wall of the house on the east part of said lot; thence south on said line of the said wall 131 feet 2 inches to an alley; thence east 31 feet to the southeast corner of said lot; thence north 131 feet 2 inches to the beginning. Also part of original lot 3 in square 222, described as follows: Beginning for the same on the south line of said lot, twelve (12), distant 29 feet 4 inches from the southeast corner of said lot 12, and running thence southeasterly on an alley in said square, 17 feet; thence in a straight line north of east 24 feet 6¾ inches to a point directly south of and distant 5.59 feet from the southeast corner of said lot 12; thence north, 5.59 feet to the southeast corner of said lot 12; and thence west on the south line of said lot 12, 29 feet 4 inches to the place of beginning, now known as lot 22 in said square.

TERMS OF SALE: Said property will be sold subject to an overdue first trust, recorded in liber 6214 folio 257, securing the New York Life Insurance Company in the sum of $1,500,000 with interest at 5 per cent, secured on lot 21 square 222, as described above, and subject further to an overdue trust recorded in liber 6312 folio 179 securing the New York Life Insurance Company in the sum of $500,000 with interest at 5½ per cent, secured as the first trust on part of lot 3 and part of lot 12, square 222, as described above, and as a second trust on lot 21 square 222 as described above; also subject to overdue and accrued interest on both aforesaid deeds of trust and taxes to date of sale. Full particulars of said deeds of trust and the amount of unpaid and overdue interest and taxes will be stated at the time of sale.

The purchase price (over and above said trusts, and overdue and accrued interest and taxes to date of sale, as aforesaid) to be paid $50,000 as a deposit at the time of sale, and a further sum of $75,000 to be paid within thirty days from day of sale, and the remainder to be paid in equal amounts in one and two years, with interest at 6 per cent per annum, payable semiannually, and to be secured by a purchase money deed of trust on said property. All adjustments to be made as of date of sale.

Terms to be complied with within thirty days, otherwise deposit forfeited and the property may be advertised and resold at the risk and cost of the defaulting purchaser after five days' advertisement of such resale in some newspaper published in Washington, D. C. Conveyancing, recording, &c., at purchaser's cost.

GEORGE N. EVERETT,
BRAINARD W. PARKER,
Trustees.

NOTE: The New York Life Insurance Company, owner and holder of the notes described in the deeds of trust above referred to recorded in liber 6214 folio 257 and liber 6312 folio 179, respectively, have agreed to extend for any purchaser said principal sums secured by said deeds of trust for a period of 5 years from September 1, 1931, with interest at 5 per cent, with semiannual curtails of 1¼ per cent, starting at the end of 18 months, upon payment of all overdue interest and taxes.

This renewal is also subject to usual appraisal and brokerage fees.

MRS. SMITH NAMED TO SERVE AS ACTING SCHOOL BOARD HEAD

Woman Is Chairman for the First Time; Was 1930 Vice President.

VACANCY WAS CREATED BY LEARNED RESIGNATION

Tuition Rates for Nonresident Pupils Cut; Bicentennial Plans Started.

Mrs. Philip Sydney Smith was appointed acting chairman of the Board of Education yesterday afternoon after the board decided to postpone election of a new president to succeed Dr. H. B. Learned, who resigned a few days after the last meeting, until the District Supreme Court accepts the resignation and appoints a new member.

Mrs. Smith has presided at board meetings on several occasions during the absence of the president. At the close of the last school year she was nominated for the office of vice president together with Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle. No election has taken place since the nominations were made.

As Mrs. Smith was vice president of the board last year, she was given precedence over Mrs. Doyle. She is the first woman to preside over the board during a vacancy in the office of president. Women have presided over board meetings before, but only during the temporary absence of the president then in office.

The board was notified formally yesterday of Dr. Learned's resignation through transmission of a letter of resignation sent to Chief Justice Wheat of the District Supreme Court. School authorities learned first of the resignation when Harry O. Hine went to the home of Dr. Learned to have some letters signed and was informed by Mrs. Learned that the board president had resigned to go to California to teach.

Tuition Rates Cut.

The board approved tuition rates for nonresident pupils. All the rates were decreased except those at the teachers' colleges. The new rates follow: Teachers' colleges, $224.78, an increase of $13.50; senior high schools, $135.52, a decrease of 25 cents; junior high schools, $112.30, a decrease of $10.66; elementary schools, $69.68, a decrease of 91 cents; vocational schools, $133.68, a decrease of $2.12; summer schools, $4.48, a decrease of 25 cents, and evening schools, $10.36, a decrease of $1.79.

The majority of nonresident pupils escape paying any fee, because of parents employed by the Government and other privileges. Only one pupil paid tuition at the Teachers' College last year; 31 at senior high schools, 11 at junior high, 4 at elementary, none at vocational, 14 at summer, and 12 at evening.

A committee to plan the schools' observance of the George Washington bicentennial was appointed, as follows: Paul E. Lutz, professor of social studies at Wilson Teachers' College, and Francis Gregory, teacher of English, at Miner Teachers' College; Allen Davis, principal of Business High School; W. L. Smith, principal of Dunbar; George J. Jones, head of the department of English in white high schools; Mrs. Lola Hutchins, English teacher, Central; Miss Grace Holmes, science teacher, Eastern; Miss Jennie Mustapha, English teachers, Cardoza.

Principals Named.

Dr. Harold E. Warner, principal of Hine Junior High School; Mrs. M. H. Plummer, principal of Francis Junior High; Miss Caroline E. Toner, English teacher at MacFarland Junior High; Mrs. Irene Miller Reid, mathematics teacher at Garnet Patterson Junior High.

The following elementary school supervisors and teachers were appointed: Selden M. Ely, supervising principal of the fifth division; Leon L. Perry, eleventh division supervising principal; Miss Ella M. Crook, principal of French-Wallach School; Miss Blanch L. Pulizzi, principal of Tenley Janney; Mrs. R. S. Netherland, principal of Burrville; Mrs. J. F. Hilder, second grade teacher at West; Miss Ethel L. Garney, fourth grade teacher at Park View; Miss Helen V. Harper, fifth grade teacher at Bryan, and Miss Lydia B. Chew, sixth grade teacher at Garrison. Mrs. Philip Sydney Smith, as a member of the District Bicentennial Commission, was appointed to represent the Board of Education on the committee.

Jere J. Crane, first assistant superintendent in charge of business affairs, submitted a report showing that of 34 new school buildings slated for completion this year only five, not including Western High School, are still uncompleted. Mr. Crane said that he was assured the buildings would be in readiness before the end of the year. The buildings yet to be completed are the Murch addition, the Powell Junior addition, the Shepherd School, the Stuart Junior High and gymnasium and the Key addition.

Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent, announced that the preliminary report on character education was completed and ready for distribution. Daniel C. Roper, board member, objected to a general distribution until a more complete study is made of the subject. Henry Gilligan, board member held that character education should be based on a spiritual foundation, and suggested that a rabbi, a priest and a protestant be appointed to give the matter study. The suggestion was tabled for further discussion.

Acting on recommendation of the building and grounds committee, the board urged the District to acquire land in the Reno section immediately for a new high school.

Mr. Gilligan was appointed to confer with the United States marshal, the corporation counsel and, if necessary, the chief justice of the District Supreme Court to decide how deputy marshals should go about the serving of papers on school pupils.

The board ruled last year that students should be served with papers at home and not at school. The marshal has objected to this, pointing to the inability to serve papers under such a system on students who attend school in Washington and live in Maryland or Virginia.

Pensioner on Grand Jury Cited in Contempt Action

Spanish War Veteran Is Ordered to Appear October 14 in Failure to Answer Properly Questions at Examination for Jury Service.

Justice James M. Proctor yesterday issued an order requiring Henry L. Johnson, Spanish-American War veteran, who draws a pension from the Government, to appear before him October 14 and show why he should not be adjudged in contempt of court for failure to answer properly questions when he was being examined for grand jury service.

Johnson, although he was ineligible for such service because of his pension, was allowed to become a member and ten weeks work by the grand jury was thrown into the discard, when the fact of his pension was discovered. The cases that went for naught were those in which the third degree charges centered, and almost 250 other indictments.

A petition by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover charged that Johnson "willfully and contemptuously refrained from advising the court of the fact" that he was drawing a pension, though the question was asked him twice.

Johnson was sworn in on July 7, and he served ten weeks until the knowledge that he was a pensioner came to the United States Attorney. The next day he was called before Justice Jesse C. Adkins and in response to an inquiry admitted he was drawing a pension.

He was thereupon excused from further jury service and his place was filled the next day.

NEW COURT TERMS HALT STAPLES QUIZ

Lawyers Drop Frame-Up Probe to Attend to Private Business.

Investigation of the alleged "framing" of former Policeman Orville Staples is liable to meet with some delay in the next few days because of the opening of District courts for a new term.

Henry P. Blair, chairman of the committee named by the District Commissioners to study the report of the recent "illegal" grand jury that Staples was dismissed on the strength of perjured testimony, said yesterday that his committee was making every effort to speed the inquiry and to present its report at an early date, but that some members of the committee had cases before the courts and would be forced to suspend some of the sessions of the board.

Will Not Guess.

Mr. Blair said he would "make no guess" as to when the lawyers' committee would report its finding to the Commissioners. He maintained his policy of strict secrecy as to the workings of the board.

It is known, however, that former Policeman Robert J. Allen was the chief witness before the five lawyers yesterday. Allen was closeted with the board for more than 2½ hours.

The committee is understood to have questioned Allen about the Staples case. Allen had no connection with the case when it was passed upon by the Police Trial Board in May, 1928, but he took an active part in the recent grand jury review of the case, and received that body's public commendation for his assistance.

Seek Other Sources.

The lawyers will attempt to get around the refusal of another former policeman, Frederick A. Schenck, to testify at "star chamber" sessions of their board, by securing from other sources information Schenck is believed to possess.

Schenck, who instigated the Staples investigation, was brought to the District, for a second time, from Leavenworth Penitentiary, to testify. When the attorneys sought to question him, however, he refused flatly to tell the story at a secret session. He maintained that the public must hear his story if he tells it again.

The lawyers' committee asked Schenck to call them if he changed his attitude, but so far Schenck has maintained silence in his cell at the District Jail.

Policeman, Hurt, Sought 4 Hours

Tutt, of Traffic Squad, Limps Back After Accident.

A search for Policeman H. O. Tutt, of the Traffic Bureau, lasted for four hours yesterday before the officer appeared in the Traffic Bureau limping from an injury received in Bladensburg, Md.

Tutt and another policeman, J. T. White, were on the Bladensburg road when a machine sped by them. They set out after it, and White was distanced just after the District line was reached. The speeding car, with Tutt behind, turned into a dirt road at Bladensburg, and the policeman was thrown from his machine.

The automobile struck a tree not far from Tutt and the operator jumped out and ran, with Tutt doing the best he could to catch him. Meantime, the damaged motorcycle had been found and taken to the Police Station at Bladensburg, when White, coming along later, saw it, he sent out a lookout for Tutt. Tutt was the object of an intensive search until he finally appeared, and then went to Police court to swear out a warrant for the man in whose name the car was listed.

Holy Name Societies Will Plan for Feast

The executive committee of the Washington section of the Archdiocesan Union of Holy Name Societies will meet at 7:45 o'clock tonight at Immaculate Conception Hall, Eighth and N streets northwest.

Plans will be made for the celebration of the feast of Christ the King, and the holding of the next quarterly meeting, according to Caesar L. Aiello, president.

GRAND JURY CHOSEN BY JUSTICE PROCTOR

Telegraph Man Foreman of Group of 23, Including Three Women.

Three women and twenty men, one of them a Negro, were selected to serve on the grand jury yesterday.

Theodore B. Gittings, manager of the delivery department of the Western Union Telegraph Co., was named as foreman. He is 30 years old and resides at 4522 Illinois avenue northwest. Justice James M. Proctor directed Mr. Gittings to preside at sessions and to act as directing officer.

Other members chosen were: L. Harry Rider, 619 Fourteenth street northwest; Thomas H Dennis, 1118 Owen place northeast; Mrs. Catherine Armentrout, 2910 Twelfth street northeast; R. Frederick Daw, 824 Aspen street northwest; Elmer F. Hays, 3220 Brothers place southeast; Lawrence P. Dorr, 128 R street northeast; William P. Moran, 1728 Allison street northwest; George E. O'Rourke, 724 Tuckerman street northwest; Harry A. Cassell, 5307 Connecticut avenue northwest; Mrs. Elizabeth Hoffman, 424 Delafield place northwest; Benjamin T. Henderson, 1342 K street southeast; John W. Saunders, 1201 I street northeast.

Gas Merger Action Plaintiff in Doubt

Roberts Asked to Decide Who Shall Start Suit Under La Follette Law.

The District Commissioners yesterday asked William A. Roberts, special assistant corporation counsel, for a formal opinion as to which District agency should bring the proposed suit against the owners of the Washington Gas & Light Co. for violation of the La Follette antimerger law.

The act states that the District Supreme Court may act "on application of the District of Columbia by its Commissioners or attorney." The law was enacted prior to the creation of the Public Utilities Commission, which conducted the gas inquiry, and hence it does not specify this body, which should properly institute the suit.

As Corporation Counsel William W. Bride is attorney for both the Commissioners and the utilities body, he might well bring the suit. The whole problem is a technical one, however, as the same attorneys will prosecute the case in either instance. The previous suit was filed in the name of the District heads.

Employment Committee Will Hear Job Reports

Plans for providing jobs for the unemployed this winter will be considered by the District committee on employment at its first fall meeting at 4:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. A report will also be made by George J. Adams, jr., executive secretary, on activities of his staff during the summer.

The committee, appointed last fall by the District Commissioners, comprises 164 citizens. Frederic A. Delano is chairman.

Today Sees Start Of Traffic Survey

Questionnaires Are to Be Handed to Drivers by Recorders.

If an officious-looking individual in uniform stops your car today and hands you a ticket, accept it without trepidation, for its not likely to prove what you think, if you've been moderately careful in your driving.

This is the day set by the Bureau of Public Roads, now making a traffic survey of the area of Washington, to begin distribution of questionaire cards to drivers. Vehicles will be stopped and cards distributed over a period of 26 days.

Painting Inexplicably Lost As Mysteriously Returned

A 6 by 4 foot painting depicting "Lindbergh Crossing the Atlantic in the Spirit of St. Louis," valued at $2,500, mysteriously spirited from the second floor gallery of a Connecticut avenue art shop Tuesday, was recovered yesterday by Detective Sergt. C. E. Mansfield in almost as mysterious a manner. The detective would not reveal where the picture was found.

Isador Kune, proprietor of the shop, reported the theft Tuesday evening. He said he last definitely remembered seeing the painting several days ago. It was painted by James Waring, 1426 M street northwest.

Late yesterday afternoon Aloysius J. McGrath, 30, who gave his address as 1803 Biltmore street northwest and his occupation as a draftsman, was arrested by Detective Mansfield and booked on a charge of investigation at headquarters.

TRADE GROUP VOTES TO PUSH EFFORT FOR ROOSEVELT STADIUM

Business Men Will Continue in Spite of Decision by Memorial Group.

PUBLIC ECONOMY NEED IS KEYNOTE OF DINNER

Committee Chairmen Report on Progress of Work on Many Projects.

Continued effort to bring about establishment of a $5,000,000 Roosevelt Memorial stadium or coliseum in Washington was pledged last night by officers, directors and committee chairmen of the Washington Board of Trade at their initial fall meeting at the Willard Hotel.

Board leaders did not appear disheartened by recent announcement of Hermann Hagedorn, secretary of the Roosevelt Memorial Association, that the association has definitely decided not to build such a structure. The association's acquisition of Analostan Island preceded the announcement.

Keynote of last night's dinner, which was attended by more than 150 business men, was need of holding the tax rate in the District to a minimum and exercise of greatest economy in requests for new appropriations in preference to a tax increase or new taxes.

Foreclosure Proposal Scored.

Particular stress was laid on this necessity by Joshua Evans, jr., president of the District National Bank; Edward F. Colladay and E. C. Brandenburg.

The mortgage foreclosure law which Congress has "attempted to impose" on the District was condemned as "pernicious and ridiculous" by Joseph A. Burkart, chairman of the law committee.

Commenting on the third degree investigation, Odell S. Smith, chairman of the public order committee, declared that the most important job awaiting his committee is "putting back a heart into the Police Department."

Insurance Code Attacked.

A withering attack on the insurance code was delivered by David M. Lea, chairman of the insurance and fire protection committee. He said that despite repeated requests to Congress by the Board of Trade and other local organizations to improve the insurance laws nothing has been done.

Recommendation by William Knowles Cooper, chairman of the universities and private schools committee, that the board encourage private schools and colleges to locate in Washington drew a sharp retort from Mr. Colladay, who declared that Washington has plenty of fine schools and colleges "and we should try to keep up the ones we have."

Single Water Control Aim.

The committee on water supply will support efforts of the Bureau of Efficiency to place District water control under one head, M. X. Wilberding, chairman of the committee, announced.

Protection of Washington airport from hazards will be continued by the aviation committee following its success in removal of trees and elimination of the plan to erect large columns on Arlington Memorial Bridge, it was announced by the chairman, Lawrence E. Williams.

Anton Stephan, chairman of the committee on military and naval affairs, revealed that chances are bright for establishment of National Guard headquarters in the Pension Office, as there is strong likelihood this building will be vacated during the year.

G. W. Offutt Presides.

Other committee chairmen that announced plans included: A. J. Driscoll, American ideals; Walter S. Pratt, jr., charities and corrections; E. Taylor Chewning, industrial interests; T. A. Mullet, municipal art; Theodore W. Noyes, national representation; Charles F. Consaul, parks and reservations; Dr. D. Percy Hickling, public health; Stephen E. Kramer, public library; Robert F. Beresford, public and private buildings; John Lewis Smith, public schools; William J. Eynon, public utilities and transportation; Frank P. Leetch, river and harbor improvement; George V. Graham, streets and avenues; Theodore P. Noyes, traffic; Harry Blake, zoning; Milton Schwab, membership; Harry Helwig, midwinter dinner.

George W. Offutt, president of the board, presided.

SCHOOLS KEPT DRY BY USE OF PUMPS, WOMAN DECLARES

Rising Waters Are Fought Day and Night, She Tells Association.

MAJ. ROBB DEMANDS AND RECEIVES NAMES

Assistant to Commissioner Defends Locations of Three Buildings.

Charges that electric pumps must be operated day and night to keep water from rising in three District schools were made last night before Maj. H. L. Robb, assistant to the Engineer Commissioner, at a meeting of the District of Columbia Public School Association.

The charges were made by Mrs. Daniel Murray, following an address by Maj. Robb on the problems of schoolhouse construction. She named the Armstrong and Dunbar High Schools and the John F. Cook Elementary School, at the request of Maj. Robb, who declared she had made "serious insinuations."

Mrs. Murray said the three schools, situated in the basin of the old Tiber Creek, represented an investment of between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000.

Piers and Concrete Use.

In building the Dunbar, 240 piers were sunk 40 feet deep when water was struck in digging the foundations, she said, adding that a similar condition was met in the same way at the Armstrong, and that a heavy concrete base was laid at the John F. Cook.

Since then it has been necessary to keep pumps continuously operating, and when the pumps have been faulty school has been dismissed on numerous occasions, she charged.

Maj. Robb, who at first challenged Mrs. Murray to name the schools, stating that he knew of no such condition, later declared that from her explanation authorities had taken every necessary precaution.

Maj. Robb, in his address, said District schools this year are ahead of schedule in their building program, pointing to the Murch School, which was not to be ready until February, but is now structurally complete.

Cloak Rooms Defended.

It was when he volunteered to answer questions at the close of his talk that Mrs. Murray made her charges. At this time also Mrs. E. C. Rittue declared she considered wide use of inside cloakrooms "unhealthy." Maj. Robb replied that aside from the problem of ventilation, which he hoped to overcome, he considered them "ideal."

The association indorsed its president, Herbert F. Wood, for appointment to the vacancy on the Board of Education brought about by the resignation of Dr. H. Barrett Learned. Mrs. Rittue was elected chairman of the committee on educational methods, and Mrs. Rittue and Mrs. Murray, to membership on the program committee. Resolutions of condolence on the death of Mrs. Edna Dubois, a former member, were adopted.

West Virginians' Officers Inducted

Dance and Card Party Also Mark Meeting of State Group.

Installation of officers followed by a dance and card party occupied the first fall meeting of the West Virginia State Society last night at Medidian Mansions, 2400 Sixteenth street northwest.

The officers inducted were: John W. Smith, president; first vice president, W. J. Lyle; second vice president, Mrs. Frank L. Bowman, wife of Representative Bowman, of West Virginia; third vice president, Elonza Morgan; fourth vice president, E. H. Nunnally; fifth vice president, Representative Hugh I Shott, of West Virginia; sixth vice president, Representative Joe L. Smith, of West Virginia; treasurer, Col. William J. De Grange; financial secretary, Mrs. Nellie V. Hollis, and corresponding secretary, John L. Bateman, who has served for twelve terms.

Plans for a Mothers' Day celebration next May were discussed. It was indicated that Miss Anna Jarvis, of Philadelphia, a native West Virginian and founder of Mothers' Day, had signified her intention to attend the exercises.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

SONG FOR THE FLEET.

OH, it's "Jack Tar," "Gob" and "Hero"
When the country's in a fight,
And it's "Uncle Sam's protectors"
When there's need of brawn and might;
Oh, it's "Rah for Yankee Doodle!"
When the bombs fall all about,
But when Sammie cuts expenses
It's just "Throw that sailor out!"

Oh, it's "brave and splendid fighter"
When there's scrapping to be done,
And it's "backbone of the Nation"
When it's time to man the gun;
Oh, it's "bulldogs of the ocean"
When the shells about him burst,
But when they must cut the pay roll
It is, "Sack the sailor first!"

It is "Hail the conquering hero"
When the Nation goes to war,
And it's "Never shall he suffer"
When the big twelve-pounders roar;
It is "He's the country's mainstay—
"Hail the gallant, gritty gob"—
But when some one tightens purse-strings
It's just "Take that sailor's job.

He's a very noble fellow
And the Government's his friend
When there's trouble in the offing
And there's coastline to defend;
But when statesmen talk of budgets
No one seems to hesitate
To demand in tones quite vibrant,
"Hey there! Give those gobs the gate!"

Record Enrollment Taxes Night Schools' Facilities

Standing Room Only at Business High; Registration Gains 1,521 on Second Night, Bringing Total to 8,858; More Teachers Needed.

Unexpected increase in night school enrollment, which last night brought totals to 8,858, breaking all records, found teaching facilities inadequate.

Rolls increased 1,521 over Monday night, while Night School Director Edward J. Lockwood strove vainly to reapportion classes, some of which have enrollments up to 110.

He said he needed 10 to 15 more teachers, but did not know where to get money to pay them. In several classes, notably at Hine, McKinley and Business high schools, students were lined around the walls, and in some instances stood out in the halls.

Business High School was enrolled up to capacity; Director Lockwood believed he would have to transfer typewriting and stenography students to the Abbott School, and enrollments are not yet closed. He is looking for an even greater influx next week.

Enrollment last night at the seven white night schools totaled 5,722, representing an increase of 1,266 over Monday, the first night of the fall session.

Figures for these schools were as follows: Macfarland, 351; McKinley, 2,182; Business, 1,888; Abbott, 145; Americanization, 330 (approximate); Hine, 736; and Jefferson, 90.

Colored night schools reported enrollments of 3,136, an increase of 255 over the opening night, evidenced principally at the Shaw School, of senior high school grade. While the increase does not indicate that more persons were present at the Shaw last night than on Monday, it reveals a larger number certified as qualified for entrance on work of high-school grade following careful examination.

The revised enrollment in colored schools follows: Armstrong, 582; Shaw, 1,042; Garnet-Patterson, 970; Francis, 146; Bell, 121; Burrville, 50; Deanwood, 44; Lovejoy, 104; Slater, 67; Briggs, 10.

OHIO FARM EXPERTS HURT IN CAR CRASH

Four Attend Session Here After Receiving Treatment for Injuries.

Despite injuries and a shaking-up in an automobile accident which delayed their arrival in Washington, four Ohio agricultural experts carried out plans to attend the interstate meeting at the Raleigh Hotel last night preliminary to today's Federal public hearing on extension of the Japanese-beetle-control area.

The victims were I. S. Guthrie, Ohio director of agriculture; J. S. Houser, entomologist in the experiment station at Wooster, Ohio; State Senator W. W. Farnsworth and Dr. D. M. Delong, professor of entomology at Ohio State University. A fifth member of their party, Charles A. Reese, remained at Georgetown Hospital for treatment. He is attached to the Ohio department of agriculture.

The midwesterners were en route to the Capital when their automobile, driven by Mr. Reese, struck a machine which was turning into Lee highway from Villa road at Aurora Hills, Va. In the collision, the Ohioans' car overturned. Robert L. Norfolk, 53, of 910 Tenth street southeast, was at the wheel of the second machine.

McPherson Case Trial Held by Mock Court

Judge Robert E. Mattingly, of the District Police Court, last night presided at a mock trial of the now famous McPherson case. The trial featured a meeting of Sergt. Jasper Post, No. 13, American Legion, in the Thomas Circle Club.

Thomas J. Frally played the defendant while other members of the organization formed the jury and were attorneys for defense and prosecution. A verdict of "not guilty" was returned. Fred Fraser, post commander, addressed the post meeting.

Girl Tries Suicide To Escape School

Mary Laskowitz, 15, Taken to Hospital After Drinking Poison.

Because she possessed an intense dislike for Eastern High School and classes of any description, Mary Elizabeth Laskowitz, 15, of 710 Tenth street southeast, was in a serious condition at Casualty Hospital last night after she attempted suicide by swallowing a quantity of poison yesterday morning.

The girl played "hookey" Monday, and her absence was reported to her father Tuesday. He told her yesterday morning that he would see her after school to have a little talk. Yesterday morning she was rather slow getting ready for school, and her mother heard her coughing upstairs. She went up and found that her daughter had swallowed a large dose of poison.

Thief Makes Defi; Picks Out His Loot

Resident of House Is Ordered Into Room by Burglar.

A burglar who, interrupted in his work by a woman, forced her into a room and then continued calmly to choose his loot, was sought last night by Tenth Precinct police. When his "job" was finished, he had taken jewelry and clothing valued at $115 and given Miss Clara Bard a bad scare.

Miss Bard, who lives at 324 Varnum street northwest, told police she encountered the intruder at the head of the stairs and was ordered into a room after he demanded her money. She replied she had none.

OFFICERS SELECTED BY CATHOLIC WOMEN

Miss Hawks Again Head; Committee Reports Heard as Conference Ends.

Reelection of Miss Mary G. Hawks, of Summit, N. J., as president of the National Council of Catholic Women marked the closing sessions of the four-day conference yesterday at Mayflower Hotel.

Other officers elected are: Mrs. George V. McIntyre, of Chicago, first vice president; Mrs. Henry J. Keyser, Milwaukee, second vice president; Mrs. Harry LaBerge, Yakima, Wash., third vice president; Miss Ann S. Hooley, Kansas City, Mo., secretary, and Miss R. K. LeBlond, Cincinnati, Ohio, treasurer.

National committee reports were heard at the morning sessions. Miss Margaret T. Lynch, assistant executive secretary, spoke on "The Youth Conference," and a discussion on the subject was led by Mrs. Robert Cahill, Miss Sara Laughlin, Miss Mabel Shannon and Miss Dorothy Willmann.

A feature of the evening banquet was a message by His Excellency, the Most Reverend Fumasoni-Biondi, apostolic delegate to the United States. Following, the Rev. Biondi pronounced benediction.

Tenley Circle Zone Proposal Is Fought

Citizens Oppose Plan to Permit Construction of Apartment.

Opposition to rezoning of Tenley Circle from residential to apartment status was contained in a resolution adopted last night by the Friendship citizens Association in its first fall meeting. The zoning commission has been withholding final action on the matter pending consideration by the association.

Tripling of the association's membership as result of a membership drive was reported. About 200 members have been added since opening the campaign when membership was approximately 75.

Boy Skates Into Auto; Driver Fined on Brakes

Earl Parker, colored, 3310 New Hampshire avenue, was fined $5 yesterday on a charge of driving with faulty brakes.

Parker was operating a machine with which 15-year-old Milton Hunter, 17 Eighth street northeast, collided Tuesday while roller skating. The boy suffered a broken collarbone and lacerations of the face. A previous story said Parker's car struck the boy.

Crusaders Draft Campus Campaign

Say Butler Advised War in Colleges Against Dry Law.

The Crusaders, "militant" association of antoprohibitionists, yesterday mapped a campaign for prohibition repeal that will take them onto the college campus.

The plan, agreed on at a meeting of commanders from a dozen States at the Mayflower Hotel yesterday, was suggested by Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, members claimed. Dean Mendell of Yale and President Hibben of Princeton urged their students to join the organization, the Crusaders asserted.

Four members yesterday filed through President Hoover's office and shook hands with him. The group, led by Capt. James G. Hall, New York's "flying broker," exchanged only formal greetings with the President. They were not listed, among the presidential engagements, as representatives of the Crusaders.

Prince Georges Road House Law Is Upheld in Appeal

The Prince Georges County roadhouse law was upheld yesterday by the Circuit Court when it confirmed findings of the police court, which convicted L. S. Rorer of giving more than one dance a week at the Garden Club, Meadows road.

Rorer was fined $50 in the lower court when it was shown that he held nightly dances, although he had no license from the county commissioners. His was the first conviction under the act, although the law was invoked last summer to close some dances in Berwyn. Rorer now is facing two charges of possession of liquor in a Federal court, as well as one county charge. He has had one previous conviction for liquor since opening the club last spring.

A jury decided that a man was entitled to a return of his rent if he had to move out of a house because of vermin. The decision came in the case of Leslie E. Vaughn vs. Chester A. Bear and George Evans. Vaughn asked that Bear and Evans, owner and agent for a house he compelled to return $45, which he had paid as rent in advance. He told the jury that he was forced to leave the house after two nights.

AVIATION CLUBHOUS FOR SPRING VALLE FOUGHT BY CITIZEN

Zoning Board Is Told Pla of Air Legion Would Cut Home Values.

CLEVELAND PARK GROUP RAPS APARTMENT HOUS

Decisions in 27 Rezonin Cases Expected to Be Made Today.

The proposal of the Air Legion, In to erect an expensive clubhouse f aviators on a tract of land adjacent Spring Valley, exclusive residenti section, brought a storm of protes yesterday afternoon when the applic tion was heard by the District Zon ing Commission.

Although the Air Legion original asked for the rezoning of approx mately 126 acres adjacent to Condu road, Loughboro road, Klingle stree and other thoroughfares, Col. J. Moog, president of the organizatio modified the request at the openi of the hearing by eliminating the pr posal for the present of establishing landing field and a golf course.

Representatives of the Condu Road Citizens Association, the Amer can University Park Citizens Associa tion, and the Federation of Citize Associations appeared in opposition t the project on the ground that would reduce the values of the homes and would create eventuall hazard.

Scheme Is Charged.

Charges were made by Roger White ford, attorney, and Clyde S. Bake chairman of the parks committee o the Conduit road group, that the ap plication merely shielded a scheme t permit eventual erection of ro houses in the area asked to b changed from residential A restricte to residential B. This allegation wa vigirously denied by Air Legion repre representatives.

William A. Roberts, special assistan corporation counsel, and Harry Quinn chairman of the zoning committee o the Federation of Citizens Associa tions, also spoke against granting th application.

Object to Proposal.

Representatives of the North Cleve land Park Citizens Association vigor ously objected to the proposal o changing a tract bounded by Alto place, Thirty-ninth, Fortieth and Yum streets, from residential A restricte to residential C, so as to permit th erection of an apartment house in th midst of private residences.

An avalanche of protests greete the application of increasing the com mercial area near the intersection o Mount Pleasant, Harvard and Six teenth streets. James C. Wilkes, repre senting the owners of the Embass Apartments, argued for the change.
